Duce Fails In Attempt At Yugoslav Mediation

Situation 'Hopeless,' German Legation Official Says; Nazis Charge Atrocities

Belgrade, April 1.—An eleventh-hour attempt by Italy to halt Germany's apparent headlong plunge into war with Yugoslavia through mediation by the Duce himself in Rome, appears doomed at the outset tonight by Germany's intensified hostility and the reported statement of a German legation spokesman that "the situation is hopeless."

The Italian peace offensive was apparently launched during the morning by Italian Minister Giorgio Mamelli, with the suggestion that Premier General Dusan Simovic and Foreign Minister Momcilo Nincic ask Mussolini to act as Axis mediator in the Yugoslav-German situation.

Nazis Charge Atrocities

The Yugoslav government has not rejected the proposal, according to reliable information, but there is no confirmation of Italian-inspired reports that Second Vice Premier Slovdan Jovanovitch will be instructed to go to Rome to lay the entire case before the Duce.

The gravity of German-Yugoslav relations since the recall yesterday of the German Minister was emphasized tonight by German radio reports—following the pre-Poland pattern—of the wildest disorder in Yugoslavia, numberless atrocities against German minorities in this country, including the pillaging and burning of villages and shops, the arrest of German minority "fuehrers" and outright murder of Germans in the Yugoslav Vojvodina.

While these reports were proved baseless in their entirety by thoroughly reliable telephonic information from the districts allegedly involved, and the official Yugoslav news agency has flatly denied them, Yugoslav government circles take the gravest view of the situation which appeared to be deteriorating with rapidity tonight.

The Italian effort is understood to have been dictated by the Yugoslav

Without Resistance

British Take Asmara, Trapping 130,000 Italians in Ethiopia

Collapse 'a Matter of Days,' Cairo Says; Troops Advance 75 Miles in 6 Days

By Walter Collins
United Press Staff Writer

Cairo, April 1.—The Eritrean capital of Asmara surrendered today to Britain's empire forces in the swift crumbling of Benito Mussolini's East African empire and British military leaders said that 130,000 to 150,000 Italian troops and civilians in central Ethiopia have been hopelessly trapped.

The city of 100,000 normal population was surrendered without a show of Italian resistance, it was stated officially.

With the Eritrean Red Sea coast and the port of Massaua laid open to the British conquest of Italy's oldest East African colony, it was predicted here that the collapse of Fascist East Africa "may now be only a matter of days."

Military quarters speculated on the chances of a sudden Italian capitulation of all Ethiopia to avoid needless slaughter and the increasing threat of bloody massacres of the Italians at the hands of primitive Ethiopian tribesmen.

[An Associated Press dispatch said British forces entering Diredawa reported its remaining Italian inhabitants as "being injured" by deserters from the disorganized Fascist colonial army.

[The extent of this native rising against the Italians was not stated, but it was said that, while the British restored order, they could not prevent some Italian casualties.]

English, Indian and Scottish Highlander troops stormed along a winding, rock-strewn road from Cheren to seize the plateau city of Asmara, from which the Italians launched the main blow of their conquest of Ethiopia in 1935-1936.

The British Empire troops covered the 75 miles in six days, moving

Mexico to Let U. S. Fighters Use Airfields

Agreement Permits Planes to Reach Canal Over Land

The United States and Mexico signed an agreement for joint use of air fields yesterday, first fruit of mutual defense talks between the neighbor nations that were announced March 5.

Of great strategic importance, the new agreement will permit rapid transit of American planes to the Panama Canal Zone.

Army planes will be able to fly over Mexico, rather than using the more hazardous over-water route, and stop at Mexican airfields for repairs and refueling.

The agreement permits United States planes to use the Mexican route by giving advance notice of the flight and route. It allows a 24-hour stopover at Mexican airfields and obligates Mexico to protect United States planes on its fields from any enemy attacks. Mexico enjoys the same privileges in the United States.

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and Francisco Castillo Najera, Mexican Ambassador, signed the agreement in the presence of Mexican and American military experts, who formed the committee to draft plans for protection of the Western Hemisphere.

The convention will be submitted to the United States Senate and to the Mexican Senate for approval.

The State Department announcement gave this description of the pact:

"Under this agreement the military aircraft of either country could transit within 24 hours the territory of the other over routes designated by the latter country, enjoying the facilities of regular landing points on land and sea."

The agreement is of special value for transit of pursuit and fighter ships to the canal. These planes, vital for defense at Panama, are not capable of protracted over-water hops.

The German and Italian notes of protest against the taking into protective custody of 30 Axis ships in American ports and the arrest in deportation proceedings of the 875 members of the crews will be rejected.

This was definitely indicated yesterday by Secretary Hull who said that the seizures were absolutely legal, and by a later announcement that Attorney General Jackson had authorized Federal attorneys to proceed immediately with prosecutions under sabotage statutes.

Persons found guilty are liable to maximum penalties of $10,000 fine or 20 years' imprisonment, or both. Where sabotage is found, the master of the vessel and the principal officers are held responsible, as well as any member of the crew upon whom guilt can be fixed.

According to the Coast Guard, the effects of sabotage were discovered in all except two of the 28 Italian ships, and in one of the two German ships.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents have begun investigating the sabotage cases. The inquiry is centered at present in Boston, where the German steamship Pauline Frederich was badly damaged and the Italian vessel Dino was slightly damaged, and in Mobile, Ala., where damage was done to the Italian ship Ida Z. Admitting that the question of convoys is under official study, President Roosevelt yesterday revealed to his press conference he has already allocated $1,080,000,000 of the $7,000,000,000 war-aid fund for purchase of food and weapons for Great Britain and at least one other Axis enemy, presumably Greece.

The huge sum of money is in addition to transfers of existing Army and Navy equipment, such as the French 75-mm. guns for Greece. The funds will pay for agricultural products and brand-new Army and Navy materiel, aircraft, motorized equipment and miscellaneous goods, he said.

The President's remark on the crucial convoy question came when a reporter asked if consideration were being given to the problem of "getting the goods to the other side."

Still Under Consideration

That has been under study for a year and a half and it is still under consideration, replied Mr. Roosevelt.

While making public the total of funds earmarked, the President at his first press conference following his brief fisherman's vacation off Florida was extremely close-mouthed about details of the allocations.

His features were deeply tanned and he appeared in a jovial self-confident mood.

The allocations, he said, were not blank-check grants, but were specifically assigned for procurement of specific equipment. He held before him a blue-backed memorandum from which he read to reporters.

Asked what material would be bought with the money, the President declined to go further than to say it would fall into five categories described in the $7,000,000,000 fund bill which he signed at sea Thursday.

The categories, he said, speaking from memory, were Army and Navy

Rouge Workers Begin Walkout After Company Charges Sit-down

By the Associated Press

Detroit (Wednesday), April 2.—The United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.) early today called a strike at the Ford Motor Co.'s giant Rouge plant at suburban Dearbron.

The announcement was made at 12:15 a. m. by R. J. Thomas, president of the U. A. W., following a partial work stoppage at the Rouge plant which had tied up production last night.

"The international union of the United Automobile Workers has authorized a strike of all workers at the River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Co.," Thomas said.

"The strike is to take effect at once."

Thomas said all workers had been notified to leave the Rouge plant and report to the union's Ford office to prepare for picket duty.

State Troopers Requested

Meanwhile, at a downtown hotel Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner said he had received "assurance" from Michael F. Widman, jr., chairman of the U. A. W.-C. I. O. Ford organizational drive, that "the men will be out of the plant within the next hour."

The Governor said he did not know whether it was "physically possible" for the men—estimated by union officials at 20,000—to leave the various divisions of the Ford plants within an hour's time, but added "that's the way it was put to me."

Gov. Van Wagoner was called early last night by Dearborn City officials who requested State troopers to evacuate from the plant between 7,000 and 8,000 workers, whom they described as "sit-down strikers."

At the time of the strike order, only the foundry and part of the dye shop were operating.

Thomas' statement said in part:

"Declaration of the strike at this time was forced on the union by the Ford Motor Co. which has for months, up until yesterday, engaged in deliberate and continuous effort to prevent adjustment of the Ford workers' grievances through means of conference and conciliation.

Union Spokesmen Discharged

"The company has placed every obstacle in the way of an immediate labor election, although it is obvious that the U. A. W.-C. I. O. speaks for the overwhelming majority of its employes.

"On Tuesday the Ford Motor Co. deliberately discharged the chosen spokesmen of the Rouge workers. It falsely ascribed to the Rouge workers the attempt to carry on a

U. S. Conciliator Predicts Truce In Bituminous Row in 48 Hours

By the Associated Press

New York, April 1.—A work stoppage by 400,000 men in the Nation's bituminous coal mines became fully effective tonight after labor and management failed to reach a contract agreement.

However, a Federal conciliator said he believed continued negotiations during the next 48 hours would bring "a temporary arrangement for resumption of operations."

The United Mine Workers of America (C. I. O.) and the Nation's major soft coal producers agreed shortly before midnight to continue negotiations and Dr. John R. Steelman, director of the United States Conciliation Service, announced at once that "I therefore assure the public that there is no cause for alarm."

The conciliator said he would telephone President Roosevelt before midnight to inform the Chief Executive of the situation. He added that he was doing this at the direction of the conference in reply to the Chief Executive's urgent insistence last night that the negotiators not permit the dispute to endanger this country's national defense effort.

Contract Has Run Out

Steelman pointed out that the mine workers automatically do not work without a contract and that the contract expired last midnight. Therefore, he said, the stoppage continues.

Steelman then read to newsmen a prepared statement in which he said: "I have every confidence in the intention of the conferees to reach an equitable agreement on all issues before them and believe it can be done within that time (48 hours)."

In event a mutual agreement is not effected by that time he believed a temporary arrangement for resumption of operations would be made.

The stoppage affects all mines in the eight-State Appalachian area and most of all the other mines in the outlying areas producing American bituminous. The areas involved produce 90 per cent of the country's soft coal. Of the 400,000 men employed, 330,000 are in the Appalachian area which produces 70 per cent of the national production.

Steelman's Statement

When the deadlocked conference adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow to resume negotiations, Steelman read this prepared statement:

"It is near midnight. No agreement has been concluded. Progress has been made. The differences are not insurmountable.

"A negotiated settlement is always preferable to any other. Because of this fact it is proposed that the conferees exercise an extension of not over 48 hours for continued and diligent negotiations.

"I have every confidence in the intention of the conferees to reach an equitable agreement on all issues before them and believe it can be done within that time.

"If a mutual agreement is not made within the 48-hour extension

President Sees No Need Now For Strike Law

House Slated to Take Action Today on Probe Of Defense Production

By Robert C. Albright
Post Staff Writer

Right of way for a Congressional investigation of national defense production and delays due to strikes and other stoppages yesterday was approved by the House Rules Committee and slated for House action today.

House Naval and Military committees sitting separately would conduct the inquiry, with power to subpoena witnesses and hold hearings in the field.

Leaders gave a green light to the measure but joined the President in discounting the need at present for direct strike-curbing legislation.

The President voiced belief that employer-employe disputes can be worked out through existing machinery in a mutual spirit of give and take. He indicated to reporters that the present mediation system will be given a fair trial before anything else is attempted.

Only a few hours before, a new bill empowering the President to take over strike-bound defense plants had been introduced in the House by Chairman Vinson, of the House Naval Committee.

Amending the Selective Service Act, the bill permits the Government to step in and operate a plant when "an existing or threatened failure of production is such as to interfere with or hamper,

48 Injured In Fighting; Company Orders Plant Closed

By the Associated Press

Milwaukee, April 1.—Gov. Julius P. Heil tonight wired President Roosevelt that the situation at the strike-bound Allis-Chalmers plant "is absolutely out of control of all the peace officers available" to the State, county and city.

As he sent the message, disorders—in which 48 persons were injured and the Governor himself was stoned by strikers—continued to rage at the giant West Allis plant.

(A second appeal by the Governor, this one addressed to the commanding general of the Sixth Corps Area of the United States at Chicago, and asking that at least 5,000 Federal troops be dispatched to help end the rioting, was reported by the United Press.)

The violence was so great that Max M. Babb, president of the company, ordered the plant closed at the urgent request of Sheriff Joseph Shinners and of Gov. Heil. The plant had been attempting to resume operations on direction of OPM Director Knudsen and Secretary of the Navy Knox at Washington.

Closed for Ten Weeks

Holding orders for $45,000,000 worth of badly needed defense materials, the plant had been closed ten weeks by the C. I. O. strike.

(In Washington, spokesmen for the White House, Army and Navy late last night said they had no knowledge yet of Gov. Heil's request for Federal troops or of his telegram to President Roosevelt.)

In announcing closing of the plant Babb said the situation now is "in the hands of the Federal Government for action."

Governor Heil wired President Roosevelt that a "mob had created disorders beyond the control of all peace officers which can be assembled by the combined forces of the State, county and city."

"The situation is absolutely out control of all the peace officers available."

To Prevent Bloodshed

"I am notifying you of this action in order that you may direct such action as you deem advisable. In the meantime in order to prevent bloodshed, I am directing the company to cease all productive operations."

Union strikers, using bricks and rocks, tangled with peace officers armed with tear gas weapons and fire hoses late today.

At least seven men were injured seriously and taken to the Milwaukee General Hospital. Others were treated at the plant hospital.

Hundreds of windows of the company's main office and laboratory were broken, automobiles, including that of Gov. Heil, were smashed and damaged; an 8-foot fence was torn down and the Governor himself stoned as he tried to leave the shop office in which he had taken refuge.

The Governor finally got out of the plant and went immediately to the sheriff's office where it was reported that he telephoned Washington.

Sheriff Shinners said he told the Governor he did not have enough men to cope with the situation. The State has no National Guard troops available, as all have been

Death of Society Matron Blamed on Hair Treatment

Solution Absorbed Into Scalp Fatal To Mrs. Agnes Searcy

Death of Mrs. Agnes Scott Searcy, 39, member of a prominent Washington family, in Atlanta March 19, was caused by poisons absorbed into her scalp in a hair-waving treatment, it was disclosed yesterday in a report filed in the Atlanta city health office.

Commissioner W. G. Campbell, of the Food and Drug Administrations, told The Post his unit was "going very thoroughly into the possibilities" of the commonly used treatment being a health menace.

Mrs. Searcy was a granddaughter of the late Senator Nathan B. Scott, of West Virginia.

The certificate, signed by Dr. Allen Bunce, Atlanta physician, said Mrs. Searcy died of "acute hydrogen sulfide poisoning."

Her mother, Mrs. James F. Hall, of Alexandria, Va., said last night the poison had entered Mrs. Searcy's scalp through a dozen or more lesions. She had no such cuts before going into the beauty parlor, it was said.

Commissioner Campbell said the treatment was one involving the Nearly 500 guests of the Women's National Press Club last night greeted with laughter the revelation that the White House is to be leased to China in exchange for the Great Wall.

McCarran Seeks FBI, Dies Files On Roosevelt Nominee for PUC

Senator McCarran (Democrat), of Nevada, disclosed late yesterday that he had called on the Justice Department to turn over to him an FBI file on Gregory Hankin, Federal Power Commission attorney nominated by the President to be a member of the District Public Utilities Commission.

Senator McCarran, chairman of a special subcommittee of the Senate District Committee appointed to investigate the Hankin nomination, said that he had made several calls to the Justice Department during the day for information about Hankin.

Upshot of the series of telephone conversations is that a representative of the Justice Department will visit McCarran today, the Senator said.

McCarran said that he had also asked James Murray, clerk of the Senate District Committee, to ask for a report from the Dies Committee about Hankin, but that no information had yet been received.

He said that he would call a meeting of his subcommittee "as soon as I have some facts."

Hankin declined to comment about requests for reports from the Dies Committee and the Justice Department. His chief at the Power Commission, William S. Youngman,

Army Seeking 50,000-Plane Air Force

By John G. Norris
Post Staff Writer

Army officials disclosed plans yesterday for doubling the strength of the Air Corps to give the Nation an air force of about 50,000 plans exclusive of the naval air arm.

Approval has been given to a "second aviation objective," it was said, which would provide a force approximately twice the present objective of 25,000 planes by next spring. Detailed plans as to types of craft, numbers of bases, pilots and mechanics, etc., are nearing completion, while funds for the additional warplanes are expected to be asked soon of Congress.

President Roosevelt set an objective of an annual production capacity of 50,000 planes and an air force of this size in service more than a year ago. American industry now is building up to an output of 36,000 planes annually. The present output is about one-third that rate. The President's goal of an air force of 50,000 planes has always been taken as including from 10,000 to 15,000 craft for the Navy.

Expand Pilot Program

The $4,389,421,174 fifth supplemental defense appropriation bill, passed yesterday by the Senate, carries $312,871,100 for expanding the output of Air Corps pilots to 30,000 a year, and that of enlisted technicians to 100,000 annually.

The program, according to Brig. Gen. Davenport Johnson, assistant chief of Air Corps, is needed to provide replacements for estimated losses of pilots should "the present projected 25,000-plane force get into active operations," and also "to provide initial requirements for pilots for an approved second aviation objective."

"The second aviation objective," he explained, "provides a striking force of approximately twice that of the current objective, and a continuing annual output of pilots at the rate of 30,000 per year will be necessary to provide for the normal attrition (peacetime losses) in such an expanded force."

Under an Air Corps of 25,000 planes, the force will consist of 253 squadrons organized into 54 groups. Most of the planes for this "first aviation objective" are on hand or on order. Under the "second aviation objective," the corps will have about 500 squadrons organized into about 100 groups.

Fifth of Planes on Hand

The Air Corps is now about 80 per cent of its authorized strength of 10,000 officers and 151,000 men, a total it will reach in June. About one-fifth of the 25,000 planes of the "first objective" are on hand. During the fiscal year beginning in July, it is expected that some 20,000 planes, 8,600 officers and 152,000 men will be added.

After approving the fifth supplemental supply bill by a voice vote, the Senate sent the measure to a conference with the House to settle items in dispute.

called to active duty and new units have not been formed.

The fight started at 3:30 p. m. (C. S. T.) and raged for nearly three hours. Then it quieted down and the strikers gathered in groups out of range of tear gas missiles. Four hours after the start there still were hundreds of men around the plant.

The outbreak began while Gov. Heil was speaking to the strikers, at their invitation, while on a visit to the strike scene. A group of strikers attempted to enter the grounds through a gate opened to permit two workers to leave.

During the demonstration a bottle filled with red paint splashed against the Governor's automobile.

When a voice from the crowd asked, "Why don't you turn out the National Guard?" the Governor replied:

"We don't need the National Guard here. I am doing everything on earth to settle this strike."

The Governor was both booed and cheered.

A large armored car, belonging to the Milwaukee Police Department, which had been loaned to the sheriff's department, was disabled when a gas shell throwing device jammed. This car had been most effective in breaking up disturbances earlier in the day.

When a tear gas shell backfired, filling the mobile fortress with tear gas, the 12 deputies aboard were forced to drive the large vehicle within the grounds. They abandoned the machine there and took up posts on the upper floors of the company buildings, from which point they continued to fire gas shells into the crowd.

The fortress was smeared with paint by the strikers as they surrounded it while it was trundled into the yards.

Deputies and police officers fired round after round of tear gas fro mthe roof of the office building and laboratory into the crowds of United Automobile Workers Union (C. I. O.) members and sympathizers who milled on the street near the main structure.

The strikers surged back with each tear gas discharge and then came forward again when it had settled to hurl rocks, stones and bricks through the windows.

Moscow Controls Communists In U. S., Bridges Hearing Told

By the Associated Press

San Francisco, April 1.—Testimony that American Communists were completely under the thumb of the Internationale occupied almost the entire attention of the Government today in its deportation hearing against Harry Bridges, West Coast maritime labor leader.

Benjamin Gitlow, expelled former general secretary of the party in the United States, testified that the Internationale ordered:

1. Creation of a Negro republic from the Southern States when the American revolution comes;

2. Financing of Nicaraguan rebels who fought against American marines;

3. Communist control of labor unions and separation from the A. F. L. which "culminated in success when the Congress for Industrial Organizations was formed."

Had to Obey, He says

The Communist Party of the United States, Gitlow testified, had no choice but to obey these orders reached in sessions of the Internationale in Moscow.

And a series of American organizations he listed as being Communist conceived, inspired and controlled could do nothing but obey the edicts of the American Communist Party. Among these he listed the International Labor Defense.

Government attorneys sought to show that the Communist Internationale advocated world revolution; that Communists in the United States were helpless under edicts of the Internationale, and therefore when and if the Internationale ordered the overthrow of the United States Government the American Communists would have to follow its orders.

Bridges Called Communist

The Government also was seeking to show that anyone belonging to a Communist controlled organization was through this chain under the direction of the Internationale.

It accuses Bridges of having belonged to the Communist Party; the International Workers of the World and the Marine Workers' Industrial Union.

The Australian-born labor leader repeatedly has denied being a Communist but during his 1939 deportation hearing testified he belonged to the I. W. W. for a few months in 1921 until he learned its objectives, and during the 1934 West Coast waterfront strike urged sailors to join the M. W. I. U.

ceedings are not being considered against their crews. The Danish government has not protested the action.

The deportation proceedings will be pressed and, if the men cannot be sent back to their own countries for lack of transportation facilities, they probably will be interned in the United States.

The Axis protests demanded the release of the ships and the crews, and charged that the United States had acted illegally in taking the vessels and removing and arresting the seamen. The notes were written by Dr. Hans Thomsen the German charge d'affaires, and by Prince Colonna, the Italian Ambassador, upon their own initiative, without awaiting instructions from their foreign offices.

German Note Said to Be Stronger

It is, therefore, possible that later more extensive protests may be made, after Berlin and Rome have studied the case.

The German protest was said to have been in stronger terms than the Italian. But, unlike Prince Colonna, who delivered the note personally to Breckinridge Long, Assistant Secretary of State, Dr. Thomsen sent his communication by messenger and it did not reach Hull until just before his press conference this noon.

Then, in announcing that the American action was legal, Secretary Hull suggested the sinking and burning of Axis ships in Latin-American ports would afford some confirmation of the position of this Government under the law.

The Axis notes were not made public, but the substance of the communications was learned.

Neither note mentioned sabotage, while each disputed the right of the United States to take the action it did, either under international or domestic law or in view of treaty guarantees of freedom of shipping.

French Envoy Sees Welles

The belief persisted today that the Axis concern fundamentally ran not to what measures had thus far been taken but to the possibility that it is a prelude to the requisitioning of the vessels. According to officials, any such step would require legislation. Nevertheless, conjectures were rife that eventually the ships might find their way into the United States merchant fleet.

Although French and other foreign ships in United States ports are being kept under close surveillance, Gaston Henri-Haye, the French Ambassador, said after a conference with Sumner Welles, Undersecretary of State, that he had been assured there was no intention of taking over French vessels, and that there was no possible question of sabotage being committed on them. He pointed out that under the Franco-German armistice terms the ships could not be leased or chartered.

There are 19 French ships in American ports. The Treasury said that "No additional seizures are planned—at least for the next 24 hours." Eight of the French ships, including the Normandie, are in New York, four in New Orleans, two in St. Thomas, V. I., one in San Juan, P. R., two in Los Angeles, and two in San Francisco.

of negotiations I think I can assure the country that a temporary arrangement for resumption of operations will be made by the conferees at that time to be effective pending completion of an agreement.

Steelman was asked whether he "felt good" about what he was reporting to President Roosevelt. He hesitated, then slowly said, "yes, I do."

John L. Lewis, U. M. W. A. president, and Ezra Van Horn, Cleveland coal executive and chairman of the joint wage conference, readily agreed, Steelman said, to resume negotiations.

Roosevelt Opposes Anti-Strike Laws

President Roosevelt yesterday reiterated his aversion to antistrike legislation and forecast the working out of labor difficulties through existing mediation machinery.

Mr. Roosevelt's remarks, made at his press conference, indicated he would continue to oppose restrictive labor legislation until his new National Defense Mediation Board and other labor machinery has been given a fair trial.

The President summarized his feelings on defense labor disputes with the remark that the general labor and employer-employe situation can be worked out with existing machinery in a mutual spirit of give and take and with the general understanding of avoiding slowing down of the defense program.

He said he thought the board was doing all right.

Coal field violence flared within 6 hours after the midnight expiration date in Harlan, Ky., where a mine guard was shot to death, a picket at another mine was wounded and a shooting affray took place at a third.

Aside from the coal mine tieup and the increasingly violent Allis-Chalmers dispute, other labor fronts were appreciably eased yesterday, with the total of strike-made idle man-days the lowest in many weeks.

The Mediation Board, encouraged by immediate success in three of the strikes certified to it, continued conferences with labor and management representatives of the International Harvester Co., and prepared to meet those of the Condenser Corporation today. Although the Harvester strike has been ended, some issues are still in dispute.

A fifth case was certified to the board yesterday by the Labor Department, which turned over the 3-month-long work stoppage at the Snoqualmie Falls Timber Co. to the new agency. About 900 A. F. of L. workers have been involved since December 16, 1940. The issues are wages and union status.

Tug Strike Threatened

Last night the board telegraphed union representatives and added a request that carpenters and joiners, who had sympathetically struck the Snohomish airport in Everett, Wash., return to work.

On other labor fronts three strikes threatened:

The 2,500 members of a New York tugboat union, affiliated with the A. F. of L., threatened to strike at midnight tonight unless their demands for increased wages are met. With the exception of tugs owned by railroads, the 115 vessels they man comprise the entire harbor tug fleet.

In Chicago, a Federal conciliator sought to avert a strike authorized by C. I. O. packing house workers, who demanded higher wages, a 40-hour week and a closed shop.

Wage increases were also the issue in a dispute involving 100,000 cement mill workers in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Maryland. They authorized their A. F. of L. union officers to call a strike but instructed them to "exhaust all peaceful means" before setting any strike date.

Convoy Issue Being Studied, Says Roosevelt material, aircraft, automotive equipment, agricultural supplies and miscellaneous goods.

What countries would receive the goods?

The President persistently answered this question by saying cryptically that more than one nation would be aided. Reporters assumed he meant at least Great Britain and probably Greece.

When would the first shipments be delivered?

In the next year or so, Mr. Roosevelt answered, explaining that none of it would be shipped until it was manufactured in this country into a finished product.

Would the United States use any of it? That would be possible, the President said.

Would China receive any equipment under the new allotment? Mr. Roosevelt avoided a direct answer to that question also, but said he had not yet finished studying the report of Lauchlin Currie, administrative assistant who returned recently from an official visit to China. The extent of further United States aid to China is believed linked to Currie's recommendations.

The Chief Executive applied his "no news" policy yesterday also to questions on seizure of Italian, German and Danish ships in United States harbors last weekend.

He brushed aside questions about legal authority for the seizure and said he was not up to date on the contents of the Italian and German protests.

Mr. Roosevelt said that by Friday he would be able to give reporters figures on transfers he has authorized under his lend-lease powers to send abroad $1,300,000,000 of existing equipment. The French 75s for Greece, he said, come in this category.

Immediately after returning from the South by train yesterday morning the President plunged into a series of conferences on the defense situation.

He conferred by telephone with Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles on the Yugoslavian situation and then met with legislative leaders for almost two hours, discussing labor among other matters, they said.

Strike Called At Ford Plant

sit-down strike. It flouted the request of the Federal Government, State and county governments, as well as of the union that leaders of the U. A. W.-C. I. O. be permitted to enter the Rouge plant to request the workers to leave."

The partial stoppage climaxed prolonged differences between the Ford Co. and the U. A. W.-C. I. O., which both State and Federal conciliators have sought to mediate.

The union has petitioned for a National Labor Relations Board election to determine bargaining agents at the Rouge and Lincoln plants of the company. A three-day hearing was held before an NLRB examiner here last week, and final arguments were to be presented to the three-man NLRB Board at at Washington Saturday.

The stoppage at the Rouge plant, informed sources said, would have little effect on the Ford Co.'s national defense orders, except for work on Army trucks. The Ford "blitz buggies" are being built at the company's tractor plants and orders for bomber parts are to be produced at a new plant at Ypsilanti, Mich., for which ground is now being cleared.

Thomas' statement was followed by an announcement by Widman that some workers had left the plant and a number of others were being held inside by "service men armed with hammers and other weapons stationed at doors."

At union headquarters members were instructed to form picket lines around the plant at 5:30 a. m.

Harry H. Bennett, Ford personnel director, declared that the "union men have seized the plant illegally . . . I have called on the Governor to have State police enforce the law to evacuate these men from our plants . . . It is up to the Government to see that the law is enforced."

Dewey to Fly to Detroit

Chester, Pa., April 1 (AP).— James Francis Dewey, Federal labor conciliator, said tonight he will fly to Detroit "first thing" in the morning in an effort to settle the strike at the Ford Motor Co.

"I'm sure we can straighten this trouble out in quick order," he asserted.

Dewey was in constant conference by telephone with company executives and union leaders.

Referring to Harry Bennett, Ford executive, Dewey declared: "Bennett's attitude was not at all unreasonable because he and I have had an understanding for some time. It was our agreement that negotiations would begin only after any sit-downers had been withdrawn.

impede or delay the national defense."

Vinson told reporters he introduced the bill "on his own hook" but across the Capitol Administration Senators have been discussing a similar move if strike tie-ups continue.

The defense investigation approved by the Rules Committee also bore Vinson's name. Approval was obtained in a canvass of the committee by Chairman Sabath after a morning meeting of the committee adjourned without action.

Later the resolution for the inquiry was reported to the House by Representative Smith (Democrat), of Virginia. Smith had failed to obtain Rules Committee approval of his own measure to reconstitute the old Smith NLRB-investigating committee.

Chairman May of the Military Committee and Chairman Vinson of the Naval group said that anticipating House approval, they have already perfected subcommittee machinery for carrying the defense study into every military and naval district.

The resolution directs them to study the progress of the national defense program "with a view to determining whether such program is being carried forward efficiently, expeditiously and economically."

Both Vinson and May denied defense strikes were the main target of the inquiry. May said cause and cure of the strike situation would continue under scrutiny by the Judiciary Committee. Vinson said he would ask his Naval Committee to report favorably his earlier bill providing a cooling-off period for mediation of disputes, before embarking on the defense investigation.

After urging the defense inquiry, Vinson returned to the floor of the House and offered his bill for the Government to take over strike-bound defense plants.

In an explanatory statement, he said present plant seizure provisions of the draft law apply only to companies that refuse to cooperate.

"In the situation at the Allis-Chalmers plant the owners have not refused," said Vinson. "On the contrary, they are eager to cooperate with the Government in every way, but because of the strike of their employes they are powerless to do so. Obviously, interference with the national defense is just as serious if occasioned by employes as it would be if it were occasioned by the employer and it follows that existing law is deficient in providing no authority whereby the cause of the interference can be removed, regardless of its source."

Nazi Warships Are Reported Off Argentine

By Percy Forster
International News Service Staff Writer

Buenos Aires, April 1.—Twenty-six German and Italian steamers tied up in Argentine ports tonight were placed under "special vigilance" lest they share the fate of ten Axis vessels destroyed by their crews in four Latin-American countries in the last 24 hours.

Later, it was indicated, the Argentine government may "take over" the German-Italian tonnage, although some method other than outright seizure was contemplated.

Naval battles loomed as a possibility in both the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Diplomatic and naval circles said they believe three or more German warships—one of them of the 35,000-ton Scharnhorst or Gneisenau class—are patroling the South Atlantic to convoy Axis merchantmen now fleeing New World ports.

Two Peruvian destroyers were in hot pursuit of two German freighters which escaped last night without sailing papers from Callao harbor, the port of Lima. An armed British merchant cruiser also was said to be ready to intercept the German craft, which were sighted dashing at top speed northward off the Peruvian coast.

Altogether, well over 40 ships were under guard in Latin-American ports, in addition to the 30 Axis boats seized in the United States.

The ports where the ships were sabotaged, are:

Punta Arenas, Costa Rica—Eisenach, 4,177 tons, German, and Fella, 6,072 tons, Italian.

Gallao, Peru—Leipzig, 5,898, German; Monserrate, 5,578, Italian.

Paita, Peru—Friesland, 6,310 tons, German.

Puerto Cabello, Venezuela—Sesotris, 3,987, German; and Trottiera, 6,205; Jose Fassio, 5,169; and Teresa Odero, 8,169, all Italian.

Guayaquil, Ecuador—Cerigo, 1,120, German.

Three others were taken into custody by Venezuelan officials before they could be destroyed.

The two ships which escaped from Lima's port, the Hermonthis and Muenchen, have been spotted steaming northward from Callao.

Peruvian military authorities, it was learned also, have occupied the hangars and workshops of the German Lufthansa Air Line at the Lima Airport. Two managers were arrested and two airplanes were seized.

A military cordon later was thrown around the building.

It was believed that the Lufthansa intended to use the two planes as "eyes" for the two German freighters now dashing northward.

Other reports said the Ecuadorian government plans seizure of the German steamer Cerigo, of 1,120 tons. Dispatches from Guayaquil said an uncontrolled blaze was sweeping the Cerigo late today.

At Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, the Italian liner Fella and the German freighter Eisenach tonight were proclaimed virtually total losses after being set afire by their crews who were jailed.

(Mexico announced plans to seize two German and nine Italian vessels in Mexican east coast ports.)

Two other German ships were considered total losses after a vain attempt to escape from Callao. They were set ablaze and their sea cocks were opened by their crews after the Peruvian cruiser Coronel Bolognesi intercepted them at the mouth of the harbor and fired five warning shots.

These ships, the 5,898-ton Leipzig and the 5,578-ton Monserrate, had just been laden with cotton bought by a special Japanese commercial mission. A third German ship, the Friesland, was burned at Paita, in northern Peru.

Four more ships were scuttled at Puerto Cabello, near Caracas, Venezuela, and the incident caused an outbreak of anti-German feeling.

Senate Ends Argentine Beef And Wool Ban

By John B. Oakes
Post Staff Writer

In a compromise move, the Senate yesterday knocked out of an Army-Navy appropriation bill a virtual prohibition against purchase of Argentine beef and wool. It substituted an amendment requiring the Government to purchase home-grown products only when the quantity, quality or prices make it feasible.

The action followed an urgent plea from Secretary of State Hull that the language of the prohibition tentatively adopted on Monday, not be permitted to stand.

Secretary Hull wrote to Senator Van Nuys (Democrat), of Indiana, that the original language would have "a most unfortunate effect on public opinion in the other American republics, at the very time when it is so important that inter-American relations should be of a most friendly character."

Provision "Unwise"

His letter added:

"In the present emergency, a provision of this character seems unwise in the extreme. Not only does it promise no benefit, and possibly even injury, to the domestic industries most likely to be affected, but it runs definitely counter to the interests of our national defense and to the promotion of friendly relations with the other American republics.

"I am sure you will appreciate the importance of maintaining close and friendly relations with the other countries of this hemisphere, particularly in these critical times. I know you will also recognize the manner in which the enactment of a provision of the kind in question would interfere with the efforts which we have been making to strengthen our hemisphere defenses by this means. Enactment of legislation of this character can not but have a most unfortunate effect upon public opinion in the other American republics, at the very time when it is so important that inter-American relations should be of a most friendly character. Such legislation will inevitably tend to weaken the fabric of inter-American relations which this Government has so painstakingly sought to strengthen during recent years."

The House, meanwhile, accepted a Senate-approved resolution to give effect to the inter-American coffee agreement signed in Washington last November and described by Secretary Hull as "a distinct practical achievement in the field of inter-American relations" when it takes effect. The measure goes back to the Senate for action on an amendment.

Terms of Substitute

The Argentine beef provision, described by its sponsor, Senator Adams (Democrat), of Colorado, as a "declaration of policy," was approved by a voice vote, and with the indorsement of the Administration leaders, Senators Barkley, of Kentucky, and Byrnes, of South Carolina.

While the original proposal practically blocked use of any funds in the $4,000,000,000 bill for foreign food and clothing, the substitute agreed on yesterday merely said that non-American articles can not be bought:

"Except insofar as the head of the department concerned shall determine that such articles of food or clothing cannot be procured in the United States of satisfactory quality and in sufficient quantities and at reasonable prices as and when needed."

The author of the more stringent ban, Representative Schrugham (Democrat), of Nevada, immediately indorsed the Senate revision with the comment that "the only important change made by the Senate is the provision that prices of the domestic product must be reasonable if it is to be bought in preference to the foreign article."

House Likely to Accept

Schrugham added that he "will endeavor to have this amendment put on all defense appropriation bills."

His aproval of the Senate change, together with the fact that it also was acepted by the Administration leaders, made it highly probable that the revised language would be accepted by House conferees. It also was considered probable that the Navy appropriation bill, now in conference between the two houses, would be revised to contain a similar amendment. (When this measure passed the House, it contained a near-prohibition on foreign food purchases, but the Senate entirely deleted this provision.)

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

AFTER SOUTH AMERICAN MARKETS—Here's proof that Britain delivers the girls as well as the goods. These British fashion models passed through New York's Grand Central Station last night en route to South America from Canada. They will display English styles for South American buyers. Left to right—Peggy Meredith, Gwenda Farrell and Suzanne Hood. There were 18 of the beauties in the party

By Inez Robb
International News Service Staff Writer

New York, April 1.—Glamour girls who prefer onions to orchids are something new in the female of the species.

Yet such is the case history of 18 lovely English mannequins, each an indubitable chickadee, who arrived in New York today. They are enroute to South America on an official government mission to display English clothes, arouse interest in English fashions and prove that Britain not only delivers the goods, but the girls.

"Orchids!" they cried scornfully and literally in chorus as they registered at a New York hotel today. "We don't want orchids. We want onions! We haven't had any at home for months!"

The hazards of crossing the submarine-infested, bomber-menaced North Atlantic in a convoy of slow, uncomfortable ships was instantly forgotten in the general rejoicing that followed assurance that the United States was a land flowing with milk and onions.

"An onion is like a jewel," lovingly crooned Cynthia Maugham, a niece of the author, W. Somerset Maugham.

"It's a lovely thing," was the dreamy tribute of blonde Rosemary Cross, a relative of Lord Willingdon.

The only peril in their convoyed trip across the Atlantic about which the girls would talk was that inherent in the plentiful food aboard ship. They are terrified lest they have simultaneously eaten themselves out of their clothes and their jobs.

All the lovely models made of British fabrics for the South American trade by such famous couturiers as Worth, Paquin, Molyneux, Norman Hartnell, Creed and LaChasse were fitted to the mannequins' wartime chassises in London. All frankly moaned they had eaten like pigs—and loved every bite of it—on the long voyage over.

"We haven't seen so much food in ages as there was on board that little ship," said vivacious Irene Brown. "We had what would be a whole week's ration at home for a single meal."

As for their first American meal in New York—well, that was equal to two weeks' rations in tastiness, variety—and with the precious onions to boot.

Nevertheless, the girls looked as slim, svelt and slat-modeled as do all English rotogravure duchesses.

Three of them arrived in New York today on board the Dutch freighter and passenger ship, Bodegraven. The rest of the party came by train from Halifax, where their ship had docked.

Nine of the eighteen girls gave a "command performance" at Buckingham Palace, showing the clothes to both King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

"We didn't know the King was to be present," one of the girls explained. "But he seemed to enjoy the show as much as the Queen."

Although food remained their favorite topic, they all seemed amazed that there could be any doubt of an English victory in this war.

U. S. Increases Trade Pressure On Axis

By James S. Reston.
Copyright by New York Times

The United States is rapidly increasing its economic pressure on Germany, Italy and Japan.

It was learned yesterday that on the strength of observations made by Harry Hopkins when he returned from London, the Administration is now tightening up its own policy of economic warfare and coordinating that policy with the British blockade.

This trend toward more active participation by the United States in the war of commodities was supported by three developments yesterday:

1. The War Department sent Maj. Samuel Claybaugh to London to study the strategic possibilities of economic warfare.

2. It was learned that a long list of commodities useful to the Axis war effort may soon be added to the export license list.

3. Secretary of State Hull made it clear at his press conference that the United States will not urge the British to send food through the blockade to France.

Secretary Hull made it clear that the central point in the United States policy is the success of the British. He did not rule out the possibility that other limited shipments of concentrated foods would be sent to the conquered republic, but he added that when the question arises in the future details of what happened to the food in the first shipments will be closely studied.

"America and Allies First"

This same "America and the Allies first" attitude is evident in the other departments of the Government dealing with questions of economic warfare, and an effort evidently is being made to stop the flow of materials useful to the Axis war effort.

Despite Presidential proclamation limiting exports, there is a great deal of evidence that until very recently war commodities from the United States have been getting through to Japan and to the Axis by way of Russia.

In 1938, for example, the Soviet Union imported 55 tons of copper from the United States, and in 1940, 56,317 tons. In 1938 she imported scarcely any brass but in 1940 she shipped from here 9,578 tons. Similarly, in 1940 she imported 3,621,400 bushels of American wheat, whereas in 1938 she took only a few bushels.

Germany needs all these commodities and under the terms of her contract with the Soviet Union she expects to get 2,500,000 tons of all kinds of grain. Reliable information here indicates that the Russians sent the Germans 800,000 tons of grain last year.

Japan Uses Poorer Fuel

A real effort is being made now, however, to stop these "abnormal" imports. It is recognized that some of the imports are abnormal because many normal markets have been closed by the war, but most officials appear to believe that war material is still slipping through to the powers this country officially opposes.

Consequently the present export license list is being revised to close up the gaps. Since the United States stopped the sale of 87 octane aviation gasoline, the Japanese have merely purchased 85 octane and used it in their attacks on the Chinese. The lower grade spirit will probably be added to the license list before long.

It was stressed yesterday that while the State Department will not urge the British to relax the blockade in France's favor officials here will continue to try to find a formula that will relieve France's hunger and at the same time remove Britain's fears that the food sent from the United States, or its equivalent, will eventually find its way into Germany.

Senate Group Due to Approve Mellett Agency

The Senate Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments is expected this week to approve legislation giving permanent status to the Office of Government Reports after hearing Director Lowell Mellett assert yesterday that charges of political activity by his agency "simply cannot be documented."

Mellett told the committee that the only direct and specific charges of political activity by the Reports Office which were brought forward in the recent House debate concerned a man who had not been in the agency's employ for a year prior to the campaign in which he took part.

The bill does not enlarge the scope or power of the Reports Office, he said, but merely ends its dependence on funds from emergency relief appropriations.

The bill would establish the office as a permanent part of the executive establishment and authorize annual appropriations of $1,500,000 for the agency.

Senator Hill (Democrat), of Alabama, chairman of the Expenditures Committee, said last night there had been no requests for further hearings on the bill. He expects committee approval in two or three days.

Vichy Protests British Attack Through U. S.

Copyright by New York Times

A note formally protesting the British attack on a French convoy off Algeria on Sunday was given by Gaston Henry-Haye, the French Ambassador, yesterday to Sumner Welles, Undersecretary of State, for transmission to the British government.

Since there was no direct diplomatic intercourse between Vichy and London, the ambassador explained, the friendly cooperation of the United States was requested in transmitting the note. British vessels in attempting to stop and search four merchant ships in the convoy exchanged fire with shore batteries in Algeria. Four Frenchmen are reported to have been killed and seven wounded.

Japanese Ban Travel On Yangtze River

Shanghai (Wednesday), April 2 (AP).—Japanese authorities virtually closed the Yangtze River today when reliable sources reported permits for travel on the waterway would not be issued for at least four weeks.

It was understood, too, that Italian, German and Chinese river steamers would be prohibited from stopping at Yangtze delta ports. No reasons were given for the action, but the move indicated Japan planned further large scale troop transfers such as have been in progress for the past two months.

1st Work Camp For Objectors To Open Soon

The first of five work camps, where conscientious objectors can serve their country with picks and spades instead of guns, is expected to open within a week at Patapsco State Park, near Baltimore.

Other camps will open shortly thereafter, selective service officials said, in Grottoes, Va., Colorado Springs, Colo., San Dimas, Calif., and Manistique, Mich.

The Maryland and California camps will be operated by the American Friends service committee (Quakers). The Colorado and Virginia camps will be run by the Mennonite central committee, and the Michigan camp will be operated by the Brethren service committee.

The first four will be assigned 125 conscientious objectors each. The Michigan camp will be assigned 25.

Reforestation, under the supervision of a United States Park Service forester, will be the main work "of national importance" carried out at the Maryland camp. Soil conservation will keep the C. O.'s busy in Virginia.

A dozen volunteer workers from the Quaker work camp at Cooperstown, N. Y., have just finished repairing the deserted CCC camp at Patapsco State Park, officials said. The camp contains four barracks, a mess hall, recreation hall, shower house and several tool sheds.

Financed by the Quakers, the volnnteers repaired plumbing, roofing and flooring and carried out painting and draining operations.

The prospective campers have already been selected from lists prepared by local draft boards. They will be of all faiths. As soon as the Army provides cots, and cooking and heating stoves, the camp will be opened.

A staff of eight men—headed by Dr. Ernest Wildman, of Earlham College, Earlham, Ind.—is already installed at the camp awaiting the Army's signal to get under way.

'Chutist Dangles For 10 Miles From Tail of Airplane

Columbus, Ga., April 1 (U.P.).—Private Stanley K. Finley, of the 501st Parachute Battalion, Fort Benning, today took a 10-mile ride dangling from the tail of an airplane before he could pull the rip cord of his emergency parachute.

His parachute opened prematurely in a routine jump and looped over the tail of the airplane.

"When I saw what happened I wasn't worried," Finley said later, "I knew if I hung there long enough someone would see me and do something. After a few seconds, I began to twist. I started to get dizzy, so I pulled my emergency rip cord."

The jerk of the emergency chute broke Finley's collar bone. His hip was injured in landing.

Japanese Liner Crosses Pacific In Record Time

San Francisco, April 1 (AP).—The Japanese liner Nitta Maru docked today, two days ahead of schedule after crossing the Pacific in 11 days 18 hours and 42 minutes. N. Y. K. Line officials said it was the fastest crossing recorded for a commercial ship.

Capt. Kiyiso Okawa said the speedy run over the 5,490-mile course from Yokohama was made despite rough weather from Honolulu to San Francisco.

Among the 174 passengers were Mrs. Peter Theodor Broch, wife of the former Mayor of Narvik, Norway, and her 3-year-old daughter, Siri. She is on her way to rejoin her husband, now attached to the Norwegian consulate in Washington, D. C.

Greeks Capture 80 More Italians

Athens, April 1 (AP).—Greek troops defending a position captured the day before drove off Italian attackers today and took 80 more prisoners, the high command announced.

Dispatches from the front said that in the previous day's action the Greeks took 200 Italians in the central sector and wiped out two Italian companies.

Police Break Up Demonstration Before U. S. Embassy in Rome

By the Associated Press

Rome, April 1.—Two hundred Italian schoolboys demonstrated tonight in front of the United States Embassy, guarded by steel-helmeted Italian troops, a few hours after Premier Mussolini and Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka greeted a wildly cheering crowd of 150,000 at the Piazza Venezia.

Police chased the youths away from the embassy, on the Via Veneto, and the troops were not called into action.

Observers called the demonstration one of friendship for Matsuoka, who was the guest of Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano at a state dinner in the Excelsior Hotel across the street.

Matsuoka's appearance with Il Duce concluded a round of talks with Italy's leaders.

He spent half an hour with King Vittorio Emanuele, 45 minutes with Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, and an hour and a quarter with Mussolini.

Talks Center on United States

Informed observers said they believed the talks were devoted largely to the growing interest of the United States in the war, and what to do about it.

One Rome newspaper saw Germany, Japan and Italy being drawn together for defense as a result of United States moves.

The guard at the United States Embassy, although a considerable number of troops, was smaller than one thrown about the Yugoslav Legation. There some streets were blocked off presumably to prevent demonstrations during the Mussolini-Matsuoka meeting.

The soldiers took up their positions shortly before scores of schoolboys paraded Rome's streets waving flags of the three Axis partners—Japan, Germany and Italy.

The schoolboy demonstration dispersed without incident, and was followed a few hours later by the tumultuous display beneath the Piazza Venezia balcony.

The crowd packed into the historic square shouted "Duce, Duce!" and "Banzai!" Mussolini and Matsuoka were repeatedly called back by the crowd, Ciano appearing with them on one occasion.

Ship Seizures Attacked

While Matsuoka talked with Italian leaders, the Rome newspaper L'Avvenire declared United States seizure of German, Italian and Danish ships and the Australian cruise of United States battleships were "two clearly hostile manifestations drawing Germany, Japan and Italy together in ever closer defensive necessity."

Other members of the Fascist press reported "Yugoslav provocations" against the Axis powers, one dispatch saying that in areas of Yugoslavia the lives of Germans were no longer safe.

In reports reminiscent of those from Poland which preceded the German drive into that country, the press reported Italians had been pouring into this country through Trieste for three days, and that more than 1,000 had fled the Dalmatian coast to Fiume in fishing boats.

Continual antiAxis demonstrations, particularly against Germans, were reported fro mYugoslav regions other than Croatia in the north, which was reperesented as leaning toward the Axis.

One dispatch said some among the crowds in Yugoslav cities carried Polish and British flags.

Yugoslavia Expects to Reach War Footing by Tomorrow

By C. L. Sulzberger

Copyright by New York Times

Belgrade, April 1.—On Thursday Yugoslavia will be on a war footing.

All day long new recruits marched through the streets of Belgrade, wearing French-style helmets and swinging along to the strains of their newest marching chant.

"Listen, girl, my love," it goes, "Hitler has come to our frontiers but the Serbs are standing there with guns to see how many ribs the Germans have."

The town is emptying its manpower into the army. German tourists are no longer commonplace.

Although their equipment is miserable compared to anything employed by the mechanized armies of the major powers, the spirit of the men appears magnificent. Most of the soldiers passing through Belgrade now are Serbs and they are a proud race of fighters.

The National University is closed and many of the professors, aged well into the fifties, are in uniform.

Legations are putting their papers into order; moving some and burning others. One newspaper is making plans for a small provincial edition if Belgrade has to be abandoned.

The mobilization, as it is reflected in the Serbian parts, is an expression of the popular will. From Kossovska Mitrovica to Belgrade the soldiers are shouting, "Down with Hitler," as they lug their bundles to the depots.

Despite the constant shifts in the diplomatic picture and the steady stream of hot-and-cold cafe rumors, the general atmosphere is one of imminent war. In an effort to soothe the worried Croats, a number of their officers are being promoted to the ranks of colonel and general.

It is now understood there will be no public proclamation of the anticipated general mobilization orders tomorrow midnight. It is believed this will take the form of final completion of what has been technically described as the "activization" schedule. But Thursday all men who can bear arms and receive equipment and uniforms will be with the colors.

In theory Yugoslavia can raise an army of 2,500,000, but there is neither equipment nor uniforms for this many soldiers and it is unlikely that more than 1,800,000 at the very peak can be called up. The country has about 600 war planes in usable condition. They include some Hurrican and Messerschmitt fighters.

Although the German general staff was caught flat-footed by this sudden political revolution here, the Nazis are rushing to rearrange their troop dispositions to handle an emergency.

It is clear to military experts here that if war comes the Nazis will seek to cut through the ravines and passes east of the Vardar and Morava Valleys, attempting to pinch off defending units in their flight over the ranges into the Kossovo and Pelargonian Plains.

The idea would be to run a wedge between Yugoslavia and Greece and pile in on the Yugoslavs if they attack Albania. But until the Germans can get more troops into the lines in the north it is not likely they would try anything.

It is believed the Germans also will launch a simultaneous drive on Salonika when they attack Yugoslav Macedonia—if they do—to cut off any future combination of the Serbs, Greeeks and British in that sector.

The German air force in Bulgaria is not yet exceedingly strong and it is not believed to number much more than 600 planes.

The Yugoslavs feel they could hold the Germans off in the south, while gradually evacuating the north and at the same time that they could get to Durazzo on the Adriatic coast of Albania in four or five days. They are counting on American and British material aid to hold out for six months.

No matter what the immediate outcome in case of an extended Balkan war, it should have the effect of creating a welcome diversion for the British troops. Every bomber put to use here relieves the intensity of the potential attack on the British Isles.

One thing which continues to interest the Yugoslavs is the Turkish attitude. It is quite likely this will remain defensive. The Turkish military equipment is not as fitted for offense as for defensive action.

Yugoslavians Rush to Join Army trump—that the Yugoslav army can and probably will strike for Durazzo, Albania, the moment German troops violate Yugoslav frontiers in the northeast and southwest.

Italian diplomats here are understood to have counseled caution to Vikor von Heeren, recalled German Ambassador, before his sudden departure to Berlin last night.

Von Heeren, however, acting under orders from the Wilhelmstrass, was able to offer the Italians no comfort and left for Germany as a German legation spokesman was said to have informed a neutral diplomatic sources that "the situation is hopeless."

The official news agency, D. N. B., and the official radios throughout the day carried reports that both British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Gen. Sir John G. Dill, chief of the British imperial general staff, were in Belgrade.

Since Athens dispatches said Eden was in the Greek capital, informed quarters here took the view that German ywas seeking a further pretext for a worsening of Yugoslav-German relations.

Yugoslavia technically is still a partner of Germany under the Vienna pact, signed by the Cvetkovic government—which will be respected, according to authoritatiove Yugoslav sources—and a visit from Eden and Sir John at this time technically at least would violate the spirit of the treaty.

German and foreign office sources tonight reported the probable appointment of a new German minister—said to be Reichminister von Haasen, former envoy to Belgrade and Rome—as the successor to von Heeren whose recall is understood to have been due in part, at least, to incompetence. Von Heeren apparently misled Berlin completely about the spirit of the Yugoslav army and people before the signing of the Vienna pact.

In the meantime, there was an overnight change for the better in the Serbo-Croat situation, and it is now understood that Vladimir Macek will dispatch one of his party leaders to Belgrade tomorrow to take the first vice premiership if he decides at the last moment not to take it himself.

The Croat peasant leader conferred throughout the day with his party lieutenants at his Kupinech farm, and well-informed Zagreb sources said tonight that Ivo Subasitch, the Governor of Croatia, is the likeliest nominee for the vice presidency if Macek refuses it. There was another report that Koshotitich, a party vice president, would take the government post.

Macek, it is said, wishes to remain in Zagreb for two reasons—he is believed to fear an attempted coup d'etat in Croatia by the Frankovci Fascist organization if he goes to Belgrade; and he thinks it is still too soon to ally himself personally with the man who overthrew his personal friends, the former Regent Paul and Dragisa Cvetkovic, with whom he signed the Serbo-Croat agreement.

With Macek's blessing almost any Croat could enter the government in his place to preserve Serbo-Croat unity, although any government without Macek, is weaker.

Nazi 'Chutists Massing

Belgrade, April 1 (U.P.).—Battalions of German parachute troops, many of them veterans of the Lowlands campaign, were reported massing tonight at Yugoslavia's frontiers where key roads have been mined and barricaded by the Yugoslav army.

Asmara Falls

against a rear guard action by remnants of the 40,000 Italian defenders of Cheren, while the Italians set off land mines and started mountain landslides.

At Asmara the British forces tonight were 35 miles from Massaua.

Following the capture of Diredawa on the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railroad the taking of Asmara means, according to British military leaders, that the last outlets to the sea from Addis Ababa and the interior of Ethiopia have been closed.

Fighting in Libya

All of Eritrea will be placed speedily in British hands as result of today's victory, it was claimed.

The British now control the last remaining railroad to the sea from Italian East Africa and the Duke of Aosta's Fascist armies falling back to positions covering Addis Ababa in the face of a continued British drive toward that city were said to be hopelessly entrapped.

Their only route of escape, it was said, would be a hazardous, perhaps impossible, overland journey through Dessie and southern Eritrea to Assab. But even if the Fascists reached the coast, escape would be virtually impossible because of the British navy's vigilance.

Renewal of fighting on the Libyan front, where German Panzer forces have been concentrating, meanwhile raised speculation of an Italo-German drive to compensate for Italy's crushing defeats in East Agrica.

The new outbreak at Mersa Brega, 30 miles east of El Agheila, was believed in some informed quarters to be an Axis attempt to tie up Britain's Army of the Nile and prevent dispatch of British expeditionary forces to the Balkans.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Free French forces in action on the African fronts, arrived in Cairo today from Khartoum, in the Anglo-Egyptian Soudan.

He was met by Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, commander in chief of the British forces in the Near East; Air Chief Sir Murray Longmore, chief of the Royal Air Force in the Middle East, and Admiral Jean Catroux, one of De Gaulle's lieutenants.

R. A. F. Raids Tripoli

Another heavy bombardment of Italy's Mediterranean naval base of Tripoli, about 400 miles westward along the Libyan coast from where the new fighting has broken out, was reported by the Royal Air Force, which also told of heavy bombings of Asmara, Italian military objectives in the Dessie-Assab area of Ethiopia and Fascist positions in Southern Ethiopia.

Wavell's Middle East headquarters, in its communique today, said that "our advance from Diredawa astride the railroad and road to Addis Ababa is making rapid progress although in this area all communications have been extensively damaged by the retreating Italian forces.

The British are speeding down upon Addis Ababa along the railroad, about 250 miles west of Diredawa, in an effort to reach the Ethiopian capital before the start of the "little rains." Other forces are closing in upon Addis Ababa from the Neghelli region in the south, Debra Marcos to the north and from the Sudan to the west.

"Fierce Fighting," Says Rome

Copyright by New York Times

Rome, April 1.—Today's Italian wawr bulletin for the first time mentions Asmara, but it is stated that a fierce resistance is being maintained.

"In East Africa," says the communique, "the struggle in the northern sector, between Cheren and Asmara, continues fiercely. Notwithstanding the increasing use of troops and mechanized material on the part of the enemy, our units are resisting heroically."

King Peter to Lead Troops in Battle

Belgrade, April 1 (INS).—Young King Peter II of Yugoslavia told the world today that he would lead his own troops into battle if his nation were involved in war.

"I hope war can be avoided," the monarch stated. "But if it comes to fighting, I shall fight and will lead my army into battle."

New Bomb Lifts German Houses In Sky, British Say

By the Associated Press

London, April 1.—A secret bomb of devastating explosive power was disclosed tonight as a new British weapon in the air offensive against Germany.

The bomb was declared by one returning pilot as powerful enough to make "houses take to the air" and was used in Monday's overnight raids on Emden, German industrial center and port.

"Masses of debris flying through the air were outlined against the glow of fires," an air ministry communique said in describing effects of the bomb.

"Gigantic Flash"

"The results appeared to be devastating."

The air ministry news service says the new explosive is to the ordinary bomb as the howitzer shell is to the field gun shell.

One pilot said he observed a "gigantic flash, blinding white."

"Immediately after the detonation," the service continued, "the crew saw great masses of debris flying high in the air. From the height they were flying, they (normally) would not be able to see ordinary fragments; therefore they knew enormous damage must have been done.

"To another pilot, it seemed as if the whole building must have been thrown into the air."

Bremen Attacked

The British also reported a heavy attack on the shipbuilding yards of Bremen, and lesser attacks on Bremerhaven, Oldenberg and the Netherlands harbor of Rotterdam, but only in the Emden raid was the new bomb mentioned.

The air ministry also claimed new blows at German sea power and coastal shipping as the British admiralty announced for the week ended March 23 losses of 17 British, Allied and neutral ships totaling 59,141 tons—10 ships and 35,261 tons below the previous week's revised figures and the lowest losses reported for four weeks.

Last week's report of losses for the week ended March 16 were revised upward from 23 ships of 71,773 tons to 27 ships of 94,402 tons.

Since the war started, the average weekly loss, exclusive of those at Dunkerque, has been placed by the British at 65,000 tons.

A German destroyer was declared hit and left with a heavy list during yesterday's air attack off the Frisian (north Netherlands) Islands.

Previous reports had listed two German tankers ablaze and sinking off Havre, France, as a result of the same offensive sweep.

Tonight's air and home ministries communique reported single plane attacks on south and east coast points, causing some deaths and other casualties.

Four German bombers were reported destroyed.

St. Lawrence Seaway Battle Is Delayed

By Hedley Donovan
Post Staff Writer

A sharp Congressional battle yesterday appeared to have been postponed at least two weeks when President Roosevelt told reporters he didn't know how soon or in what form he would seek legislation approving the St. Lawrence waterway and power project.

The Senate and House tomorrow or Friday are expected to begin a ten-day Easter holiday, with each chamber holding a brief, formal session every three days during the recess, and soon after their return plunge into the highly controversial St. Lawrence issue.

Senate leaders yesterday confessed bewilderment as to the exact status of the Presidential message transmitting the text of the waterway agreement with Canada, which was referred to the Foreign Relations Committee ten days ago.

If the President sends up a request for an authorization for funds to carry out the navigation and power project, the bill is expected to go to the Commerce Committee, headed by Senator Bailey (Democrat), of North Carolina.

Two-Thirds Vote Sought

A request for legislation approving the agreement but carrying no authorization for expenditures presumably would be handled by the Foreign Relations Committee, of which Senator George (Democrat), of Georgia, is chairman.

Complicating the picture is the fact that opponents of the St. Lawrence project contend the agreement with Canada should be regarded as a treaty, and hence require ratification by a two-thirds majority.

Both George and Bailey voted against the project when the Senate turned down the St. Lawrence treaty in 1934. Neither was ready yesterday to say whether he had changed his mind.

Other influential Democrats in both Houses, many of them militant supporters of the Administration in both foreign and domestic policy, come from States which have always opposed the waterway, now described by the President as a "vital necessity" for defense.

"We are on the spot," one of them explained yesterday.

Opponents Are Aroused

Administration critics meanwhile continued their attack on the St. Lawrence project, charging that it cannot strengthen America's defenses during the present emergency and would damage the commercial interests of large sections of the country.

"It's not very wholesome," said Senator McCarran (Democrat), of Nevada, "to see this proposal, which was beaten once in the Senate, now revived as a defense project."

Representative Fish (Republican), of New York, called the project "an extravagant political fraud" sponsored by President Roosevelt "under the guise of national defense."

The waterway would create unemployment in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk and along the Gulf Coast, he said, adding that "the absurdity of the defense subterfuge is clearly demonstrated by the fact that it would take at least four years to complete this project."

Of the 46 Senators who voted against the St. Lawrence project in 1934, 17 are still in office, while 23 of the 42 who supported the waterway are still serving.

Checks Bounce, So District Asks Return of Tags

Three motorists who failed to make good their "rubber checks" for the new auto tags will be asked to turn back the tags to the District, Collector Guy Pearson said yesterday.

Pearson said he had given the motorists a "grace period" of 12 days to redeem the checks, which were returned by the banks marked "insufficient funds."

To date, more than 300 "bouncing checks" were handled by Pearson on the auto tags but only 64 so far have failed to redeem them. The remaining 61 still have a few days to redeem the checks.

"We won't prosecute but we want the real money or our tags back," Pearson said.

Julian Sues West On Personal Note

W. A. Julian, Treasurer of the United States, filed suit for a personal note of $2,500 against Charles West, former Undersecretary of the Interior and a member of President Roosevelt's early New Deal "Little Cabinet," in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville, Md., yesterday.

The former Undersecretary's wife, Mrs. Annie West, also was named with her husband in the suit. It was claimed that both signed a personal note for the named sum on March 23, 1939.

The suit was filed by Judge Ralph G. Shuse, Rockville attorney. The Wests reside at 208 Kennedy Drive, Kenwood, Md.

Nazi Papers Blame Yugoslavs

Copyright by New York Times

Berlin, April 1.—Most recent developments in Yugoslavia are viewed in German quarters with ever-increasing gravity.

Press dispatches appearing under Budapest, Graz and Linz datelines declare all farms and villages in which racial Germans dwell have been burned to the ground. Germans mishandled and imprisoned, and that in one case the swastika was branded upon the cheeks of a racial German.

Particularly serious, in the German view, is the report that the leaders of the German racial groups in Yugoslavia have been imprisoned or mobilized, so that German residents there are without leadership while others are reported to be held as "hostages."

In the German view, this appears to represent a well-planned action on the part of the Yugoslav government designed to intensify anti-German agitation and demonstrations. The latter, according to German reports, are not spontaneous.

The Germans also acknowledge their awareness of the mobilization which is proceeding in Yugoslavia.

The situation in Croatia, according to reports in Berlin, appears to be considerably different from that in old Serbia, for the Germans declare that the Croat population and its leaders are apparently still striving to maintain the greatest possible calm in face of new events. As the result of this, it is added in German quarters, demonstrations and incidents of considerable moment have not occurred in Croatia.

Typical of front-page captions in German border villages furning; systematic persecution of Germans increasing; incendiaries going from village to village; stream of refugees continues; arrests without reason; Germans no longer sure of their lives; riots against the Italians."

she "does the bettah snooping at the bettah sawt of teas" was the victim of the editors' rage.

Malvina Lindsay, who said at a microphone that she "ought to be in Nassau right this minute—my doctor says," was a dressy socialite making announcements as models walked across the stage in a "fashion show" for the benefit of newspaperwomen.

The national defense program has put the girls in a quandary, the skits revealed. The country calls and the women of the Nation respond—ready to wear uniforms with high heels and to repair tanks with hairpins.

Off the Record

The curtain for the last act went up to show Elizabeth Henney, an Army hostess, doing the hula. The narrator said:

"The Army hostess agree
"Her duties include these:
"To darn their socks and hear their woes,
"To let them waltz upon her toes,
"To electrify with wave and wiggle,
"To laugh at jokes with merry giggle.
"To build morale, whatever it is,
"For the handsomest lad in the whole divis.
"Their country calls and they respond.

Following the skits, Mrs. Roosevelt delivered an off-the-record talk. Among the club's special guests who were introduced by Helen Essary, president of the club, were:

Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, Mrs. Cordell Hull, Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, Mrs. Robert Jackson, Mrs. Frank Walker, Mrs. Frank Knox, Mrs. Claude Wickard, Senator Hattie Caraway, Representative Mary T. "I can't afford to stop work"

—if this fits your case, then, here is an easy way to protect your strength... to generate new power how you may be able to overcome that tired, run-down feeling sluggish digestion loss of weight poor appetite

THOUSANDS and thousands of men and women have testified to the benefits S.S.S. has brought them.

The facts are simple, though a low red blood condition is often most deceptive. Wear and strain of worry, overwork, colds, and sickness often reduce one's blood strength.

Now you may rebuild this strength by restoring your red blood to normal, in the absence of an organic trouble or focal infection, with the famous S.S.S. Tonic.

S.S.S. acts two ways

In S.S.S. Tonic you go after the trouble in two ways . . . first you increase the appetite and better your stomach digestion—thus making better use of the food you eat—secondly, thin, weak, watery blood is made rich and red again thus giving you a boost in energy.

If you can't afford to stop work . . . if there are loved ones dependent on you for support . . . you owe it to them and to yourself to start now on a course of S.S.S. Tonic.

enjoy better health

S.S.S. may be just what you need to get you on the right road to health and happiness again . . . it helps build sturdy health . . . that's why so many say it "makes you feel like yourself again."

Mrs. Searcy's Death Blamed On Hair-Wave

Mrs. Searcy died a few minutes after leaving the beauty establishment in Atlanta on March 19.

Mrs. Searcy, who lives in Griffin, Ga., is the mother of three children, including Miss Lelia Searcy, of Mount Vernon Seminary here.

Mrs. Searcy, a native of Washington, attended the Holton-Arms School here. She made her debut in 1920.

Others surviving are Mrs. Searcy's grandmother, Mrs. Nathan B. Scott, sr., of Hotel 2400; two sons, Scott and Bartlett, of Griffin; two brothers, Nathan B. Scott and Guy T. Scott, and two sisters, Mrs. D. J. Callahan, jr., and Mrs. T. H. Dunn, all of Washington.

Mrs. Chesley Dies in Capital

Mrs. Thornton Chesley, widow of a Washington broker, died last night in her room at the Roger Smith Hotel.

Dr. Charles C. Marbury, who had been treating her for a heart ailment, received a telephone call from Mrs. Chesley at 11 p. m. for him to come at once. She said she was in desperate pain.

When he arrived, Mrs. Chesley was dead.

Her husband died eight years ago.

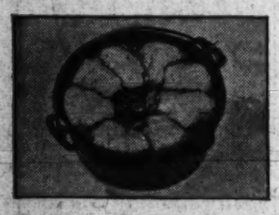
ELLERY QUEEN'S Mystery Potted Veal with Dumplings



2 pounds veal shoulder	1 tablespoon Lea & Perrins Sauce
3 onion, sliced	4 tablespoons flour
1 quart water	¼ cup cold water
6 carrots, sliced	2 cups biscuit mix
2 cups potatoes, sliced	1 cup milk
2 teaspoons salt

Remove fat and cut meat into one-inch cubes. Simmer veal and onion in water for 1 hour. Add carrots, potatoes, salt and Lea & Perrins Sauce; continue cooking for 15 minutes. Thicken mixture with flour which has been blended with water. Combine biscuit mix and milk and drop by teaspoonfuls on top of meat and vegetables which are gently boiling. Cover closely and steam 20 minutes without lifting cover. This makes 4 to 6 servings.

No mystery at all to the hearty, wholesome goodness of this meal-in-a-dish. It's the touch of Lea & Perrins Sauce that turns the trick, and makes the family beg for more.

Try Lea & Perrins Sauce tonight, and see how this original Worcestershire points up the flavor of all your favorite meat and fish dishes. You'll agree there never was a better cook's assistant.

How Washington's New $8,500,000 Hotel Will Look

DRAWING of the $8,500,000 Hotel Statler, to rise on the east side of Sixteenth Street Northwest, between K and L Streets, released yesterday by A. R. Clas, associate architect. Razing of structures on the site began this week and excavation work is expected to begin May 1. To contain 1,000 rooms, the hotel will be constructed by the John Harris Associates, Inc., of New York, and will be ready for opening in June or July, 1942. Holabird & Root, of Chicago, are the architects. The main ballroom will seat 2,000, Clas said, and the entire structure will be air-conditioned

Hedda Hopper Finds Space Here for Self, Orange Blooms

Hedda Hopper, The Post's Hollywood reporter, was in town yesterday. One of the first things she did was attend the President's press conference. "I'm a dyed-in-the-wool Republican," Hedda whispered, "but I fell like a ton of bricks." She is shown entering the White House

Blonde, vivacious and dressed for spring, Hedda Hopper, one of The Post's Hollywood correspondents, drove through a Washington April drizzle yesterday to three hotels looking for a suite of rooms in which she could "breathe."

Here as guest of the Women's National Press Club for a dinner at the Willard Hotel last night, Miss Hopper arrived by American Airlines two hours late and was considerably out of breath when she arrived at a special luncheon in her honor at the Mayflower Hotel.

Adverse weather conditions in the South, she explained, held up her plane and she was fearful her first visit to Washington in ten years was going to be spoiled. But by hurrying she procured her suite and made all engagements—including the President's press conference.

The ace collector of movieland news tidbits, whose column appears in 27 newspapers from coast to coast and exclusively in The Post in Washington, brought with her what she described as a "coffin" of California orange blossoms.

They were all wrapped up in a long box (almost as big as Miss Hopper) and were used to decorate the banquet hall last night.

With the big box of orange blossoms, three bags and a large purse which insisted on getting lost, Miss Hopper went to one hotel and was given a room. She didn't like it, so the whole works were piled into a taxi and she went to another hotel. This didn't have a suite available either. But Miss Hopper was ultimately ensconced in a third hotel, the Willard, where she found a suite which, she said, "didn't give her claustrophobia," as a single room did.

But by that time, Miss Hopper's spring outfit was a bit bedraggled—to say nothing of Miss Hopper. So, between makeup changes and a general rearranging, she divulged things about herself that few—if any—of the movie stars she writes about know. For instance:

Miss Hopper is an actress in her own right, but gets much more of a "kick" out of writing a Hollywood column. There is nothing particularly difficult about writing her "daily stint," says Miss Hopper.

She knows all the Hollywood stars and all the stars know her—so there's little that escapes her attention.

Miss Hopper has been in pictures 25 years. She said so herself, but it's hard to believe. She played in Louis B. Mayer's first picture, "Virtuous Women," and has done various roles in many pictures since.

Three years ago a man knocked on her door. He was from a newspaper feature syndicate. "You should be writing a column about Hollywood," he said. "Is that so?" responded Hedda. And it was so. So she did—and is.

But Miss Hopper has a confession to make to her reading public:

"I can't write a decent hand nor spell a word," she confided. "And—I can't use a typewriter. But, I've got a secretary—and can I dictate!"

For all the movie jobs in the world, she said, "I wouldn't give up my column. There is nothing so much fun."

In her spare minutes, Hedda conducts a radio broadcast three times a week. While she is in Washington, Kate Smith and Irvin S. Cobb are "subbing" for her on the air.

Her biggest thrill (all visiting celebrities must have a "biggest thrill," she agreed) was attending the President's press conference yesterday.

"I'm a dyed in the wool Republican," Hedda whispered, "but I fell like a ton of bricks."

Rites Tomorrow For W. E. Higgins, U. S. Employe

Funeral services for William E. Higgins, 65, chief of the mechanical division of the Bureau of Animal Industry, will be held at 9 a. m. tomorrow at St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Twelfth and Newton Streets Northeast. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Mr. Higgins died of a heart ailment Monday at Garfield Hospital. A native of New London, Conn., he came to Washington 40 years ago and at the time of his death resided at 3729 Thirty-fourth Street, Mount Rainier, Md.

Before entering the Agriculture Department 30 years ago, Mr. Higgins was a gunsight specialist at the Navy Yard here.

McCarran Seeks FBI, Dies Reports on PUC Nominee

general counsel for the FPC and one of those who recommended Hankin for the PUC job, said he knew Hankin "obviously isn't and never has been a Communist."

McCarran said he is determined that the information in the file shall be made public. The Justice Department, he said, asked that it be allowed to bring the file to Capitol Hill and present its contents to the subcommittee in closed executive session.

McCarran said he had no information about the extent of the file, or the information in it.

"I don't know whether it's for or against Hankin," he said. "I hope it's favorable."

In his first call to the Justice Department, said McCarran, he talked to an assistant to J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, who reported that the Hankin records had been removed from the FBI file by the Attorney General.

Later he said he talked to Ugo Carusi, executive assistant to the Attorney General, and was told that under the rules of the department, the records could not be sent to the Senator unless they were kept in the custody of a Justice Department representative. McCarran said that Carusi suggested presenting the records in an executive session of the subcommittee.

McCarran asked that the matter be taken up with the Attorney General, and about 6 p. m. McCarran said he had received word that a Justice Department representative would come to see him today.

"I want the records as they were removed from the FBI files," McCarran declared. "They will become a public record or the matter will not be approved by my vote. If there is any matter in the Department of Justice concerning a nominee to a position of this importance that the Senate should know, the Senate is going to know it."

It just Breathes a little Deeper ~ and Wades In!

EVER stop to figure why Nature gave you both a nose and a mouth to breathe through?

Your nose, barring colds, does all right for ordinary purposes.

But go up against some heavy exercise and you can open up your mouth as well and increase the intake of oxygen.

Your 1941 Buick with Compound Carburetion* works something like that.

Its "nose," which is the forward one of your two thrift-size carburetors, does a grand job of supplying "breath" for your engine on normal jobs.

But when the time comes that your engine has to dig in for a tough pull or a burst of power, then your extra foot-pressure on the gas treadle opens up the "mouth" and your engine "breathes" through two carburetors.

Simple, isn't it? Yet look what happens:

Your engine always consumes gas according to the need, never overfed by a carburetor too large for light jobs or underfed by one too small for the big ones.

By simply taking it easy when easy does it and breathing deep when the work piles up, your power plant gets as much as 10% to 15% more mileage from the same gasoline.

That, in these days, is nothing to be sneezed at.

So why don't you get the whole story from your Buick dealer?

BUICK PRICES BEGIN AT $915 for the Business Coupe delivered at Flint, Mich. State tax, optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

Nelson B. Bell About the Showshops

The Clans Will Gather To Honor an Old Friend

Testimonial Dinner to "Rudy" Berger, Monday; Mary Martin Pays Capital a Brief Visit; This, That and the Other About the Theater

IT SEEMS ABOUT TIME to emphasize the fact that on next Monday night, at 7, in the Willard Hotel, tribute will be paid to one of the most admirable fellows in Washington's filmdom, in recognition of his 30 years of unremitting service in behalf of the better things of the cinema in this territory.

BELL

That esteemed gentleman is Rudolph Berger—"Rudy" to most of us—divisional manager for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures. Big-wigs of the motion picture industry are coming from all points of the compass to express something of their admiration and affection for Rudy Berger. William Scully, general sales manager for Universal Pictures, will fly in from the Coast to be one of the guest speakers on this effulgent occasion. Other prominent guests who are making long trips out of a sheer spirit of camaraderie for an old friend, will include William F. Rodgers, sales manager for M-G-M, with home offices in New York; William F. Crockett, president of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of Virginia; Ol' Massa Ed Kuykendall, the Hoosier-Mississippian, who long has served as national president of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America, and a greater number of others of national repute than you could count on all your fingers, toes, eyes, ears, arms and legs.

Not the least of Mr. Berger's services to the community has been the administration of the activities of the Welfare Fund of the Washington Variety Club, of which he is chairman. The contributions of this department of Variety to the more humanitarian interests of the National Capital already have been recited here too often to demand recapitulation now.

Monday night's testimonial banquet is under the general chairmanship of Sidney B. Lust, with Manager Hardie Meakin, of RKO-Keith's Theater, and A. E. Lichtman, operator of the theaters bearing his name, as cochairmen. That brilliant and hair-trigger wit among the Washington legalites, Alvin Newmyer, will act as toastmaster.

By one of those odd perversities that sometimes actuate the sponsors of such inspiriting evenings, the salute to Mr. Berger has been pitched on an evening and at an hour that pretty thoroughly precludes the presence of the drama desks. There is a show opening at the National that night and, after all, a job is a job. We all will be with him in spirit, if not in the contaminating flesh. In an enthusiastic gathering of 300 or 400—and probably more—we'd never be missed, anyhow.

Columbia's Roundup of Academy Award Winners

If Mr. Coe has covered it in his "midweek" column of coming attractions, don't bother to read this. But there does seem to be a point in favor of the Columbia Theater, once Thursday arrives, in the stature of its bill. The major feature—as I am sure Mr. Coe has mentioned—will be David O. Selznick's Academy Award-winning picture of "Rebecca." But it doesn't end there. The supplementaries will include two other Academy prize winners. One will be Pete Smith's "Quicker'n a Wink;" the other, Rudolph Ising's Technicolor cartoon, "The Milky Way."

So at an impossible hour for this department on an abysmal day, the LaFaice Brothers, of the Warner interests, bob up with the information that Mary Martin, whose "heart belongs to Daddy" held court at the Carlton yesterday evening from 5 to 6. Today, the Loew interests are screening "Men of Boys Town," followed by a levee during which the drama desks will listen-in to a broadcast on which Spencer Tracy, Mickey Rooney and Father Flanagan will be heard. It would be nice to be able to make some of this. Perhaps we will. In which case, more later.

Miss Allison Signs on the Dotted Line

Personal aside to J. W. W., Hotel Grafton: The points in your note of March 31 are extremely well taken and will be brought to the attention of those who ought to be most interested. When that is done, the results will be made known here—if not the results, at least the point of view. And thank you, sir, for your interest.

Lynn Allison, lovely young Washington singer, will make her future theater appearances exclusively at Loew's Capitol Theater, according to a bulletin as hot as yesterday. This week she is singing Gene Ford's new song, "Cherry Blossom Time," official chant of Washington's annual festival of blooms. Gene has graciously sent me a copy of the number, which bears a flattering inscription in his own handwriting—I didn't know the guy could write—dedicated to this column.

Take-It-to-the-Discount-Window Note

Reunited in New Warner Picture

BETTE DAVIS AND GEORGE BRENT

already seen together in "Jezebel," "The Old Maid" and "Dark Victory," soon will appear again as costars of the Warner Brothers production of "The Great Lie." Not immediately booked, this subject, nevertheless, will be coming along in due course to one of the Warner Washington screens

Louella O. Parsons'

Close-Ups and Long-Shots Of the Motion Picture Scene

Hollywood, April 1 (INS).—The midnight oil burned in the office of Jack Warner while he and Hal Wallis pondered over the lead for "One Foot in Heaven." Ministers all over the country had written in with an idea, many of whom were eager to play in the Hartzell Spence movie. Mrs. Spence, herself, had hoped a minister might be chosen but finally, when the difficulties attendant on the selection of a person who is not camera wise was explained, she selected Fredric March.

LOUELLA PARSONS

Mrs. Spence, in answer to our query, said: "I feel Mr. March has all the attributes necessary to the portrayal of my husband, a clergyman of great faith and understanding."

Always interesting news in Hollywood when Frank Capra decides on a movie, for at least 25 stars would postpone any engagement to be in a Capra film. Today he was arranging to buy "The Flying Yorkshireman" from Frank Lloyd, who had planned to bring it to the screen himself. When I questioned Capra about the deal he said he hoped a few details necessary to the transfer of the film property would be ironed out and that he could start work immediately on Eric Knight's fantasy as his next picture.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Martha O'Driscoll is wearing a star ruby put on her finger by Willis Hunt, jr., Carole Landis' former; Allan Miller and Mary Frazier eloped to Las Vegas over the week-end. He is the brother of Mrs. Zeppo Marx; Lynne Carver, who has been very ill, was out for the first time in ages. She and her husband were at the Cafe La Maze; Pat Stillman leaves for Reno tomorrow. She is the girl who has been going here and there with Cesar Romero but Cesar is a close friend of her husband and denies there is any romantic attachment.

Mickey Rooney danced every dance with Linda Darnell at the Beverly Hills Athletic Club and wouldn't give any of Linda's admirers so much as a look-in; Frances Robinson and Len Hanna at the Scheherazade; Dorothy Lamour, who hasn't been feeling well, had to leave the set at Para today and go home. It's the flu; Lois Spreckles and Jimmie Fisher, story editor for Ernst Lubitsch, have set Saturday for their wedding date;

Mitch Leisen got a big laugh when he walked into Paramount Studio with a big beach umbrella to keep the rain drops off.

That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

In Hollywood

Hollywood, April 1.

After spending an afternoon with Bill Hart on his 300-acre ranch at Newhall, I came away with the feeling that he is one of our luckiest ones. He bought the place 20 years ago, has a hill-top with one of the finest views you'll ever behold and there he lives with his sister, Mary, his horses and dogs. He has two of the finest paintings Charlie Russell ever did. One is "The Buffalo Hunt." The other is of Bill's horse Fritz, who died at the age of 31. Editorials were written about Fritz. He's buried on the ranch.

HOPPER

Bill told me a story about the horse I'd never known before. Fritz did everything but talk, and belonged to the company for which Bill worked. He tried to buy him, they wouldn't sell, so because of Fritz, he stayed with them for three years. Then he said: "All right, I'll make a picture for nothing, if you'll give me Fritz." He did. His salary would have amounted to $46,000.

After the picture was finished, they stole Fritz. Bill found out where he was hidden and, together with a cowboy, stole him back again, then wired to the head of the company in New York, telling how he'd use his six-shooters if this stunt were ever repeated. It never was.

The two things he prizes most are these: a photograph of himself taken with Amelia Earhart a week before she left on her tragic flight, and a tiny American flag autographed by her, which she'd carried on every flight she'd taken. It was her good luck omen. He begged her to take it along, but she wanted him to have it . . . I envy Bill his peace and quiet, and being away from the bickering, jealousies, and turmoil of this spot we call Hollywood.

That Arabic drape Roz Russell wears over her head and face in "The Uniform" is called a "snerd." Maybe they swiped it from Bergen's Mortimer. Anyway, on the set, the men said they didn't like it, but girls did. The durned thing practically covered Roz's whole face, and hers is a face that can be worn naked. And on her it looks good.

Walter Van Pelt, who backed the Lum and Abner picture, decided, when our Academy awards were handed out, to give one of his own. And did—to June Collyer, as the best-dressed woman of the whole season at the Santa Anita race track.

I asked young Joan Leslie what Gary Cooper talked about between scenes on "Sergeant York" set. She said, "Horses and guns. He's really fascinating." Both Gary and Director Howard Hawks are authorities on shooting irons, and judging from the conversation, you'd think the "York" set was an arsenal.

Joel McCrea and Frances Gifford chinning in the Paramount commissary about the first time they met. Frances was a high school kid being shown the studio by a friend, when Sam Goldwyn spotted her and had her shoot a test right away. Joel happened to be working there, so pinch-hit as her leading man for the test. And that, chilluns, is how yo' grandpappy met yo' grandmammy.

The doctor who delivered Carole Landis is delivering an address in her honor when she accepts the "Honey Girl" title from the American Bee Growers Association. That's what I call following through. I'm glad they didn't put the bee on the M. D. who delivered me—exclamation point!!!

HarryCarey Draws Important Role

One of the important roles in "Parachute Battalion," which Producer Howard Benedict expects to send before the cameras soon, goes to Harry Carey, veteran character actor of screen and stage.

"Parachute Battalion," based on the screenplay by John Twist and Capt. Hugh Fite, U. S. Air Corps, will be the first picture to chronicle the dare-devil existence of this new branch of army service.

Lionel's Crooning Launches NewFilm

With Lionel Barrymore singing "Mademoiselle from Armentieres" to a baby in the consultation room of a big hospital, production has started on the seventh of the Dr. Kildare series. The picture, as yet untitled, deals with the adventures of Lew Ayers and Barrymore in detective work to clear up a malpractice lawsuit.

'Blossom Time' Blooms Again Monday Night

"BLOSSOM TIME." Boasting the finest voices to have sung in such a revival for many years, the Sigmund Romberg operetta will open at the National Theater Monday evening. Everett Marshall, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera, heads the company as Franz Schubert, from whose music the score is adapted. Marie Nash, prima donna of last season's "Higher and Higher," and Martha Errolle, who appeared in "Night of Love," have the leading soprano roles. Douglas Leavitt, Frank Hornaday, Harry K. Morton, Zelda Russell, Victor Morley, Gracie Worth and Marjorie Ford are others in the cast. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Palace

"MEN OF BOYS TOWN." Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney co-star again in a story of Father Flanagan's much-admired social settlement, a sequel to "Boys Town" of 1938, one of the most successful films of that year. Several plots are woven into the now-familiar setting. Bobs Watson, Larry Nunn, Darryl Hickman, Henry O'Neill, Mary Nash, Lee J. Cobb, Robert Emmett Keane, Arthur Hohl and Anne Revere are the chief supporting players. Opens tomorrow morning.

Earle

"A GIRL, A GUY AND A GOB." George Murphy, Lucille Ball and Edmund O'Brien have the leads in this Harold Lloyd production. A pretty secretary in a large shipping firm, her sailor sweetheart and her dignified young employer are the pivotal figures. Henry Travers, Franklin Pangborn, Lloyd Corrigan and Kathleen Howard are featured. Martha Raye brings her celebrated humor to headline the stage revue, a bill with many reliable favorites: the Three Swifts, Will and Gladys Ahearn, the Christianis and Jim and Mildred Mulcay. Opens Friday morning.

Capitol

"THE PENALTY." Lionel Barrymore and Edward Arnold are the stars in this story of an egotistical killer whose only soft spot is the love he bears his son. Gene Reynolds is the boy and the country yokels who teach him a new sense of values are Barrymore, Marsha Hunt, Robert Sterling, Emma Dunn and Grant Mitchell. Tommy Dorsey, his trombone and orchestra, are the stage attractions for the new week, with the radio and dance favorite already attracting extraordinary advance interest. Opens tomorrow morning.

Metropolitan

"CONVOY." Clive Brook, Judy Campbell and John Clements head the cast of this new adventure film of the current war, filmed in cooperation with the British navy. The adventure details the job of convoying unarmed vessels of neutral countries safely to various ports. Edward Chapman, Penelope Dudley-Ward, Edward Rigby, Charles Williams, Alan Jeaves and Michael Wilding have the featured supporting roles. Opens Friday morning.

RKO-Keith's

"NICE GIRL?" Deanna Durbin's ninth consecutive hit continues for a third week on Fifteenth Street, constituting a new box-office record. Franchot Tone, Robert Benchley and Robert Stack top the support. Added to the bill beginning Friday morning is a new short subject of the Dionne Quintuplets, "Growing Up," with commentary by Dr. Allen Roy Dafoe. "Americans All," latest "March of Time," also continues.

Columbia

"REBECCA." Academy Award film of the year, this Alfred Hitchcock picturization of the Daphne du Maurier novel returns for another run on F Street. Joan Fontaine and Laurence Olivier head the cast, with Judith Anderson playing the somber housekeeper. Opens tomorrow morning.

Uline Ice Arena

GENE AUTRY and Col. Jim Eskew's "Wild West Rodeo" continue through Sunday night in the new indoor stadium at Third and M Streets Northeast. The film star-radio headliner brings not only his guitar, but also his horses, Champion and Champion, jr., to this unique spectacle. Evening performances are at 8:30. Matinees Saturday and Sunday at 2:30.

Little

"NIGHT T..AIN." Chalking up an increasing speed rather than a diminishing one, the mystery thriller enters its eighth consecutive week at the Ninth Street house. Rex Harrison, Margaret Lockwood, Paul von Hernreid, Basil Radford and Nauton Wayne are the players.

Trans-Lux

"SPRINGTIME IN THE HOLY LAND." Galilee, Bethlehem and Jerusalem are the settings for this color travelogue, timely feature of the newsreel theater's short subject bill. "Baby Stars," featuring the child stars of today, and "The Lonesome Stranger," burlesque cartoon, are the other shorts. Opens Friday morning.

Gayety

"NAUGHTY NIFTIES." Marnee, one of burlesque's latest stars, is the headliner of the new burlesque production opening Sunday afternoon. Besides an aggregation of feminine dancers, the company also boasts three comedians, Hank Henry, Bob Alda and Harry Fields. Hinda Wassau is the star of this week's attraction, continuing through Saturday's midnight performance.

Actor's Thrift

Some hobbies are expensive, but Brian Donlevy figures that his has saved him close to $1,000 during the last month. An enthusiast when it comes to working around his house, with a fair amount of skill at carpentering, he has just completed a fence and a combined leisure room and store room, apart from his house, on his Brentwood Heights property. Working during his free moments from "Billy the Kid," the job took him over four weeks, but it cost him $1,000 less than contractors had bid.

Leonard Lyons:

New York, April 1.

WENDELL WILLKIE: Here's a trail for you to follow: A member of the White House circle soon will leave for London, Africa, Greece, China and Australia—a single trip, to make a study of defenses there . . . Ed Flynn: The President will have a meeting of all his defense group coordinators in ten days. And as soon as he returns to his office, there'll be a shake-up in the program executives . . . Henri Haye: Isn't it true that Chautemps, the former premier who is here now—although all the premiers under whom he worked in France are in jail—is running the French Embassy? He's being credited with the food-for-France deal . . . Gertrude Lawrence: Noel Coward was called back to London. Eddie Cantor will substitute for Noel, on the Campbell Playhouse broadcast scheduled for next Friday.

LYONS

FIORELLO LaGUARDIA: Tom Dewey doesn't plan to run for re-election. He's trying to arrange a bipartisan nomination for one of his aides, as district attorney . . . Attorney General Jackson: If you'll study Harry Bridges' birth certificate, you will notice a remarkable statement recorded thereon. It says that he wasn't present at the time of his birth . . . Sophie Tucker: Your son, Bert, is at Fifth Avenue Hospital . . . Paul V. McNutt: Two royal ladies now are on your Social Security rolls—the Ranee of Sarawak and the Maharanee of Pudukkotai . . . Bill Bullitt: Pierre Cot, who was France's air minister while you were in a Paris, has a new job now. He's been subsisting on lectures—and now is teaching at Yale.

BROADWAY ASSOCIATION: Ben Riley's Arrowhead Inn, one of New York's best known roadhouses, was sold at auction recently. Riley became famed as the first restaurateur to introduce frogs' legs here. The man who bought the furnishings at the auction is Ben Reuben, owner of the Asinthe House—the new restaurant which features frogs' legs . . . John Perona: Spring made its official debut at your El Morocco last night, while you were absent. Harold Gordon sustained a battered jaw, in the crowded cafe, while defending Leonore Lemmon's honor . . . Department of Justice: Van Valtin told us last month that if he's deported, Germany never will get him alive. He said: "You'll have a corpse on your hands."

RAYMOND MASSEY: Philip Merivale wasn't anxious to follow you at the Greek benefit show at the Music Hall Friday night. Merivale did a scene from "Valley Forge," in which he played Washington. He knew that you'd do the curtain speech from "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." Merivale said when he learned he'd gone on before you, "I say—I'm grateful to American history—that Washington preceded Lincoln" . . . Thomas Mann: Your friend, Louis Nizer, said: "Germany is not a country which has an army. It is an army which has a country" . . . Archibald MacLeish: The President soon will announce another edition of his collected speeches and state papers. Book Publishers Association: Postmaster General Walker has reported favorably on the bill to reduce postage on books.

ANDRE MAUROIS: When the students at the swanky Ecole Superior Normale, in Paris, were instructed: "Those of you who are non-Aryan must register immediately" the entire student body appeared for registration. "But this cannot be," the registrar assured them. Their spokesman for the young men who thus were making clear their protest explained: "You see, none of us is sure just how Nordic our grandmothers were." Clark Gable: When Harry Hershfield was faced with a comparison against you he said: "Up to $400 a week I make as much money as Gable does" . . . Kohler of Kohler: The nostalgic Lucius Beebe has spent more than ten times what it would have cost him to modernize it to keep the bathroom at his family estate in exactly the same condition it was when he was a boy.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR.: Last week Emil Ludwig dined with Dr. Saul Colin. Ludwig was asked: "If you had the choice of spending an evening with any person, whom would you select?" Ludwig answered: "Maurice Maeterlinck. I've always just missed meeting him. And he is the last Olympian." And so Friday night Ludwig, Colin and Maeterlinck dined at your Rainbow Room.

LORD HALIFAX: Winston Churchill's statement about the R. A. F. —that never in the field of human conflict have so many owed so much to so few—has affected every phase of London life . . . even musical comedy.

Art in the Modern Manner

ABSTRACT ART tops off the current week's paintings in The Post's art window, with a water color entitled "Flowers," by Agnes Weinrich, of Provincetown, Mass. Other paintings in the window this week, also in the modern manner but less extraordinary, are "Fruit," by Carlos Lopez, Royal Oak, Mich., and "Stables," by Norman R. Eppink, Emporia, Kans. All three are from the recent water color competition of the Section of Fine Arts

For One Day Dizzy Capital Was an April Fool's Paradise

Life went hard with serious-minded Washingtonians yesterday, especially those with an aversion to exploding cigarettes, rubber forks, portable inkspots and squirt rings.

April Fool pranksters, as usual, gave 200 attendants one of their busiest days of the year, answering calls for various animals.

The George Washington University student paper announced purchase by the school of Georgetown University, lock, stock and Blozis, for $17.95 and a pint of rye at an auction.

The manager of a doll hospital at 1926 M Street Northwest reported that he had received "at least 20 telephone callls" asking for "Dolly." "This never happened before," he moaned.

Citizens who called the Commerce Department aquarium to speak with Mr. Bass or Mr. Fish were told politely by Keeper Fred Orsinger that their party was in the bath.

Thousands of sadder and wiser Washingtonians suspected it all day, but just for the record April Fool departments in several District novelty stores reported their largest sales in years.

Most popular, or unpopular, of their wares were buzzing handshakers, rubber candy, water-squirting buttonhole gardenias and old-fashioned exploding cigars, salesmen reported.

A preliminary survey of the city revealed that small snakes appeared from a sizable number of half-filled bottles, the usual number of persons called the morgue to ask for Mr. Coffyn, police received enough calls from "wits" to keep them busy and no wallets were successfully picked up from sidewalks.

Doctors' Trial Arguments to Begin Today

By Gerald G. Gross
Post Staff Writer

Largest courtroom attendance since the doctors' trial opened February in District Court is expected today when the jury begins hearing arguments for and against conviction of the 20 defendants.

Justice James M. Proctor has granted four and a half hours each to Government and defense counsel.

John Henry Lewin and Grant W. Kelleher, special assistants to the Attorney General, will divide the Government's opening arguments equally, taking the floor in that order, to demand conviction of the American Medical Association, District Medical Society and 18 individual defendants for conspiracy to restrain Group Health Association.

William E. Leahy, who heads the panel of six defense attorneys, will carry the burden for the other side, save that John Laskey probably will deliver a separate plea to the jury in behalf of Dr. Prentiss Willson, a former president of the District Medical Society and one of the personal defendants.

The others include Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the A. M. A. Journal; Dr. Olin West, secretary and general manager of the A. M. A.; two other officials of the association, 12 Washington practitioners, besides Dr. Willson, and the retired head of the A. M. A.'s bureau of legal medicine and legislation.

Lewin will give the Government's closing argument, an hour or so in length, some time tomorrow, after Leahy has finished. Justice Proctor is expected to instruct the jury Friday morning and then turn over the case to its 13 members, one of whom is an alternate. Two of the 12 "regulars" are women.

Court was not in session yesterday, Justice Proctor having given the day over to counsel for preparation of arguments.

On Two Labor Fronts—C. I. O. strikers at the Allis-Chalmers plant, near Milwaukee, attempted to stop a back-to-work movement of men under guard of police and deputy sheriffs. When they stepped in the police met them and fist fights flared. Beforehand, work stopped at the Montour Mine No. 10, in the Pittsburgh coal fields, where a contract with miners terminated. At right—The last carload of workers is shown as it came up from the mine. A two-and-a-half-hour battle raged at the Allis plant and Gov. Heil of Wisconsin (see below) was stoned.

Nesbitt Named Assistant D. C. Counsel

John Nesbitt, 30, an attorney with the Department of Justice, yesterday was named an assistant corporation counsel for the District.

NESBITT

Vacancy was created by the promotion of Irving Bryan, assistant corporation counsel on claims matters, who will be transferred to Police Court to replace G. Reber Littlehales, whose resignation becomes effective June 2. Bryman, former secretary to Engineer Commissioner David McCoach, will receive a $600 boost in salary and will serve under Edward M. Thomas, chief assistant corporation counsel at Police Court. Nesbitt gets Bryan's job in the District Building.

A native of Washington and graduate of Central High School and Columbus University, where he received his law degree, Nesbitt formerly served as a clerk in the United States Attorney's office under Leo A. Rover and Leslie C. Garnett. He also attended George Washington University and was admitted to the bar in 1933.

Nesbitt lives at 1601 Argonne Place Northwest.

D. C. Flying Unit Accepts 21 More

Twenty-one men recently have passed the physical examination for the 121st Observation Squadron, District National Guard Aviation Unit, boosting the squadron's enlisted strength to 86, Gen. Albert L. Cox, District National Guard commander, announced yesterday.

There remain 19 vacancies in the enlisted personnel of the newly-formed Capital squadron for which applications will be accepted at District Guard Armory, Sixth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue Northwest, today.

Those qualifying for these posts will be trained in subjects including radio, aerial photography and plane, engine and ordnance maintenance.

TROIKA'S A-BUZZ. Helen Hamilton is just in from a "heavenly vacation" in Miami and in the midst of dickering for one of New York's most notable dance stars to debut at Troika next Monday. A profile of La Hamilton by Luther Davis and John Cleveland will soon appear in Collier's . . . Pat Prochnik has wound up her long Troika engagement, is off to New York to consider a couple of offers . . . Rosita Rios' admirers (meaning everyone who's entered Troika in the last few weeks) are regretting that this is her last week. But previous contracts are calling. Rosita sang the rare "Babalu" at the party given for her by singer-dancer Ariel, who in private life is Mrs. William Howard Calfee, wife of the rising young sculptor recently pictured in Look mag. Ariel danced her prettiest, too, and Sophocles Papas played some elegant bits from Mozart and Bach. Francis De Salles, who played the director in "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," insisted on remaining an onlooker for once.

Carmen Cavallaro will spend next Sunday in New York making a new record album to be titled "All the Things You Are." He'll be previewing all of the ten album tunes at the Cosmos Room this week.

SHOREHAM SUPER-SHOW. Its biggest show ever (outside of New Year events) is being presented in the Shoreham Blue Room. Soprano Marjorie King has been added to the line-up and that lovely li'l firebomb, Honey Murray, is held over. Previously announced acts include Federico and Rankin, who combine card and cigarette magic with their dances; Vera Fern, ballerina of "Too Many Girls," and Kenny and Norris, acrobatic stars of Benny Davis' "Stardust," which recently closed at the Capitol Theater. Every act is of top caliber and would decorate any big musical or stage show.

"WHAT TO DO ABOUT LOVE," newest brain child of Vic Nini of Ciro's Famous Village and the Post's Tim Pasna, sold like a hot cake, is being given a big play by Jimmy Lunceford's orchestra on the West Coast.

Marie Austin, the "singing Patsy Kelly" who was such a panic in Benny Davis' "Stardust" at the Capitol, opened at Paul Young's last night. "Come up and cut yourself a slice of fun," says Marie-Patsy.

SUCH A BIRD! John Tio, the parrot star of Lotus' "Blossom Revue," (see picture above) is simply dumfounding audiences. John imitates Bing Crosby, Jimmy Durante, Eddy Cantor, dogs, cats, ducks, banjos, roosters, trains, policemen's whistles and the opening of a bottle of champagne. He also sings and whistles tunes, sweet and jive, and conducts amazing conversations.

ADVANCE ON "ZIEGFELD GIRL." Most beautiful tune being played in the Mayflower Lounge is "You Stepped Out of a Dream" from the new picture "Ziegfeld Girl" that's due shortly on local screens. Ted Alexander does the vocals.

NIGHTINGALE NOTES. Beverly Blayne, luscious blonde with Jack Coffey's Band in the Metronome Room, wears a positively nerve-racking black dress. It's off shoulder, we mean away off shoulder. How it's anchored, nobody knows. Our only guess is thumb tacks. Just to make it more complicated, Beverly wears make-believe sleeves . . . Adele Van of Mayfair isn't exactly crazy about "Irish Eyes" because she's sung it a thousand times, but she says it always gets more applause than any other number.

There'll be dancing soon at the Silver Fox. Owner Fred Johansen is figuring on a way to change the table and banquette arrangement and install a small circular dance floor.

PRACTICAL JOKING. The Neptune Room's Dalton Boys recently synchronized their singing with their own recording of "Kentucky Babe" which was being played out of sight of the audience. They they stepped off the bandstand—and the band played on . . . And there was the saucy young thing who put a saucer in her bustle while dancing the boompsa-daisy with Denny Scudder in the Pall Mall Room. He claims a fender dent.

SMALL FRY A-PLENTY. Andy Miller, Tommy Suter and Gustav Heintze of Restaurant "823" have all become proud papas in the last few months. Now lightning has struck again. Oscar Heintze is expecting an heir next September.

SHORT STORIES. Ramon, leader of the Madrillon's Trio Lirico, has had two automobile mishaps in the last few months, one resulting in a scratched-up face, the other in a cracked rib. He says he's going to get a bicycle . . . "Chuck" O'Donnell, mixer of the Anchor Room, has bought himself a country-side home, out near O'Donnell's Farms.

Pete Macias' Lounge Riviera Band will be the first to blossom out in summer uniforms. After endless pondering over swatches of samples they've chosen pale gray Glen plaids with gray shirts and blue ties.

CASINO ROYAL NEWS. The new Muriel Kretlow Revue is satisfyingly frivolous and funny. Smart parade numbers, smooth and colorful ballroom dance specialties, hoop juggling by the Belmont Brothers. Felix Zimmer's priceless accordioning, and Jack Schafer's triple chore of trumpeting, singing and dancing all go to make up a big evening for Mr. and Mrs. Public.

COMING UP! Experts in popular music are ticketing Rodd Raffell's Nightingale orchestra as due to be numbered among the country's topflight bands in a season or so.

RIVER BEND invites you, one and all, to come down and increase your weight tonight. The Wednesday "Piggy Party" menu includes a big variety of sandwiches, chow mein, "red hots" and Dutch specials with plenty of fine draft beer. You can eat and drink all evening long on one little dollar when you aren't dancing to George Stein's Orchestra.

INDIGESTION

Maryland Scandal

A very disquieting piece of testimony was given the other day at Annapolis before the Temperance Committee of the Maryland Senate. It concerned a bill already passed by the House of Delegates which would repeal the system of multiple retail licensing—one of the features of the rather complicated liquor laws of that State. Officials of a large chain drug store system which dispenses packaged liquors under the multiple licensing system told the committee of having been approached by one Baltimore politician in the name of another politician with an offer to have the bill killed through influence with the legislators. For this service they are alleged to have demanded a fee of $2,500. At previous sessions of the Legislature bills to repeal the multiple licensing system have been introduced only to disappear.

The committee, unable to continue its investigation because of the adjournment, nevertheless considered this testimony of sufficient importance to recommend that it be transferred to the Baltimore grand jury. A resolution to this effect was adopted by the Senate. Thus it will be for the grand jury to continue the investigation and to decide whether the crude efforts to employ the all-too-familiar process of "shakedown" alleged against these men actually constituted a violation of the lobbying laws.

This, however, seems relatively unimportant beside a larger question. This is whether the multiplicity and complexity of the laws governing the sale of liquor have served to reopen those possibilities of corruption whereby the "liquor lobby" became notorious in the generation before the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act. Since repeal the liquor manufacturers and, to a large degree, liquor distributors have shown a great awareness of the dangers inherent in their situation. Also they have demonstrated a determination to avoid all practices that might revive the scandals of the early decades of this century. In Maryland, as elsewhere, they should, in their own self-interest, take the lead in frustrating any attempts by greedy politicians and political hangers-on to revive the era of corruption.

Going Up

Prices are going up, and the rate of increase has been markedly accelerated during recent weeks. Even the comparativly insensitive wholesale price index compiled by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics advanced nearly 1 per cent during the week ended March 22 to a figure 5 per cent above the level of a year ago. This was the highest point attained in over three years. The more sensitive index of the New York Journal of Commerce was also higher last week than at any time since October, 1937, and almost 5 per cent above the February level.

An examination of the detailed data published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics shows that farm products, foods and textiles have led all other commodity groups in the rapidity of their advance. Rising prices of foodstuffs and clothing mean increased living costs for everybody. Therefore, defense officials have good cause to feel apprehensive about such developments. But their hands are tied in regard to this vastly important sector of prices. They are supposed to stabilize prices and protect consumers against unwarranted price increases in articles of necessity, raising the prices of basic farm products close to parity by liberalizing the present system of price-pegging loans. This plan would lift prices considerably. If, for example, loans equal to the parity price for cotton were to be made, farmers would demand about 16 cents for their cotton, instead of the 9.4 cents per pound they were receiving in February. Similarly, wheat would bring the farmer a return of about $1.13 per bushel instead of the 68 cents he obtained in February. And, of course, these increases in price would be passed along in the form of increased production costs to processors of food and manufacturers of cotton goods, and eventually to the consuming public, in the form of higher retail prices for food and clothing. In point of fact, it is the fear that Congress will pass this scheme, or something like it, that accounts in good part for the sharp upturn in agricultural prices during the past week.

Thus we witness the curious spectacle of defense officials striving to keep down the cost of the defense program and prevent inflationary advances in prices of strategic defense materials, while Congress is considering plans for further boosting prices of important farm products. Such working at cross purposes is all too characteristic of much of our governmental effort to order our economic affairs. Effective control over prices will be impossible unless authority to act is centered in a single responsible agency able to follow a consistent policy without being checkmated by legislative interference.

No Strike Need Be

The outstanding fact about the strike in the soft coal fields is that, with a little patience and good judgment on the part of the disputants, it could have been prevented. The issues are not complicated. Nor had the operators and miners exhausted the possibilities of reaching an agreement around the conference table. Negotiations had been under way for several weeks but the Conciliation Service had not had an opportunity to explore the controversy fully when the workmen laid down their tools. It was not till Sunday that Dr. Steelman, the Labor Department's chief conciliator, went to New York at the request of President Roosevelt and Secretary Perkins to investigate the threat of a coal strike.

Most of the responsibility for the decision to fight it out on the picket lines seems to fall upon the operators. At the beginning of the negotiations the United Mine Workers proposed that work should continue after expiration of the contract with the understanding that if negotiations were prolonged beyond April 1, the new agreement would become retroactive to that date. Acceptance of that reasonable offer would have prevented the strike. Now that the walkout has technically begun, despite the fact that yesterday was a miner's holiday, that proposal still seems to be the best starting point for a hasty settlement. Fortunately there are indications that a back-to-work order on this basis may soon be agreed to.

The resumption of work while negotiations go forward would not imply, of course, that all the miners' demands should be met. John L. Lewis' bid for wage increases of $1 a day seems to be particularly excessive at a time when the Administration is attempting to keep economic relationships on an even keel. Adjustment of these differences, however, is a task for the operators and the U. M. W. aided by the Conciliation Service. The public's concern is that the mining of coal to keep defense industries in full operation shall not be stopped or seriously curtailed. Coal mining, like every other industry vital to the armament program, is now "affected with a public interest" in a very real sense. The Government cannot tolerate any prolonged shutdown. Realization of that fact should bring about an agreement that will send workers back to the mines before another day has passed.

Sign Of Statesmanship

An important step toward the elimination of jurisdictional strikes has been taken by the American Federation of Labor's 19 building trades unions. At a meeting in Washington the unions entered into a solemn pledge that "there will not be any stoppage of work on account of jurisdictional disputes between any of the building and construction trades unions" on projects essential to defense. That patriotic stand ought to be duplicated by every other group of unions whose members are working on defense supplies and equipment. In practice the usefulness of this agreement will be limited, for it presumably does not forbid jurisdictional strikes against C. I. O. unions. The most flagrant misuse of the strike in disputes between unions arises out of the continuing fight between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. Nevertheless, this recognition of the fact that jurisdictional strikes are contrary to public policy in the present emergency is a forward step of real significance. It should lead directly to the negotiation of a truce between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O., to remain in effect at least until the current threat to our security has passed.

Obviously no labor organization can reasonably claim a monopoly on defense work. The country needs the services of all able-bodied men. In the circumstances the great labor organizations ought to follow a policy of live and let live. Both could easily lose face with the American public by continuing an internal labor war while the Nation is mobilizing its strength against foreign foes. The building trades unions have shown a good deal of statesmanship in agreeing to settle their differences without strikes and to work along with non-union men on emergency defense projects without exacting initiation fees from those who do not wish to join the union. A still higher caliber of statesmanship will be required, however, to bring about a truce between the rival branches of the labor movement. In this case the initiative might well be taken by the Government, for the necessity of utilizing both C. I. O. and A. F. of L. talent to the best advantage is not open to question.

Subdued Matsuoka

In an interview with the press at Rome Yosuke Matsuoka, Japanese foreign minister, vigorously denied that his visit to the Eternal City had for its purpose any new pacts or commitments of any kind. In view of what has happened in Europe during the past week it is easy to believe him. Matsuoka's arrival in Berlin coincided with a coup d'etat in Yugoslavia which led to the overthrow of the government that had flouted public opinion by signing a pact with the Axis. His arrival in Rome occurred on the morrow of a disastrous Italian naval defeat which marked the lowest ebb in the fortunes of the Fascist regime.

Matsuoka has been one of the most ardent pro-Axis statesmen in Japan. But he can no longer entertain the illusion that a victory for Germany and Italy is a mathematical certainty. On the contrary, he must now begin to wonder whether Japan did not make a serious mistake by lining up with the Axis. The events of the past week, at any rate, must have left a deep impression on Japanese minds. Another event to give them pause is the arrival in Singapore of reinforcements of air and land forces from the British Isles which Matsuoka was probably told in Berlin are about to be overwhelmed by the German Wehrmacht. The fact that Britain feels herself strong enough to spare troops from home defense for the defense of a distant outpost will not be overlooked by Tokyo.

All in all, it is hardly surprising that Matsuoka, who has been known to bellow like a bull, cooed like a dove when interviewed by the press in Rome. His statement was singularly free of its accustomed bellicosity. Instead, the keynotes of his remarks were international understanding and world peace. For all the impression they probably made on their Japanese visitor, the Germans and Italians might well have spared their bunting and parades and banquets. For the time being Japan will continue to occupy a seat on the sidelines regardless of the pressure upon her by her allies to act now against the nations obstructing the creation of the new order.

Congress And Planning

Senators Reynolds and Overton have made a belated plea to keep Government buildings inside the District where they belong. Mr. Overton is right when he says that "when they are built outside the District we defeat the purpose of the constitutional provision setting up the Federal City and giving Congress jurisdiction over it." But it appears that the legislative body itself is largely to blame for destroying an orderly plan for the development of Washington. In 1930 Congress set up a policy designating definite areas in town for office buildings. The Park and Planning Commission had in mind the distribution of the buildings to avoid congestion. The program envisioned the acquisition of land in the proper areas to meet future needs. But Congress allowed this buying program to lag. And the new policy has been to appropriate for land and construction simultaneously, with the result of applying pressure upon the affected administrative agency to search for a site.

Moreover, this method of appropriation leaves the decision up to the agency charged with building, which may or may not see fit to consult the planning board. And our administrative agencies are inclined to concern themselves with the problem of getting something done in a hurry—which is their job—and, therefore, to dispense with discussion. That, evidently, is what happened in the case of the utility building being constructed by the Public Buildings Administration in Arlington County, Va., and the Suitland project in Prince Georges County, Md. In view of the fact that Federal employes are pouring into the Capital by thousands, delay in providing office space would have been disastrous. It is hard, therefore, to blame the Public Buildings Administration for deciding to build on easily-acquired land outside the District. But it is unfortunate that the decision had to be made in this way. Probably it is too late to insure proper location of all the buildings immediately in view, but for the future Congress must return to orderly planning, or confusion will be confounded.

TWO TREES

See how my roots are caught
In the same deep earth,
So that the wind
That moves your branches now
Disturbs my dreams.
And when you lean
To watch the rising sun,
I hunger for the shade
Of your protecting bough.
I lean . . . and am undone.
For on the grass
There is a circle drawn
Unseen, but strong . . .
And I must stand alone
Under the same quiet sky
Watching the circle grow
Into a ring of stone.

Pedestrian's Plight

The problem of making the streets safe is such a serious one that the enlistment of schoolboys to lecture pedestrians on street cars and buses would be commendable if it was not sponsored by an association of motorists which has always opposed speed traps and other safety measures adopted by enforcement authorities to prevent accidents.

Motorists' associations have rendered a valuable public service combating unjust legislation and burdensome taxation aimed at motorists, and advocating, as they have, better roads and other constructive measures. However, such associations overstep the bounds of propriety when they endeavor to secure rights for motorists at the expense of pedestrians.

Many citizens do not take kindly to the pedestrian control regulation which was sponsored by motorists' associations and which seriously inconvenience walkers, holding them up, as it does, unnecessarily at intersections when there are no approaching vehicles.

The wisdom of permitting children to lecture adults is questionable because of the disinclination of grown-ups to be guided by youngsters in matters that call for more mature consideration, especially elders who may feel outraged at the flagrant disregard motorists show for the safety of pedestrians. The employment of Boy Scouts, children of the tots to teens age, to assist the police in the dangerous duty of controlling pedestrians was another mistake.

An observant person, accustomed to walking to work and noting the habits of both pedestrians and drivers, is likely to conclude that drivers are far more careless than walkers. When driving my car I experience the same inconsideration on the part of other drivers who deny me the right of way, when I'm entitled to it, as I do when walking.

The custom of pedestrians standing aside to let vehicles pass, although the walkers may have the right of way, is so common that drivers seem to feel they have the right of way at all times and places and act accordingly. That pedestrians do take risks is due to the failure of drivers to give walkers the right of way on crosswalks at uncontrolled intersections.

Pedestrians accordingly can cross busy thoroughfares only halfway at a time because of the almost endless procession of vehicles in both directions. This exposes walkers to the danger of standing in the middle of the street where they are likely to be run over by vehicles driven on the wrong side of the road, by drivers in an agonizing hurry to overtake vehicles ahead.

The juvenile lecturers, reciting essays prepared for them by the association of motorists, stress the hackneyed argument that pedestrians who are 50 years of age or over are the most likely victims. If this is so, isn't it all the more reason that drivers be careful when approaching pedestrians, especially elderly ones? There is always the possibility of the most careful pedestrian being caught napping or taken off guard.

How about turning the children loose on motorists, who would be required to let the youngsters board their vehicles and listen to a safety talk? LEWIS L. YOUNG.

Washington, March 27.

Robert Ingersoll

The other day quite by accident I found a card on which was written something the world needs today as never before in our day, and I am passing it along, for those who would like to think of something besides war, bloodshed, and how to make destruction more destructive. It was titled "Love," and reads as follows:

"Love is the only bow on life's dark cloud. It is the morning and the evening star. It shines upon the babe, and sheds its radiance on the quiet tomb.

"It is the mother of art, inspirer of poet, patriot and philosopher.

"It is the air and light of every heart, builder of every home, kindler of every fire on every hearth.

"It was the first to dream of immortality. It fills the world with melody—for music is the voice of love.

"Love is the magician, the enchanter, that changes worthless things to joy and makes right royal kings and queens of common clay.

"It is the perfume of that wondrous flower the heart, and without that sacred passion, that divine swoon, we are less than beasts, but with it, earth is heaven, and we are gods."—Robert G. Ingersoll.

The British Empire Considered

Mr. George Swinnerton Parker, writing in The Post of March 29 in reference to Britain, speaks of "her selfishly governed far-lands." I wonder what he means by this.

A publication, owned and edited by citizens of the United States, has just reached me, which, in an article appreciating the altruistic policy of Britain during the last half century says satirically:

"The 'Wicked British Empire:'

"1. Insisted on settling the Alabama claim by arbitration.

"2. Followed the same policy in 1895 re Venezuela.

"3. Gave the Boers 'such a crafty peace' that a few years later, on their own initiative, they decided to stay within the British Empire.

"4. Gave Southern Ireland dominion status, which has since been shown to mean complete independence. (Australia, Canada, New Zealand and South Africa, it may be added, are equally as independent of England as Brazil (yes, as Brazil). They even put import taxes on English goods and restrict the entry of English immigrants.

"5. 'Stupidly presented' India with economic independence so that India now excludes British goods.

"6. Had possession of Egypt and Irak, and now they're both free.

"7. Offers India self-government as soon as Moslem and Hindu compose their differences.

"8. 'Treated the Arabs so brutally' that they made a truce with the Jews as soon as war broke out in 1939.

"9. Hasn't the sense to shoot conscientious objectors, or even imprison them, but allows them to remain at their jobs.

"10. Refuses, at immense cost to herself, to use air or submarine bases in Ireland which had been in her hands for centuries."

Perhaps I may be allowed to add an excerpt from George Santayana:

"Instinctively the Englishman is no missionary, no conqueror . . . He carries his English weather in his heart wherever he goes, and it becomes a cool spot in the desert and a shady oasis and sane oracle amongst all the deliriums of mankind. Never since the heroic days of Greece has the world had such a just, sweet, boyish master. It will be a black day for the human race when scientific blackguards, conspirators, churls and fanatics manage to supplant him." ERIC UNDERWOOD.

Washington, March 30.

Man And Problem

In Europe there are two things, a man and a problem. Twenty-six years ago there were in Europe two things, a man and a problem. These two things are not identical. Getting rid of the man does not get rid of the problem. But the Anglo-Saxon mind apparently cannot distinguish between them. The throne of Doorn awaits the man. As for the problem, it must of necessity remain, for it is never solved.

Mr. Roosevelt has recently examined the difference between Prussian autocracy and Naziism. All he could find was that one was worse than the other. Some of us have taken the trouble to examine the difference between Wilsonian intervention and Rooseveltian intervention, and all we can find is that one is worse than the other. In short, "isolationism" seems to vary in inverse ratio to the wisdom governing American foreign policy, the one increasing as the other diminishes. At the present rate at which our politicians are not solving the problems of the world—and not even suggesting solutions—we should arrive at world anarchy with breathless rapidity. "Heil Anarchy!" is the cry today, spiritually if not vocally. Blow up more factories, smash more cities, build more bombers, teach hate to more youth. But don't set about solving the problem. Just reduce all the problems to one word, Hitler. Get rid of Hitler and you get rid of the problems. War aims? Who ever heard of any other war aims but winning the war? Peace aims, then? How can you have peace aims until you have peace? A nice logic, this, and very reminiscent of the sophomore year.

These people know what they are against, all right, but they don't know what they are for. You ask them and they reply, "Democracy." But you can't lay your hands on this democracy in any international way and never could. These people are not out to solve any problems; they are out to exercise their hates a little. The time will no doubt come when American men will be waving goodby to the Statue of Liberty. These men will be called "boys" and they will have sealed orders to "get" Hitler. And they will get him. They'll catch him like you catch pneumonia, breathing in the sickness of Europe until its hates are their hates, its fears their fears, its stupidity their stupidity.

Mr. Roosevelt and his Step by Step Club do not speak of a negotiated peace. But there will be such a peace. There is just the question of whether it will be negotiated by men or by starvation, poverty and destitution on one side of the table and the gutted candle of what we call civilization on the other. In England they make jokes about smashed homes. Heil Anarchy! In Germany they gloat over each new Coventry. Heil Anarchy! In Russia they laugh heartily at the mess the others are making of each other Heil Anarchy! And in America? Is it even now too late? Perhaps, but I should prefer to withhold the words. Let those who think in this English, this German and this Russian way pronounce them. There are still 85 per cent of us who would choose a different slogan. F. N. PILLING.

Tactical Travel

The regiment had been ordered to another station. The regiment marches along the road in a correct, military manner, stopping and going at the proper times. The ladies of the regiment also have to go to that new fort. So do children, cats, dogs, goldfish, cars—not forgetting the major's parrot. Convoy has an exciting sound. They'll go in a convoy, with the youngest lieutenant of the outfit in command.

The feminine contingent is scheduled to leave at 6 a. m. But the road near the flagpole is strangely deserted at that hour. The Y. L. (young lieutenant) waits in his car. Six thirty, and the major's wife and parrot appear. Seven, and here comes the colonel's lady with her cat and goldfish. "Maybe you'd better take the fish," she murmurs. "Sophronia might get hungry and I have to concentrate on my driving."

The clock strikes 9. The 14 cars start up the road—only to stop. There's no gasoline in the tank of the second car. "I was too busy." That delay inspires the driver of the third. She goes into the post exchange to telephone farewell to some of her friends. That idea inspires the other drivers. They're hungry. They're thirsty. The Y. L. sits in his car and meditates on the length of the refreshing pause.

They're off again. Out now onto the open highway. The fourth car gets a flat tire. The Y. L. is offered verbal assistance. "Wouldn't pliers be best?" "My husband puts a rock under the jack." "My husband oils the screws." The Y. L. longs to ask who is changing the tire. A Y. L., however, must be polite when the mentioned husbands control his destiny. Perspiration streams down his forehead. He begins to see distinct disadvantages to this mechanization of the army.

Once more they're off. A honk sounds. There is trouble. The baby in the fifth car is hungry. His bottle of milk must be heated. How? Convoys present unsuspected tactical problems. In desperation, he suggests heating a pan of water on the engine of the car.

The occupant of the sixth car also needs attention. She has a brother, not a husband. On a moonlit night, the Y. L. would enjoy talking about himself. Not when the sun is shining in the sky and, according to his watch, the convoy is already 5 hours behind schedule. Punctuality is supposed to be a military virtue.

The line of cars finally starts on its way, only to come to a place where two roads meet. Which is which? "Right," shouts one lady. "Left," contradicts another. The Y. L. searches, then, for the two roads on the map. The junction is either too old or too new to be mentioned. Blindly, he guesses—wrong. The man at the filling station looks at the convoy as though it had dropped out of the skies. He hastily starts to write down license numbers when the parrot begins to talk in a foreign language. There's an alien on the highway. So it's back, back; car 14 has disappeared. It's a long way back and car 14 is found parked alongside the road and the driver is in the field picking wild flowers. "I just," she smiles, "couldn't resist picking them."

Two of the children in car 8 discovered a tree to climb. So does the cat in car 9 when the dog in 10 chases her. The children come down. The cat, however, is delighted with her new home. "Come, kitty—nice kitty." The Y. L. sighs. Dignified young lieutenant should not climb trees. It is not conduct befitting an officer and a gentleman by act of Congress. A goldfish finally proves that strategy is more effective than force.

Forward, only to hear 13 frantic honks. The ladies are hungry. There's nothing to do except stop. It's a bad precedent. The boy in the ninth car blows the horn at every hot-dog sign. The lady in 11 loses her car keys when they stop for the dog in 10 to get a drink of water. The Y. L. groans. The country needs military men. But he, apparently, is going to spend the remainder of his life on a lonely hilltop with 13 women, 5 dogs, 2 cats, a parrot, and goldfish—number unknown. Not to forget the flower boxes in the back of the twelfth car. "It's hard on the poor things," the driver confides in him. "The geranium box has slipped and is mashing the begonias. Can you move it?"

The convoy is cut in half at a railroad crossing. Tensely, the Y. L. waits for the rest of the ladies to appear. "Move on," says a policeman, "you're blocking traffic." The Y. L. stares at him in horror. It will be difficult to explain that he is waiting for his seven women to appear. Again they get lost when the driver of 2 says, "I know the town perfectly." It develops that she spent a night there 20 years ago, and the convoy ends in somebody's alley.

Fourteen's motor begins to knock in a peculiar manner. No, it's merely the dog's tail wagging against the door. Junior is crying and the Y. L. stares in horror at the young occupant of the thirteenth car. "Is it measles or scarlet fever?" The mother shakes her head. "It's just the rouge and lipstick in my compact. Junior has such an ingenious mind."

It's surprising the things that can happen to cars. Five flat tires. Three empty gas tanks. That's the morning's score. More serious things happen in the afternoon. Still, they continue along the highway with radios taking the place of bands, dogs barking and cars honking at least once in every mile.

Darkness has fallen when at last they reach their destination. Twelve hours to go 100 miles is a record. A ladies' convoy may not be military duty; however, it has its advantages as a training school in strategy and tactics, especially when the pretty occupant of car 6 murmurs, "I enjoyed every moment." And because the colonel is listening, the Y. L. has to answer, "So did I."

The Meaning Of A Forecast

IT CAN NOW be stated, on high authority, that one of the important reasons for the British military investment in Greece was a confident prediction of Yugoslav resistance to Germany, given by Col. William J. Donovan to the British commander in the Mediterranean, Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell. Donovan bet his reputation as an observer on the Yugoslavs' courage in a long talk with Wavell in Egypt immediately following his tour of the Balkans. And independent sources here believe Donovan's report was a big factor in the ultimate decision on Balkan policy made by Wavell, British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, and Gen. Sir John Dill.

ALSOP

It was disclosed in this space some time ago that the British had assurance Yugoslavia would stand firm before going into Greece, but it is particularly interesting that this assurance should have come in part from an American. In truth, Donovan and Constantine Fotitch, the wise, earthy, courageous Yugoslav Minister here, are the only two men who can claim to have been right from the start about the course of events at Belgrade.

Being right was not easy. It was an open secret that the Yugoslav foreign minister, Cincar-Markovitch, was acting in the German interest. Although civilization stopped at Dover for the British-educated regent, Prince Paul, he was too over-refined a man to achieve boldness. And the war minister, Gen. Pesitch, was a fussy, long-retired old fellow, chiefly interested in bridge at his club, who had been appointed chiefly because his fiery predecessor Gen. Neditch, could not be trusted not to take a crack at the Italians in Albania.

FORTUNATELY, Donovan gave more careful attention to Yugoslavia than any of the other countries he visited in the Balkans. A frank conversation with the new premier, Gen. Dusan Simovitch, and talks with many of the Serbian army officers were what convinced him that nothing could make the Yugoslavs give in. As for Fotitch, he had nothing to go on but his knowledge of his own people. In the dark days just before the Belgrade appeasers were chased from office he was realistic enough to admit that there was only a "2 per cent chance" that his country would make a stand. Yet he, too, bet his reputation, even on a 2 per cent chance, until the very last and blackest hour.

Now that Donovan and Fotitch have been shown to be right, none of the formerly pessimistic experts question the vast improvement of the Balkan situation. Essentially, as everyone has pointed out, this improvement flows from the fact that Yugoslav resistance will prevent the Germans from flanking the British in Greece, and will force them to run the risk of a general Balkan war if they wish to drive the British from Europe. There are certain agreeable details of the picture which remain to be drawn in, however.

The first of these is the fact that besides using the Balkans as their breadbasket, the Germans are heavily dependent on Yugoslavia for three vital war materials—copper, lead and bauxite. The large copper mines at Bor, in western Serbia, were squeezed by the Germans from their French owners after the French collapse, and paid for, incidentally, in the worthless paper printed by the Vichy government to meet the costs of the German occupation. Copper, the essential metal in shell manufacture, was the one heavy war material of which the Germans were short when the war started, and besides the mines at Bor their only other source of copper is believed to be in Spain. Like the lead mines at Trepca, the Bor copper deposits are in the easily defended part of Yugoslavia. And although the bauxite mines are in Dalmatia, which will have to be abandoned if the Germans attack, their machinery at least can be ruined and production of this basic metal for aluminum manufacture thus stopped for some time.

THE SECOND agreeable detail, if so important a possibility can be called a detail, is the potential effect of the Yugoslav resistance on Mussolini. The best informed officials feel fairly confident that the Yugoslavs, by preventing German aid for the Italians in Albania, have knocked the last props out from under the Fascist regime. Although the Germans will hardly let Fascism collapse for good in Italy, they are likely to have to strain themselves seriously by sending large additional forces into the Italian peninsula. Furthermore, they will no longer be able to depend on the Italians even for the feeble sort of war effort they have made to date.

The epic event at Belgrade does not alter the sensible estimate of Col. Donovan to our military intelligence, that Britain's Balkan adventure was the "most audacious but probably the wisest" strategic move made by the British in the war to date.

KINTNER

It is audacious because the risks are still very great. The terrain, of course, is extremely unfavorable to mechanized warfare. So far as men go, faced with the 1,250,000 Yugoslavs and the Greek, Turkish and British armies, the Germans are at present heavily outnumbered. In order to bring up a counterbalancing force, they will have to use up their mobile striking power, thus lessening the invasion threat to Britain and also subject their railroad and inland waterway system to an appalling strain. But the Germans already have in Bulgaria one of their six air fleets, borrowed from Belgium, and they may choose to make further inroads on the force available for air attacks on Britain.

AS THERE is little transport to disrupt in the Balkans, air superiority does not have the tremendous value it had in France. Yet the air superiority of the Germans is sufficient to make overconfidence foolish.

Capital Of World

The Modern Atlas

EMIL LUDWIG flew to Washington to see "the Capital of the World," and he found it yesterday in President Roosevelt's office.

The prolific biographer, whose works have been published in 20 languages and 30 countries, emerged from the President's press conference, sank into a leather lobby sofa, mopped his broad brow, and launched a 15-minute monologue.

"The room we just came from," he said, "is now the center of the world. And in it we saw a spectacle unique in the United States and the world. Nowhere else could you see this. Nowhere. Not in any country.

"The elegance of the man. Who else could do this? He leans back, smiles . . . waves his hand one moment and answers a question. The next moment? Sehr sohoen. He is earnest. You can see the burden. Here. On his head.

"That's Atlas, today, you know. Atlas. He carries the world on his head."

WHEN ROME and Paris and Berlin were the capitals of the world in the last century, he said, there was a King over the men who ruled. "Here," he said, "here it is the people."

The Capitol Dome, he added, is the symbol of the people.

One of the world's greatest interviewers, who probed the characters of Stalin, Mussolini and Roosevelt at first hand, Ludwig himself proved an interviewer's delight. No questions were needed. He talked on. When he finished all the unasked questions were answered.

He is lecturing now on European culture at Santa Barbara University, in California, awaiting his American citizenship. A political refugee from his native Germany since 1933, he "discovered" the West a year ago and decided to settle there with his wife.

"CALIFORNIA," he said, "it is wonderful. It has the sunshine and the orange blossoms and the beautiful sky and plenty of butter. Here in Washington there is the best library in the world.

"Who is exiled? Me or Mr. Goebbels?"

Ludwig, who was 60 January 30, President Roosevelt's birthday, flew to New York Monday to confer with his publishers about a new book he has written—a 600-page history of Germany.

"We will have it in six languages," he said.

"Six?" the reporter asked, thinking what a risk, if the book should fail.

"Well we have no more," he said in disgust. "Hitler, he sits on the other 14."

The languages are English, Spanish, Portuguese, German (for the Netherlands East Indies), French (for Canada) and Swedish.

"Swedish is the only language we have left in Europe now," he said. "But some day we'll get the others back."

The new book was written at a white heat. It is a dual history of a nation, explaining how Germany could produce the flower of the world's culture in philosophy, music and poetry and at the same time produce "barbarians in every century."

"It is the story that every poet writes once in his life. The story of the one great love affair and how he was betrayed, cast off. It is written in light and shadow. He tells of the beauty and the tenderness of his love. And he tells of her cruelty.

"Every poet must write this story to be rid of the anguish that tears at his heart."

Sharing The Blame

By Ernest K. Lindley

Wise Advice On Labor Troubles

A TEMPERATE but devastating report on the "Little Steel" strikes of 1937 has just been issued by the Senate Civil Liberties Committee. These were the strikes in the plants of Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. (A fourth, in Inland Steel, was settled.) Their cause was the refusal of the companies "to enter into contractual relations with collective bargaining organizations of their employes," to quote the Senate committee's report.

More than three years have passed. But employer-employe relationships in these companies are still "strained" and without adequate collective bargaining arrangements, the committee adds.

LINDLEY

This has a direct bearing on the present defense strike problem. Many of these strikes, actual or threatening, are in the plants of companies with strong antiunion records. Some have been outstanding violators of the National Labor Relations Act.

Here are some plain and wise words from the Senate committee: "Certain it is that the Nation cannot permit these companies today to take the same attitude they took in 1937 with the same inevitable consequences of interrupted production. Any company which today stands up and flatly refuses to enter into a signed bargaining contract under all circumstances and any employer association which supports and assists it in such a position are endangering the national security. Such conduct not only threatens the vital continuity of production, but it challenges the Nation's domestic authority, weakens respect of labor for the national defense and destroys the sense of unity and common effort."

ONE MIGHT add that any official of the Federal Government who supports that position is likewise "endangering the national security." There are disquieting signs that some Federal officials connected with the Office of Production Management and the War and Navy Departments do not realize this.

Labor is in a dangerous situation. For that, the shortsightedness of its own leaders is largely to blame. Every poll, every day's mail to Congress, shows that the Nation is going to insist that there be an end to strikes in defense industries.

The A. F. of L. leadership has at last waked up enough to begin to try to do something about curbing excessive union initiation fees. Some of the more level-headed C. I. O. leaders quietly have been trying to purge Communists and Communist sympathizers from positions of influence.

But the blame for strikes does not lie wholly with labor. It lies with what the Senate Civil Liberties Committee calls "the conduct of labor relations by management . . . according to antiquated concepts of industrial absolutism."

Bethlehem Steel is a notorious example. In World War I, Bethlehem refused to apply an award of the War Labor Board, headed by former President Taft and Frank P. Walsh. It rejected the War Labor Board's suggestion that it organize a shop-committee system of employe representation.

Mr. Taft was an extremely conservative man. But the stubbornness of Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem, led him to say:

"This situation is very painful to me, for the reason that what we wish to do is to secure what under our award these workers are entitled to have, and it is very difficult for me to escape the conclusion that the conduct of the company in this matter, the correspondence that has been adduced, the dealings with Mr. Grace, the action by the board in attempting to help Mr. Grace and the present attitude . . . color the situation with a sense of injustice that makes one yearn for judicial power to compel justice."

THE WAR LABOR BOARD did not have the power to compel justice. The National Labor Relations Board, established in 1935, is supposed to have it, with the help of the Federal Circuit Courts. But Bethlehem Steel has not yet been made to conform to the law. A key case involving Bethlehem is still before the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. This case grew out of the "Little Steel" strike of 1937. It was decided by the NLRB in 1939.

A prompter method must be found to adjudicate cases involving refusal to bargain collectively. This is recommended by the Senate committee, which suggests that the NLRB confine itself to salient issues. This might help. But it does not dispose of the big test cases in which the NLRB has already reached its decisions—in many cases, long ago. They are mired in the courts, usually being fought to the last technicality by the companies found to be violators.

Unless it can compel big employers to obey the law, the Federal Government cannot expect labor to forego its indisputable right to quit work . . . a right of which it probably cannot be deprived by any Constitutional means.

The Gallup Poll

Eight States With Poll Taxes Oppose Abolition; Nation as a Whole Votes to Lift Restriction

By Dr. George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

Princeton, N. J., April 1.—One of the political problems being widely discussed throughout the South is the question of abolishing poll taxes which are still a requirement for voting in eight Southern States.

Campaigns headed by civic and other groups have been started in nearly all of the eight States to repeal the poll taxes, and a bill has been introduced in Congress by Representative Geyer, of California, to bar the poll tax as a requirement for voting in Federal elections.

With public discussion of the issue just beginning to take shape, the American Institute of Public Opinion has conducted a survey to measure first public reaction to the anti-poll tax campaign, both in the poll tax States as a group and throughout the rest of the country. The study is the first of a series which will be conducted by the Institute in future months to measure the trends of sentiment on this issue.

Three Facts Revealed

Today's survey results reveal three facts about public opinion on the poll tax question.

1. Throughout the Nation as a whole, a large majority of voters are in favor of abolishing all existing poll taxes.

2. In the 13 Southern States public opinion is of mixed complexion on the issue. In the five southern States which have already abolished poll taxes, or never had them, a majority wants to see them repealed in the other parts of the South where poll taxes are still in force.

However, in the eight States which still have poll taxes—Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia—majority sentiment is still in favor of retaining the tax.

In those eight States the issue was posed as follows:

"Should the poll tax be abolished as a requirement for voting in this State?"

The attitude of persons who have paid their poll taxes and are eligible to vote is as follows for the eight poll tax States combined:

POLL TAX STATES

(Vote of Persons Who Have Paid Their Poll Tax)

For abolishing poll tax	34%
For retaining poll tax	59
No opinion	7

The survey also included, however, persons of voting age who, through failure to pay the poll tax, are not eligible to vote. When they are added to the others who have paid their taxes, the combined sentiment is:

POLL TAX STATES

(Persons Who Have Paid Poll Tax Combined With Those Who Have Not)

For abolishing poll tax	25%
For retaining poll tax	53
No opinion	12

In interpreting these figures it must be remembered that the percentages apply to the eight poll vidual States.

tax States as a whole, and are not necessarily typical for each of the States individually. Special studies with larger samples are necessary to report sentiment by indi-

How the Nation Feels

The next aspect of the question is—what is the sentiment of the rest of the South (the five non-poll tax States), and of the country as a whole?

Here are the findings of the survey on that score:

"Some Southern States require every voter to pay a poll tax amounting to $1 a year or more before they can vote. Do you think these poll taxes should be abolished?"

VOTE IN FIVE SOUTHERN STATES WITH NO POLL TAX

For abolishing poll tax	51%
For retaining poll tax	36

TOTAL UNITED STATES VOTE

For abolishing poll tax	63%
For retaining poll tax	25
No opinion	12

Florida, Louisiana and North Carolina formerly levied poll taxes but abolished them in recent years.

The average tax in the eight States with poll tax requirements is about $1.75. In some States the taxes are cumulative so that a voter might be required to pay as much as $36 before he could vote.

In the early days of the Republic only people who owned property could vote. Poll taxes were adopted in those days as a means of widening the suffrage. By paying a few dollars poll tax, persons could vote without having to own property.

Contrary to popular impression, the present poll tax system in the South is of comparatively recent origin, dating back only to the period between 1880 and the early 1900's. The taxes were levied chiefly as a means of combating the popularity of the Populist Party among poor whites in the South.

Eagle Squadron

By Edward T. Folliard

Yankee Bombers

COL. CHARLES SWEENY, the soldier of fortune who organized the American Eagle Squadron, said here yesterday that American fliers now are being formed into a bomber squadron to help the R. A. F. carry the war to Germany.

As it stands, the Eagle Squadron is strictly a fighter outfit—25 Yankee pilots sharing 18 planes. The squadron is stationed in southeast England, and, according to Col. Sweeny, has hung up a "respectable number of victories" over the Nazi Luftwaffe. Four of the Americans have been killed in action.

Reinforcements are arriving in England at the rate of 10 or 15 a month, Col. Sweeny said, and it is from among these, as well as Yanks already serving with the R. A. F., that the fliers for the new bomber squadron will be drawn.

Col. Sweeny, who wears the rosette of the Legion of Honor in his lapel, is stopping at the Lafayette Hotel. The son of a wealthy California mine operator, he went to West Point but was dropped in his third year for a study deficiency. He then became a soldier of fortune, fighting in wars all the way from Latin America to Morocco. A tall, square-jawed man he has about him what the poet calls the "look of eagles."

HE WAS A POLICE reporter on the staff of The Washington Post 30-odd years ago, but was fired for—well, say, for not being more scrupulous in observing the paper's deadline. The fateful year of 1914 found him in Paris, working for the New York Sun. When the Kaiser's army marched into Belgium, Sweeny joined the French Foreign Legion. Later on, in 1917, he transferred to the A. E. F.

Col. Sweeny said yesterday that while he was not in the Lafayette Escadrille, he knew all the Americans who were in that immortal outfit—Norman Prince, who lies buried in the Washington Cathedral; James Norman Hall, Raoul Lufberry, Tommy Hitchcock and all the rest.

He said there was a difference between the Lafayette Escadrille and the American Eagle Squadron.

"The men in the Escadrille," he explained, "were for the most part university men, sons of wealthy families. With them aviation was a sport.

"These fellows in the American Eagle Squadron are professional fliers. They have worked as stunt pilots, as crop dusters, as freight carriers in Canada and South America. There are exceptions, of course. A man who promises to be our ace flier—Gregory Damon—used to be a hairdresser in Hollywood. He is very, very good.

"ALL THE MEN in the Eagle Squadron were born in the United States; that is a rule. But they represent virtually all the racial groups that go to make up our country—English, Irish, Scotch, French, Italian, Norwegian, Polish and so on. One of the Irish boys is Vernon Keogh, of Brooklyn. He used to be a professional parachute jumper.

"The Lafayette Escadrille had many writers, men like James Norman Hall, for example. Our fellows, as I said, are for the most part professional fliers. They are not so good at expressing themselves. Yet they feel that they are fighting for the same things as the men in the Lafayette Escadrille fought for."

Col. Sweeny pointed out that the Americans were merely one foreign group fighting for the R. A. F.

"The Poles," he said, "are about the hottest thing in Europe. There are probably 1,000 or more of them. They were well trained before the war began. They took part in the opening campaign against the Germans in September, 1939, and then escaped by way of Russia, Rumania or Yugoslavia. They fought later with the French and then, when France fell, they flew over to England. They are doing a magnificent job."

Col. Sweeny explained that he is now merely honorary head of the American Eagle Squadron, "a sort of godfather." The active commanding officer, he said, was Squadron Leader William Erwin Gibson Taylor, of New York, a former Marine Corps flier and commercial pilot on a New York-Chicago line.

Col. Sweeny said he had no advice to give to the United States at this stage. However, in a broadcast from London on October 25, a broadcast addressed to fallen France, he predicted that the Yanks would be coming again —"millions . . . as they did in 1918."

Italy Nears Collapse

By Barnet Nover

The Meaning Of Cunningham's Victory

THE DISASTER which overtook the Italian fleet in the Ionian Sea last Thursday may mark the beginning of the end of Italy's war effort. The Fascist regime has suffered other defeats—a long succession of them—since Mussolini recklessly plunged his unwilling nation into war. But none that occurred previously, not even the loss of eastern Libya or the failure of the Duce's personally directed offensive in Albania recently, was fraught with so many potentially grave consequences for Italy as that administered to Italian sea power by Admiral Sir Andrew Cunningham and the British eastern Mediterranean fleet.

NOVER

The same week that saw the destruction of a vital portion of the Italian fleet also saw the ring tightening around Addis Ababa. Harar fell, as did Cheren, gateway to Massawa. Diredawa was evacuated without a struggle. Now three armies are converging on the beleaguered Italian garrison at Addis Ababa. The fall of the Fascist empire whose founding five years ago was celebrated by Mussolini with a typical outburst of flamboyant oratory draws near.

IT CAN BE taken for granted that the British occupation of Addis Ababa, when it occurs, will produce serious repercussions in the Italian peninsula. The conquest of Ethiopia in the face of what Fascist spokesmen insisted was the opposition of most of the world was a bright feather in Mussolini's cap. It was cited as proof that the Duce got things done, that he was always right, that Fascist Italy was youthful and vigorous and was riding the wave of the future.

The loss of Ethiopia at this time would tend to destroy what little is left of Mussolini's prestige in the kingdom. But even with East Africa gone and eastern Libya gone, Italy could still be kept in the war by her German taskmasters.

The destruction of Italian sea power, however, might make that task too difficult even for Hitler, the German army and the Gestapo. That is why the remarkable victory won by the British in the Mediterranean last week is of such potential importance.

DURING MOST of the war the Italian fleet was kept safely in port, rarely venturing out into the open sea, and when it did so fleeing every time a British squadron was sighted. In consequence, British naval units encountered no difficulty in moving convoys through the Mediterranean, cooperating with the land and air forces sweeping the Italians before them in Egypt and Libya and in other ways demonstrating their domination of what Mussolini used to call "mare nostrum"—our sea.

As long as it remained in being, however, even the unheroic course pursued by the Italian fleet had its uses for the Axis.

In the first place, it forced a very considerable concentration of British naval tonnage in the Mediterranean at a time when that tonnage was desperately needed elsewhere, particularly in the Atlantic. And, secondly, it served as a protective shield, though not always (as the bombardment of Genoa proved) a completely effective one, for the Italian peninsula. It is no longer possible to speak of the Italian fleet as a fleet in being. It is a fleet now made up of separate units each of them capable of doing some harm to the enemy but so unbalanced as a group as to be incapable of united action on a scale necessary to make their full weight felt. The British are probably not guilty of undue boastfulness in predicting as they do that by the end of the year the Italian fleet will have ceased to be.

AS A RESULT of the Italian disaster in the Ionian Sea, therefore, Italy's vulnerability to attack has measurably grown. Now, more than ever, Great Britain is in a position to carry the war right to Italy herself. That may give the final coup de grace to Italian morale, particularly since, in the meantime, the British and Greeks may drive the Italians out of Albania.

Now, as during the 18 years since Mussolini came into power Italy continues to be ruled by a Fascist hierarchy with the Duce at the pinnacle. These jobholders have a stake in the regime. Most of them will not relinquish that stake if they can help it. Most of them will continue to obey Mussolini's orders as long as it is safe to do so even though these orders now emanate from Berlin rather than Rome. As a means of strengthening the Fascist bureaucracy Mussolini has recently begun to eliminate officials who harbor doubts. He has also permitted Gestapo agents to filter into the police, government offices and even the army.

It is these agents who rule Italy today. But as the war gets nearer and nearer to the Italian peninsula itself the Gestapo will find their task increasingly difficult. There is a limit beyond which a rickety structure cannot be bolstered up merely by throwing cement into the cracks. That limit is almost reached. Admiral Cunningham's victory plus developments in the Balkans and Africa have shaken the Fascist regime to its foundation. And when it collapses, Hitler will have facing him the difficult task of occupying the country with his troops—a very unsatisfactory arrangement at a time when he is threatened with a war on two fronts and in a country vulnerable to uncontested sea power. It is no far-fetched figure of speech to call Thursday's naval battle another Trafalgar.

Chamber Music Guild Presents Its String Quartet in Concert

By Ray C. B. Brown

Chamber Music Guild presents its String Quartet (Frank Gittelson, Alexander Levin, Benjamin Sosner and Marcel Ancher) in Robofski, barytone. Program: the Cosmos Club on Tuesday night. Assisting artist: Abrasha Quartet in D major, Op. 64, No. 5 (Haydn); Quintet, Op. 3, "Dover Beach," for voice and strings (Samuel Barber); Quartet in G minor, Op. 10 (Debussy).

Having received during its first winter season abundant evidence that its artistic work is appreciated, the Chamber Music Guild String Quartet inaugurated a series of four spring concerts last evening in the assembly hall of the Cosmos Club. Despite rainy weather, the size of the audience augured well for the success of the undertaking, and the musicians must have been pleased by the cordiality of their reception. Their policy of paying attention to American composers was exemplified on this occasion by the performance of Samuel Barber's setting of Matthew Arnold's "Dover Beach" for voice and string quartet.

BROWN

"Dover Beach" represents the cyclic process of history inasmuch as one takes to heart the poet's philosophic attitude. The poem was written in the third quarter of the nineteenth century, and the music was composed by Mr. Barber about ten years ago, yet the concluding lines are directly applicable to contemporary events:

"And we are here as on a darkling plain
Swept with confused alarms of struggle and flight,
Where ignorant armies clash by night."

The composer has caught in his music Arnold's regret over the waning of faith and the admonition to be steadfast to one's ideals. The moods alternate between a mild melancholy and a sturdy determination, and the writing is thoroughly poetic. Abrasha Robofski, the soloist, gave a resonant and clearly phrased reading of the verses.

Opening the program was Haydn's D major quartet from Opus 64, the one which has been so popular as to have received two nicknames. From the soaring and bird-like theme of the first movement it has been called "The Lark," while the infectious jollity of the finale led to its designation as "The Hornpipe." There might be a title as well for the delightful adagio, which has a rare eloquence and beauty. The minuet is traditional save for some interesting canonic passages.

The concert closed with Debussy's quartet, that impressionistic masterpiece which retains its atmosphere of modernity, although it will soon be 50 years old. Frank Gittelson and his colleagues gave it a carefully balanced performance, though they could have treated the first and last movements a little less forcefully.

First Lady Discusses Women's Defense Role

By Jessie Ash Arndt
The Post Club Editor

"The spirit of America is as sound as it has ever been; there is no lack of courage and young people are ready to meet whatever they have to meet," Mrs. Roosevelt declared yesterday, speaking before the Woman's National Democratic Club.

The First Lady, honorary president of the club, opened the series of "Information Hour" programs being sponsored by the education committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Meade Fletcher, jr. Mrs. Curtis Shears, new president of the club, opened the meeting.

Mrs. Roosevelt's discussion of women's part in the defense program was followed by a question period in which the inquiries were chiefly regarding the attitude of young people.

Mrs. Roosevelt already had pointed out to the women in her audience—most of them over 30—that the older women in the community should be ready to aid the younger ones, many of whom are perplexed with the problem presented by having their husbands temporarily taken from them. Through the lessons they have learned, the older women should be able to help the younger, said Mrs. Roosevelt.

She urged that women of all ages do a better job in their homes, their offices and other fields of service than ever before. Unity in the community, State and Nation is the only true defense, she said—unity that comes when people work together in their individual communities to make them better places in which to live for everybody.

In this time of crisis, when things which had been looked on as essentials that would not change, are changing, and things that were thought to be settled forever are found not to have been settled, life should be met in a spirit of adventure, Mrs. Roosevelt said.

"Security is deadening, it makes you afraid to meet the unknown. Today the unknown lies ahead of us and we can't afford to be afraid," she declared.

It is those who learn from experiences as they go along and are not plunged into despair by them who have meant something

Navy Sponsors Gather for Annual Luncheon

Underwood & Underwood

Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, who was guest speaker at the annual luncheon of the Society of Navy Sponsors yesterday afternoon at the Mayflower Hotel, is shown with Mrs. Russell Langdon, who was reelected president of the group at the morning business session

Members of the Society of Navy Sponsors were urged yesterday by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox to "hold the line against the foolish undermining and sapping which is sure to arise when this war is over," from those who seek disarmament.

"The future peace of this world for the next century, at least, will depend on the domination of the high seas by powers which are truly devoted to peace," he declared. "I plead with you women to keep this organization alive and potent," he said, urging "a sea power which will be used, not for aggression but for a peace of righteousness and justice."

"We've been safe over here without knowing it," he asserted, because our fleet was in the Pacific and, in the Atlantic, more or less without our appreciation, was the British fleet, and that is why we are contributing to the British fleet, to maintain it until we can establish a two-ocean navy of our own."

Secretary Knox was the chief speaker at the annual luncheon of the society, held at the Mayflower Hotel following its morning business meeting. Mrs. Russell Langdon, president of the sponsors, introduced him.

Following Secretary Knox's talk, Adm. Alexander H. Van Keuren, assistant chief of the Bureau of Ships, spoke briefly, describing some of the technical and physical difficulties encountered in the launching of a ship. Much of the process goes on below decks and escapes notice of the sponsor and her party, he said.

Mrs. Langdon was reelected president of the society, with Mrs. Emory S. Land, first vice president; Mrs. Robert Dunlap, second vice president, and Mrs. Stanton R. Norman, secretary treasurer, also reelected.

On the board of trustees also are Mrs. Edward Palmer, Mrs. Goldsborough Adams, Mrs. Bryson Bruce, Mrs. George Barnett, Mrs. Andrew Pickens, Mrs. Arthur Sutcliffe, Mrs. Nathan Goff and Mrs. Jennings Bailey.

The national fraternity of Pi Beta Phi has a membership of more than 30,000 among college women and is divided into provinces geagraphically located within the United States and Canada to maintain closer contact with the active members in the college chapters and alumnae clubs.

Mrs. R. H. Pledger, president of Washington Alumnae Club with a membership of 670 for 1940-41, will attend the conference as delegate.

Fun Is King At A. A. U. W.'s April Fool Fete

Nonsense reigned at the annual April Fool's program of the Washington branch of the American Association of University Women last night at the clubhouse, 1634 I Street. Reserving their April Fool's fun for themselves, the members limited attendance at the supper and participation in the skits following to the membership.

Mrs. Edwin M. Brown, chairman of the committee which arranged the entertainment, presided as master of ceremonies, and Gilbert and Sullivan numbers which tied together the different parts of the program were sung by Mrs. C. W. Lawrence.

The first play, "Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage," by Mrs. Clyde Heck Marvin, was presented in four scenes. The first, representing the year 1833 was done by Mrs. Frank Edgington and Mrs. A. F. Huber; the second, 1854, by Gwendolin Taylor and Mary Eleanor Grindell; the third, 1893, by Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Edgington, and the fourth, 1941, by Mrs. Dick Carlson.

Other skits were "Momentous Missives," in which those taking part were Mrs. A. S. McDaniel, Mrs. Wood Gray and Mrs. Rex Smith; "First Person, Singular," with Mary Ellyn Flynn, Jean Bowman, Jean Bassett and Dorothy Kramer; "Democracy," with Mrs. Goodwin Graham, Floreine Hurley and Jacqueline Pringle, and "Round Table Broadcast," with Barbara Ottinger, Margaret Cook, Mrs. C. W. Bradford, Mrs. Paul F. Edwards and Mrs. James L. Johnson.

Women Representing 29 Clubs Meet With Nelson Rockefeller

The steadily growing interest in Inter-American relations among women's organizations throughout the country was linked with the National defense program when representatives of 29 national women's groups conferred yesterday with Nelson A. Rockefeller, coordinator of Commercial and Cultural Relations Between the American Republics, to plan more effective cooperation with his office.

Miss Mary Winslow, adviser for civic projects to the coordinator in connection with the activities of women's organizations, served as chairman of the meeting.

The women were enthusiastic in their support of suggestions presented by Mr. Rockefeller for cooperative action in the field of Inter-American relations.

"As I see the needs of the present situation," he said, "the most important fields of action for the people of the United States are:

"First—As a part of the Nation's defense effort and as a permanent extension of the good ntighbor program to stimulate a general movement for popular education about Central and South America in every community of this country. Only so will we have a well informed people.

"Second—We should have concerted community action to provide for the study and teaching of Spanish and Portuguese in schools and in classes established for adults.

"Third—We need concerted community action to increase purchases of products from the other American republics.

"Fourth. It would be most helpful to have concerted action among women's and other organizations to provide suitable hospitality for visitors and to establish direct and friendly contacts with similar groups and organizations in the other American republics."

Miss Winslow's office will serve as a clearing house for information both as to what programs the different organizations are carrying on, so as to facilitate their cooperation with each other, and as to specific activities which will promote friendly relations with the peoples of the Latin American republics.

The women's clubs, already devoting much time to study groups on problems of the Western Hemisphere, classes in Spanish and other projects designed to promote better understanding, are in a position to aid the Government program by extending their educational work beyond their membership to the whole community, said Miss Winslow.

Whatever action is taken by a well-informed public is based on intelligence, rather than sentiment, she pointed out.

"Practically every organization represented here today is working actively on this matter," she said. "Many of them have been doing this for years. The only problem now is how to intensify these programs and how they can be extended so as to reach the entire community."

When contacts with women of tn. Latin-American republics are desirable in promoting the program of friendliness and understanding, Miss Winslow explained that these can be made readily through the Inter-American Commission of Women on which she serves as the United States representative.

Among the organizations represented at yesterday's meeting were:

American Association of University Women, Dr. Margaret Morriss, president, Dr. Esther Caukin Brunauer; American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs, Mrs. Jean Bennett, president; American Federation of Teachers, Miss Selma Borchardt; American Home Economics Association, Miss Helen W. Atwater, Dr. Marie Dye; Associated Country Women of the World, Mrs. Guy Roop, vice president; Association of Junior Leagues of America, Mrs. DeForest Van Slyck, executive secretary; Camp Fire Girls, Miss Catherine Wahlstrom; General Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, first vice president, Mrs. Frederick Beggs; Girl Scouts, Mrs. E. Swift Newton, chairman of international relations.

International Association of Altrusa Clubs, Miss Bertha Nienburg; National Association of College Women, Miss Bertha McNeil; National Association of Colored Women, Mrs. Robert B. Moton, president, Mrs. Henry Hunt; National Board of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Margaret Forsyth, Miss Elizabeth McFarland; National Committee of Church Women, Mrs. Frank A. Linzel; National Council of Catholic Women, Miss Mary Graham Hawks; National Council of Jewish Women, Mrs. E. R. Haas; National Council of Negro Women, Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, president, Mrs. H. L. McCrorey; National Council of Women, Mrs. Harold V. Milligan, president, Miss Henriette Hart; National Education Association, Miss Harriett M. Chase.

Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Dr. Minnie L. Moffett, president, Miss Louise Franklin Bache; League of Women Voters, Mrs. Harris T. Baldwin, first vice president, Mrs. Anne H. Johnstone; Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Henry M. Robert, jr., president general; National Women's Trade Union League, Miss Rose Schneiderman, president, Mrs. Austin Stone; Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, Mrs. Murray Boocock, president; Zonta International, Mrs. Katherine Maddux, committee coordinator.

DR. HU SHIH, the Chinese Ambassador, will be the speaker for the fifth of the Far East lectures at the Shoreham Hotel today, the final one in the series.

Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge, jr., and Mrs. Frank H. Buck are the chairmen for the last of the after-lecture buffet luncheons in the Blue Room.

The Chinese honor guests are to be Mme. T. V. Soong, Mme. Kien Wen Yu, wife of the Second Secretary of the Chinese Embassy; Mme. Sin Ju Pu Hsiao, wife of the military attache; Mme. Victor K. Kwong, wife of the Chinese attache; Mme. Hsia, and Mme. Deson Sze.

Other honor guests will be Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, Mrs. Alben Barkley, Mrs. Charles L. McNary, Mrs. W. F. George, Mrs. Pat Harrison, Mrs. Nelson Johnson, Mrs. Anthony J. Diamond and Mrs. Hamilton Fish.

The luncheon hostesses will include Miss Pauletta Guffey, Mrs. Carter Glass, Mrs. Frederick Van Nuys, Mrs. Millard Tydings, Mrs. Bennett Champ Clark, Mrs. Guy Gillett, Mrs. William E. Borah, Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg, Mrs. Lister Hill, Mrs. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, Mrs. Thomas F. Ford, Mrs. James E. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. John Z. Anderson, Mrs. Nugent, Fallon, Mrs. John H. Tolan, Mrs. Ernest Lundeen, Mrs. Thomas Rolfe, Mrs. Raymond Bright, Mrs. Curtis Shears, Mrs. G. A. Seitz and Mrs. Robert Duncan.

VIRGINIA ANTIQUES—Clarence A. Phillips will present an illustrated lecture on "Old Virginia—a Thousand Miles of Scenic and Historic Charm" at the April meeting of the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the Willard Hotel. The program will include several spirituals, sung by Mrs. Guy Withers.

The Washington branch of the organization, in addition to sending a generous sum each year to the mother society of Richmond, for the preservation of landmarks, is engaged in restoring valuable records to save them for posterity.

PATRIOTIC WORK—Mrs. Henry M. Robert, jr., president general of the D. A. R., on her return from a national-wide tour, making visits to State chapters in various sections of the country, reports that many States had the largest conferences in their history.

D. A. R.'s throughout the country are active in support of national defense and of aid for Britain, Mrs. Robert says. Many chapters have given from 2,000 to 5,000 hours of service at their local Red Cross headquarters and one, in a Midwestern State, has given 84,000 hours of such service.

Generous emergency relief contributions have been made and many chapters have organized citizens' groups to provide wholesome recreation for soldiers on leave from neighboring military camps. In one locality, says Mrs. Robert, this work has been placed in the hands of junior members of the D. A. R.

The president general is now making final preparations for the Fiftieth Continental Congress of the society, which will open April 14 at Constitution Hall and will mark the close of her three years at the head of the organization.

Miss Mildred Brown's Pastels to Be Shown

An exhibition of Miss Mildred Brown's pastel portraits will be shown again tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Theodore Tiller, at 3409 Mount Pleasant Street, from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m.

Miss Brown gave an exhibition Sunday at Mrs. Tiller's home and it is being repeated by request.

Groner Arrives Home After Florida Vacation

Justice and Mrs. D. Lawrence Groner returned last evening from a vacation in Florida.

During their absence Mrs. Groner's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbert Train, of Georgetown, occupied their house on Kalorama Road with Miss Marion Shouse.

You Can Gain Health While Losing Weight

By Ida Jean Kain

TOSS ALL your faddy reducing menus to the April breeze. There is only one diet worth your while—and that's the thousand-calorie balanced menu. And it's not only slimming, it's a tonic.

The modern knowledge of nutrition makes it possible for the overweight to have an abundant diet and still lose one to three pounds a week. This scientific diet is so good that it puts the Hollywood diet, the lamb chop and pineapple fad, and all the others to shame. It provides an abundance of every essential except calories! Nothing could be fairer than that because, if you are overweight, you might have plenty of calories to spare.

Since the calories must be kept low, this abundant diet is made up almost exclusively of protective foods. It supplies daily: Two fresh fruits, one a citrus; two cooked vegetables, one a green; a raw vegetable salad; whole grain bread—or vitamin B bread; butter; a liberal serving of lean meat, fish or fowl; an egg, and two glasses of skim milk or one glass of milk and a serving of cheese.

Furnishes Vitamins

That diet furnishes adequate amounts of protein, minerals and vitamins. To furnish an abundance of the vitamins one vitamin A, B, C, D capsule should supplement the menus. An optional vitamin intake contributes to that feeling of well being.

The 1,000 calories a day are sufficient to take care of your energy requirements so you must draw on your stored fat for part of your requirements. This brings the weight down. It's a law of nature that when you take less food than you use daily, the stored calories are reconverted into energy. But the diet must provide everything you need so that your system goes right along functioning smoothly while you burn the useless fat.

Scientific Marvel

It is one of the marvels of the scientific age that a low-calorie diet can be so perfectly balanced as to actually improve your health while you are losing your excess weight at the steady clip of one to two pounds per week.

You can not only slim down but you will feel like a million dollars fresh from the mint! You don't believe it? Then you've never given a balanced menu a fair trial.

Reason for Curtains

The reason for curtains is often forgotten in this modern day and age when they're mostly regarded decoratively. But comes real wintry weather and the difference in heating a room that's well curtained and one that's not is as obvious as the difference in a bed with blankets and one "without. For glass conducts heat or cold, so that even a sheer curtain is some protection against the weather. In the olden days, draperies were first devised as a protection against drafts that tore through those noble baronial halls.

April Showers Bring Chic Rain Togs

Be prepared for April showers when they come your way. Don't gamble on the weather—just tuck one of the new packable umbrellas in your overnight bag. The one above is of striped Celanese taffeta for long-wearing qualities. The handle slips on and off in a split second. It packs neatly in 20-inch luggage

The Gentler Sex

By Malvina Lindsay

Design for Dressing

A new career—that of dress designer for the forgotten woman—has been taken up by Mrs. Henrietta DeGoofey, president of the Do Something About It League.

Mrs. DeGoofey

"As everyone knows, I have long designed my own hats," said the famous reformer at her press conference yesterday. "I shall now extend my design activities further."

Mrs. DeGoofey announced that her first design would be a "chameleon hangbag" that would change color to match whatever costume it was carried with.

"Statistics show," she said, "that 1,647,343 hours are spent daily by women in changing the contents of one handbag to another. And even then virtually every woman finds that she left her key or her money in the wrong bag. Moreover, I intend to work out some kind of a handbag large enough that a woman may carry in it not only her cosmetics and other necessities, but her old love letters, the bills she doesn't want her husband to see, the notes from relatives in jail or in almshouses, her wrinkle eradicators, and other private belongings, and will have the assurance that they will always be safely with her in the SAME handbag. Since most women have to live as if they were in aquariums, I intended to give them handbags which will permit them to have some private life."

Right Umbrella Is Planned

Mrs. DeGoofy also said she would design an umbella that would catch securely when it was closed and that would stay shut when hanging on the arm. "I have never yet seen an umbrella with the right kind of a catch," she declared.

Another of her designing projects, she said, would be a simple, sophisticated dress at a moderate price for a woman of size 12 or 14 who did not want to look as if she "were aping a deb." "Truly, the woman who doesn't want to look either dowagerish or girly-girly has been forgotten by the designers," said Mrs. DeGoofey.

"I also expect to design some suits with short jackets," she continued. "I have always held that the long jacket suit was unbecoming to most women, since with the short skirt it makes the figure look topheavy. But designers have gone on ignoring me, and short women have gone on buying suits with long jackets, and now I ask you what do we have on the streets? A most unesthetic and depressing sight!

Slips and Shoes To Be Reformed

"I shall also do something about slips and the way they bunch up in the middle. And I expect to design an inexpensive slip minus a lot of cheap lace and ruffles. Why a woman with a flat pocketbook is inevitably supposed to have shoddy taste in clothes is something I cannot understand!

"A shoe with a heel that is neither too high nor too low and that has a solid base is another of my projects. There seems to be no middle of the road fields in shoes. Either you totter on French heels or shuffle along in old women's house slippers.

"I shall also design some dark, cool and chic dresses for Washington summers. No woman, especially a working woman, wants to stand over an ironing board every night, and I intend to see that some smart-looking cottons that won't wrinkle and that will sell for less than $39.50 are designed."

"What will you do with the profits from your designs" asked a financial reporter.

"I shall spend them in the cause of public esthetics—specifically for research to evolve something to take the place of slacks for women," was the reply.

Remodel Home At Low Cost

A BOON to those who want a home to be proud of, the Federal Housing Administration loans. With their aid you need not long put off buying a house—or making your old one young and handsome again.

Yes, the outmoded exterior, inconvenient kitchen or useless cellar may easily be brought into key with modern, up-to-date living.

Under the "Title I" type of FHA insured loan you can borrow up to $2,500 for modernization. You have three years to pay and, for a $500 loan, monthly payments are as low as $16.

By simply ripping off the old-fashioned front porch, adding new porches at the sides, the lines of a whole house were improved. A lower chimney, clapboard siding and shutters complete the transformation.

Inside, new shelf space and work counters may give you a modern "labor-saving" kitchen. A few changes convert your cellar into a rumpus room.

You may want to investigate, too, plans for new low-cost homes. They offer more advantages than ever before!

Engaged for Six Months, Girl of 19 Was Supremely Happy at First; Now She Is Haunted by Fear That She Doesn't Love the Man; Older Friend Asks Advice

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am writing to you concerning the problem of a young friend of mine. She is 19 years of age, and an attractive, intelligent girl. She has been engaged for six months to a youth of 22, who is everything a young man should be. They are congenial as to religion, social interests and general background. For two months after becoming engaged, she was supremely happy—even though knowing it probably would be two years, at least, before the boy would have finished his training and be able to marry.

But lately, the girl has developed a fear that she does not love the boy; that he is "getting on her nerves," and that she is growing tired of him. However, she seems happy when she is with him: she is interested in no one else; and she is unwilling to give him up. Despite her uncertainty, she says her "one desire is to love him with all her heart and be as happy as before." Can you tell me anything that will help her? Do you think she really does love him? She has worried so much about this matter that it is undermining her health.

M. R.

DEAR M. R.: For a woman, to be genuinely and securely in love is to feel a mental, physical and spiritual affinity with the beloved. When such is the nature of her devotion to sweetheart or fiance, the flame of her happy and tender regard for him burns as clearly and steadily in his absence as in his presence. When she is fretted with doubt as to the nature of her feeling for him in his absence, it is very likely that she is not truly in love with him. A girl who must be in a man's company (or in his arms), in order to be reassured of his attractiveness to her, is a girl who is more sensually beguiled by him than psychically en rapport with him.

I believe your young friend was "supremely happy" during the first two months of her engagement for the reason that she was experiencing in that period the deep satisfaction of having achieved what—prior to the engagement—had seemed an unattainable goal: namely, the privilege of marrying the young man. But now that the prize is within her grasp it is progressively losing its appeal for her. In a sense, she is learning that "all that glitters is not gold."

The apple that hangs out of reach seems infinitely desirable and incomparably flavorsome. And here was a young man of whom you say, "He is everything that a young man should be." It would naturally follow that he would be sought after by admiring young ladies and their sympathetically approving mothers—and thus, when your young friend learned that he was hers for the taking, I suppose she walked on air for several weeks thereafter.

But now that she has ample opportunity to know him, bereft of the glamour and excitement of the chase, she doesn't find him as miraculously marvelous as he had seemed to be, in her dreams of him. On the contrary, she finds him somewhat boring and tedious at times and, possibly, in many respects, entirely different from "the man she had in mind." Thus she doesn't know whether to go on, trying to "bluff the thing through," because, in the eyes of her world, she has made a "good catch," or whether to call the thing off and take her chances on finding an equally presentable and far more soul-satisfying life companion.

One cannot attach decisive significance to the fact that she is happy when with him. After all, she is fond of him as a friend; no doubt thoroughly at ease with him; proud of his "eligibility" in the eyes of others; and flattered and heart warmed by his single-minded, serious attentions. But the fact that she has to work at "the desire to love him with all her heart;" that she must admit her erstwhile happiness in the engagement is gradually evaporating, and that she is worrying herself sick over the prospect of settling down with him for life (for this is what her attitude amounts to!)—all this suggests to me that she can only recover peace of mind and a sense of "right direction" by securing release from the engagement.

In my opinion, a girl of 19 is about four years too young to be asked to commit herself to the serious proposition of marriage. I hold it to be to your friend's credit that she is troubled by anxiety concerning the wisdom of her pledge. She probably will make a better marriage as a result of such conscientiousness than she would if she were to plunge ahead without studying her course carefully. I think she should be abetted and encouraged by older persons whose judgment she trusts and whose respect she values, in dissolving the pledge—if she cannot adhere to it in a spirit of joyous certitude. No matter how "perfect" the young man may be—from the viewpoint of character, background and "promise"—he cannot make her happy if she cannot love him whole-heartedly. And it seems that she cannot.

It's Gravy for Army

The soldier boys at camp are going to eat lots of gravy, if Government orders for chinaware are any indication, for bids are now being received for 16,000 gravy boats. And they may have "too much mustard" before the fray is over, for orders will be placed for 10,000 mustard pots.

How One Woman Lost 26 Lbs. of Fat

—4 inches off Hips
—3 inches off Bust
7½ inches off Waist

Look 10 Years Younger" Writes "I Feel Fine and

How would you like to lose 10 to 20 pounds of fat in a few weeks? How would you like to lose your double chin and your too-prominent hips and abdomen and along with it feel better perhaps than you have in years?

Get on scales today and see how much you weigh. Take half a teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of water first thing every morning. Cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on white bread, potatoes, butter and cream. After 30 days weigh yourself again—now you'll know the safe, easy, sensible way to lose fat.

Kruschen comes in either the new pleasant, bubbling form or plain—a bottle usually lasts 4 weeks and is inexpensive.

Leading druggists all over America sell Kruschen Salts (a famous English formula) if not supremely satisfied—money back.

Margaret Mitchell Now Far Too Busy to Write, She Reveals at Mrs. J. O. Herrick's Luncheon

By Hope Ridings Miller.

BEFORE "GONE WITH THE WIND" was published, Margaret Mitchell wrote two novels a year and managed to hold down a newspaper job besides. But since she became a Famous Author, she has never found time to write another book. After her saga of Scarlett hit the newsstands and started selling by the millions—well, then, she found her work had only begun. So, until the big business of being a best-selling author subsides considerably, you needn't expect any more books from Margaret Mitchell.

"I simply don't have time to write any more," she told me yesterday between the second and third course at Mrs. John O. Herrick's luncheon. I had asked her the usual questions: Was she working on another novel? If not, did she ever expect to do another? If not, why not? And soon?

Not at all usual were her answers. She might write another. In fact, she might do several. But when—she hadn't the foggiest idea. Not for quite a while, perhaps. Not, at any rate, until the after-effects of doing one mammoth seller had subsided considerably.

"Let's look at it this way," she said with a twinkle in her blue eyes. "Suppose I were an automobile salesman and had a business going in America, Canada and 18 foreign countries—now when would I ever have time to write another book?"

HER CORRESPONDENCE the first two years after "Gone With the Wind" was published kept two stenographers busy day and night. Her telephone rang constantly—and still does. She has had to combat lawsuits, celebrity seekers, and the general run of tourists who regard her as something of an Atlanta landmark. She has had to protect foreign and domestic rights of her book and negotiate a thousand and one tasks that the general public would never know had fallen to the lot of any author.

But—life is growing slightly less complicated now. And Miss Mitchell has an idea that before long she may be able to settle down to writing once more. Incidentally, G. W. T. W.—hailed far and wide as a "first" novel—was really not that at all. "I wrote two books a year for ever so long," she said. "And tore them all up. I would have done the same with 'The Wind' if my husband hadn't kept me from it."

A hasty reading of this account might lead you to believe that Margaret Mitchell talks about herself continually. That's not the case at all. She talks well, and often, in the manner of any well-reared Southern lady who believes you should keep up your end of the conversation—but the subject gets around to her only when you are insistent (as I was) on keeping it there.

I MIGHT SAY right here that Miss Mitchell didn't look, nor act, as I thought she would. I visualized her as extremely retiring and so remote that it would be impossible to draw her out on anything.

She's witty and she's winsome. She has a liquid Southern accent, and she's so natural you have quite a time remembering she is a celebrity. She wears rimless spectacles when she's not posing for pictures. Her brown hair has red glints in it and was almost the same shade as the mink halo that circled her red skullcap and matched her coat. A figured frock, featuring a white pattern on a brown background, and a white-frilled collar and low-heeled shoes further accented her costume.

I could go on forever (well, for columns at least) talking about Margaret Mitchell; but the truth is, she wasn't the only headliner at Mrs. Herrick's luncheon. In fact, if somebody had cried, "Author! Author!" at least four women at the party would have responded. Miss Mitchell shared honors with Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, former Washingtonian and author of "The Yearling." Lella Warren, author of "Foundation Stone," was there, and also May Merrill Miller, author of "First the Blade."

Mrs. Henry A. Wallace joined the party before it was over, coming on from a meeting of the Senate Ladies Luncheon Club. Others there included Mrs. J. Fred Essary, Mrs. Theodore Allen Dees and Miss Emma Michie, of Lake Charles, La., and several others.

Oh, yes, I almost forgot to tell you—if you ever happen to meet Margaret Mitchell, don't ask her for an autograph. You won't get it. One guest at the luncheon yesterday found that out. She asked for and got a sweet, but firm, "No. I'm sorry, I can't." It seems Miss Mitchell hasn't autographed a book since Christmas, 1936, and several members of her own family are among those who have asked . . . and been refused.

Mrs. Vogel to Fete Ania Dorfman After Concert

Ania Dorfman, famous pianist, who will be a featured star at the concert this evening, will be feted afterward at a supper party to be given by Mrs. Martin Vogel at her home on Kalorama Circle.

Mme. Dorfman, who arrived in Washington on Monday, is staying with Mrs. Vogel and the latter, accompanied by Baron and Baroness Stackelberg, will attend the concert tonight at which Mme. Dorfman will be the piano soloist with the National Symphony. The event will mark the final evening of the Beethoven-Brahms-Sibelius festival, under the direction of Hans Kindler.

Mrs. Waller's Guests Knit for Soldier-Spouses

Several of the guests at the party given last night by Mrs. Robert Waller brought their knitting along—sweaters destined, not for Britain, but for their husbands who have been drafted. Mrs. Waller, the former Miss Happy Izac, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Edouard Izac, of California, lost her husband in the draft a month ago, and there were several other "draft widows" in the party.

The company included daughters and nieces of members of the House of Representatives. Plans for a final cocktail party prior to the spring dinner dance of the daughters of the House were discussed. Among those who sampled a dinner which featured California-style spaghetti were Mrs. John Tolan, jr., president of the daughters; Mrs. Alejandro Castro, vice president and social chairman; Miss Dorothy Ramspeck, Mrs. Adrienne Kerr, Mrs. Malcolm Tarver, Mrs. Hugh Nelson and the Misses Patricia Houston, Bonnie Patton, Alma Jean Tolan, Jane Massingale, Katherine Craig, Marjorie Griswold, Betty Jensen, Marjorie Lamars, Mary Dempsey and Muriel Dempsey.

Also present was Mrs. Raymond Walter, of New York, matron of honor at Mrs. Waller's wedding and herself a recent bride. She will return today to Manhattan.

District Visitor

Mrs. Armistead Wharton, of Rochester, N. Y., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Vernon H. Brewster for a week. Mrs. Milford S. Zimmerman gave a luncheon for her on Monday.

Notes of Society

Official and Residential

Robert B. Murphy, Counselor of the United States Embassy at Vichy, was among the 187 passengers who arrived in New York Monday on the American Export liner from Lisbon, via Bermuda.

Dr. and Mrs. James Alexander Lyon are expected back today from a cruise to the West Indies. They spent a few days at the Ambassador Hotel in New York before coming to Washington.

Edward Page, of the State Department, and Mrs. Page will give a cocktail party on Friday.

Walter Prendergast will be host at a small cocktail party tomorrow.

Mrs. Thompson Montgomery, who has been visiting in Florida, will return home the latter part of this week and will entertain at a cocktail party on Saturday afternoon.

About the Town

with Dudley Harmon

THE USUAL TEA party small talk of Washington is refreshingly on the decline, in diplomatic circles, anyway. Practically every foreigner in our midst keeps producing relatives or friends who have just been through such adventures as would make even the hair of a Jack London stand straight up. Mrs. Richard Casey, wife of the Australian envoy, and Miss Pat Jarrett, of the legation, have had with them a young woman whose experiences have been almost as harrowing as those in the front ranks of a war. She is Mrs. Colin Munroe, daughter of Sir John Peden, dean of the Sydney University Law School.

HARMON

Mrs. Munroe leaves today with her 8-month-old baby for the South Pacific Clipper flight to Australia, where her father is very ill. When the war began, she went with her husband, a member of the Cameronian regiment, to London. She worked as an architect for the British government while her husband fought in France. Since she was going to have a baby, the doctors ordered her to Canada, where the child was born a few hours after her arrival. Meanwhile she had heard nothing from her husband. Finally the news came that he had been wounded at Dunkerque and taken prisoner by the Germans. He doesn't yet know he is a father.

The Munroe baby is probably the youngest passenger ever to cross the South Pacific by clipper. The authorities of the line have furnished him with a special baby kit of infant formulas and all the necessities.

Mr. and Mrs. Casey have asked Clarence Gauss, newly named Ambassador to China, for cocktails on Friday. Mr. Gauss was Minister to Australia before this assignment.

WINTER MADE A LAST stand the other night when the Washington Ice Club gave its gala program. Card dancing and an exhibition by the members ended the club's current season.

Many members brought their friends for a last skate around the rink. One dauntless visitor showed up for his first try in four years wearing his wife's skates, having mislaid his own. The James Clement Dunn Cup went to Mary Frances Rollow, who did a solo dance despite being worn out after a gay weekend at West Point. J. Edgar Murdock and Mrs. Paul Fox won the Richard Sanger Medal for having shown the most improvement.

Ring glimpses: Sarah Derby, Roosevelt kin, who is slaving away as stenographer to Representative Joseph Baldwin, showed up with skates. Miss Derby, the subject of several front-page stories lately, cringed slightly when another skater said, "I recognized you by your pictures." Mrs. Baldwin and the children will not move here permanently until next fall, when the family will take a house.

MRS. GALE McLEAN, huddled in a raccoon coat, perched on the railing . . . Mr. and Mrs. Horace Peters, she wearing a bright red wool jacket, chatted with friends . . . Mrs. Anthony Rumbold was another who watched with interest . . . Particularly effective was the tango number, with the girls and men wearing Spanish costumes. To Mr. and Mrs. John Borton and Mr. and Mrs. Creighton Peet goes much of the credit for the carnival's success.

ESCOTT REID, Second Secretary of the Canadian Legation, has been ordered back to Canada. With Mrs. Reid, he is being showered with farewell parties. The Commercial Secretary of the British Embassy and Mrs. J. P. Summerscale will entertain for the couple on Saturday evening.

House Guests

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Bush and their daughter, Miss Jean Bush, of Wynnewood Park, Md., have as their guest Jay Miller, of the University of Pennsylvania.

Press Women Are Honored By Mrs. Gerry

Out-of-town celebrities met the local variety yesterday at the cocktail party given by Mrs. Peter Goelet Gerry prior to the annual dinner of the Women's National Press Club. Honor guests were members of the press, many of whom brought along distinguished women whom they had invited to the dinner. In addition, there were several members of Washington society who dropped by for a cocktail before going on to the Willard.

Mrs. Gerry received her guests at the entrance to the drawing room, wearing a black dinner gown, cut on simple lines. Among those present, in addition to members of the Fourth Estate and their guests, were Senora de Espil, wife of the Argentine Ambassador; Mrs. Owen J. Roberts, Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Mrs. Eldridge Jordan, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Mrs. Hiram Bingham and Mrs. Dwight Davis.

Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert, jr., had a few friends in, mostly press, before the dinner. Her guests included Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, Mrs. George Mesta and Miss Kay Hammel, well known woman writer.

Other cocktail parties were given by Mrs. J. Fred Essary, president of the club, who entertained the honor guests; Mrs. John Herrick and Mrs. Warren Wheaton.

After the dinner the honor guests, the club officers and a few others went on to the home of Mrs. Eugene Meyer for a nightcap and a bite to eat.

Dinner Party Given By the Ambergs

The Special Assistant to the Secretary of War and Mrs. Julius Amberg entertained informally at a small dinner last night at their Georgetown home. They have leased the house of Harry Hopkins, at 2821 N Street.

Their guests included Mme. Loudon, wife of the Netherlands Minister, and Countess van Rechteren Limpung, whose husband, the legation counselor, is on an official visit to the Dutch East Indies. Others in the party were Mrs. Ives Lowe, Edward Weintal, George Abell and Huntington Thom.

Capital Whirl

By Sally Swift

Latest "old friend" to arrive in Washington is Claude de Boisanger who is en route from Vichy to his new post as French consul-General in San Francisco. M. de Boisanger was for several years attached to the French Embassy here, serving under Ambassador Andre de Laboulaye and Georges Bonnet. In those happier times his little house on R Street was the scene of many amusing parties. Most original was the dinner-party at which none of the guests was supposed to talk during the meal. This allowed the party, especially the men, to enjoy the perfect food and wine without the necessity of prattling while the soup grew cold. M. de Boisanger provided a pianist to entertain during the supposed silence. Need I relate that conversation flourished more briskly than usual and that nobody kept the rules?

Upon his arrival in Washington yesterday, M. de Boisanger found one of his old friends and colleagues in the hospital. Charles Lucet, Second Secretary of the French Embassy, is recovering from an operation at the Emergency Hospital and Madame Lucet reports that he is now well enough to call loudly for a sight of the flowers which have been sent by sympathetic friends.

GREEKS in their national costumes added a lovely touch of color to the brilliant audience which attended the Byron MacDonald lecture for Greek war relief the other night. One of the prettiest ladies present was petite Countess de Gramont in a frock of pale blue silk made with a long very full skirt and worn with a scarlet jacket and a little scarlet Greek cap. She was very busy finding seats for everyone and was assisted by a corps of charming usherettes including the Norris sisters, Kitty Hill, Mary Ann Ferrandou and Patricia Uline Hill.

Mrs. Truxtun Beale, who has been working so hard as chairman of the Greek war relief committee, arrived with her dinner guests and kept a benevolent eye on everything, especially seeing to it that more chairs were brought for the larger-than-expected crowd. Afterward she invited a number of friends to Decatur House for supper and to meet Mr. MacDonald. Wandering about the drawing-rooms of the historic old house one was charmed by the becoming soft gas-light which flickered from crystal chandeliers and mingled with the light of dozens of wax candles in wall-brackets and on tables. Not an electric light was to be seen. Glimpsed here and there were the British Minister-Counselor, Sir Gerald Campbell and Lady Campbell, the minister of Luxemburg and Mme. Le Gallais, the Danish Minister and Mme. de Kauffmann, the Minister-Counselor of the Greek Legation and Mme. Despasta, the Polish Ambassador and Mme. Ciechanowska, and Mme. Fotitch, without her popular husband the Yugoslav Minister, who must be finding much to occupy him at the Legation just now.

ALSO PRESENT was the new Representative from New York, Joseph Baldwin and his secretary, Sarah Derby, who had been brought to the party by her aunt, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. Still others were Miss Irene Boyle, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lippmann, Miss Kitty Du Bois, Countess Palffy, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hurja, Derek Hoyer Millar, Winthrop Crane, John Thacher, and a good many more.

A letter from Mrs. Robert Pell in Bermuda reports that her small daughter and her mother, Mrs. Reginald Barker, have both recovered from recent illnesses and that she hopes to be able to bring them back to Washington about April 7. She says that Bermuda is crowded, mostly with official people. She has met Mrs. John Winant, wife of the new United States Ambassador to Britain, several times in Bermuda and finds her "charming, unaffected, and incredibly young to be the mother of grown children."

Mrs. Whitten Here For Several Days

Mrs. Francis Whitten has arrived from White Sulphur Springs for a stay of several days and is at the Mayflower. Besides renewing her many friendships here, Mrs. Whitten is buying furniture for the home which she and her husband recently built on a mountain top at White Sulphur Springs.

For several years Mrs. Whitten made her home in Washington and played a prominent role in local society. She has been living at White Sulphur Springs for the past year.

Mrs. Wadsworth To Return Friday From Hobe Sound

Mrs. James W. Wadsworth will return Friday from Hobe Sound, Fla., where she went several weeks ago to join her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Symington, of St. Louis.

Representative Wadsworth returned to their Georgetown home Monday from an inspection tour of Southern camps.

Mrs. Werlich To Give Dinner

Mrs. McCeney Werlich will entertain at dinner on April 15 in honor of Mrs. Randolph H. Miner and Miss Carolyn Nash, who have been making a series of visits in California.

The two spent some time in Los Angeles and at Palm Springs with Mrs. Miner's sister-in-law, Mrs. Alfred Wilcox. The latter, who was here for a month last fall at the Carlton hotel, expects to return some time this month for another visit.

Arthur B. Campbell At Everglades Club

Arthur Bradley Campbell, who is now in Palm Beach, will remain at the Everglades Club until April 15. Then he will go to New York before coming to Washington later in the spring.

Mr. Campbell spent several weeks in the Capital early in the season. His two cousins, the Misses Isabelle and Marjorie Meuser, were with him here. Later they left to visit California.

First Lady Discusses Defense Role

to the world," she continued, emphasising the demand for personal responsibility to maintain a spirit of courage and resourcefulness.

"We will find our country taking its place in leadership, as it should, in the crisis and after the crisis, taking responsibility for its part in the family of nations," she said. "We can't shirk our part of responsibility for world conditions. We are preparing for it in the kind of people we make of ourselves."

Asked as to the reaction to the present emergency she found among college students, Mrs. Roosevelt said many seemed confused and attributed this attitude to the fact that their elders also were confused. She said she found much more awareness of the international situation in the East than in the South. The girls in southern colleges, although full of charm, are much less mature and much less aware of world conditions than those in the East, she said.

She paid tribute to a "great majority of the teachers in our schools and colleges" as doing "an extraordinary job of being objective, and teaching the young people to think." If there is any criticism, it is of the homes, rather than the teachers, she said, advising that young people be given the greatest possible opportunity to learn of community, national and international problems and discuss them in their homes.

She warned that in a time like the present people "have a great obligation to be very careful what they say and how they label people and things, and to be sure they tell the truth as nearly as it is possible to ascertain it."

Sorority to Hear Dr. Evelyn McBain

800 Fathers, Sons and Guests Expected at Brotherhood Fete

According to present indications, the eighteenth annual father and son banquet of Washington Brotherhood on May 4 will break all attendance records, Chairman Sidney Lust reported yesterday.

room will be converted for the

More than 800 boys, dads and distinguished guests are expected to board the "show boat," into which the Hotel Mayflower's main ballromm will be converted for the occasion, Lust said.

His report was presented at the first meeting of the arrangements committee, held at Harvey's Restaurant.

Latest additions to the roster of entertainers, he said, include Clyde Beatty, lion and tiger trainer, by courtesy of the Johnny Jones show; Herman Norwood, a home talent version of Aunt Jemima, and a group of colored singers.

Vaudeville acts, circus specialties and impromptu stunts also are on the entertainment program.

Allen de Ford, chairman of the sponsor committee, announced that 31 sponsors have been signed up to date, which is far ahead of the corresponding period last year. Lust announced the acceptance of an invitation to attend by the Rev. James A. Magner, of Catholic University.

Role of Prussia To Be Discussed

Six Promoted Policemen Assume Ranks

Formal swearing in of two captains, two lieutenants and two sergeants took place at Police Headquarters yesterday as Capt. James E. Bobo, veteran of 30 years, relinquished the reins at the Thirteenth Precint.

Lieuts. Clement P. Cox and John H. Fowler were elevated to the rank of captain to fill the vacancy left by Bobo's retirement and the absence of Capt. Lloyd Kelly on military leave.

Sergts. Thomas E. Edwards and Bert Sheldon were made lieutenants and Privates Earl Noble and Edward Sennott were promoted to sergeants.

Members of the Thirteenth Precinct presented Capt. Bobo with a watch at impressive ceremonies at the precint station house yesterday while Capt. Fowler, the new commander, stood by. Capt. Cox was placed in charge of the Eighth Precinct.

Cripple Seeks President's Ear About Jobs for Handicapped

Ex-Baseball Player Hitchhikes Here In Search of Work

If Lee Wood could just get the ear of President Roosevelt for a few minutes . . .

Lee Wood is 23 years old. He used to be a baseball pitcher, good enough to have a contract with a minor professional team until spinal meningitis hit him in 1933.

After he finally got out of the hospital and had learned to walk again, he found he couldn't get a job at the printing trade he had learned in high school because he couldn't pass physical examinations.

When the present emergency came along, and America's need for manpower increased, Lee Wood thought there would be some place where he and the thousands of others like him could contribute their bit.

"But there's no job for us crippled guys in any phase of the national defense setup," Wood said here yesterday after hitchhiking from Oklahoma City.

"Guys like me could be timekeepers or watchmen or toolcheckers, or we could do some kind of office work, but no Government job will take us on. There's something screwy about that kind of a setup.

"I'm not thinking about the money part of it either, although I could use some. But just because I have got bad legs is no sign I can't be of some use to the Government in times like this. I'd like to do my part and I know plenty of others in the same fix that feel the same way."

Wood came here with the vague idea that if he could just see President Roosevelt a few minutes, the President would understand and straighten things out.

LEE WOOD

"He knows that a fellow with crippled legs can still do his job," is the way Wood put it.

Convinced that President Roosevelt couldn't spare the time to talk with a hitch-hiker, even one with a good idea, Wood hopes to see his Congressman, Mike Monroney, today, to get Monroney's advice.

If only he could see Mrs. Roosevelt for a few minutes . . .

Pope Protests Persecution In Germany

By International News Service

Vatican City, April 1.—Pope Pius has made several recent protests to Germany against increasing signs that persecution of Catholics is being renewed in the Reich, it was learned on reliable authority tonight.

This revelation was supported by an announcement of the Vatican radio, which said:

"Anxiety is felt in the Holy See over preparations to found in Germany a new church independent of Rome.

"Alfred Rosenberg (Nazi cultural chief) terms the Catholic Church a Mediterranean Jewish myth, and Germans professing the vocation of the priesthood are liable to be sent to labor camps."

The Pope's protests, it was learned, have been sent through Msgr. Cesare Orsenigo, papal nuncio in Berlin.

Only his deep desire to avoid even involuntarily creating the impression that the Pope favors the enemies of Germany, or permitting the mistaken notion that the Vatican is taking advantage of a delicate wartime political situation, has kept his holiness from open and more vigorous expressions of unhappiness over the Reich situation, it was stated.

It was felt also that following the example of Pius XI, who boldly protested each case of persecution, might make worse the already bad local religious situation in Germany. Therefore Pius XII has sanctioned only isolated voices of protest, such as permitting statements by the Vatican radio and pastoral letters from such prelates as the Archbishop of Freiburg—most of which were suppressed in Germany.

During the middle period of the war, the Holy See thought that alleged persecution had diminished. The anti-Catholic press campaign died down and the so-called morality trials were abandoned. The Pope hoped for complete disappearance of unfavorable conditions.

Authorities in the Vatican realize that hands of Germans in the Reich are tied. However, more intensive Vatican reaction so far has been withheld in fear of creating the wrong political impression in Germany.

Hotel Apologizes for Refusing To Serve Ft. Meade Sergeant

Fort George G. Meade, Md., April 1.—Charges by a soldier of the Twenty-ninth Division that he was barred from a hotel night club in Washington because of his uniform have been admitted by the management, which has apologized, Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, commanding the division, said today.

Gen. Reckord said Richard S. Butler, manager of the Hotel 2400 Sixteenth Street, told him the soldier and a young woman companion were excluded from the night club by a waiter, without knowledge of the headwaiter. He admitted the waiter told the soldier it was "not the policy" of the hotel to serve men in uniform.

"However," Butler said, "it definitely is the hotel's policy to serve anyone, regardless of uniform or rank, as long as he conducts himself properly."

The incident arose last week when Staff Sergt. A. E. Roughton, Medical Detachment, 111th Field Artillery, informed Gen. Reckord that he had been asked to leave the night club because he was in uniform. In a public statement following Sergt. Roughton's letter, the hotel management said the soldier had taken a reserved table, the only table vacant, and had demanded service, pounding on the table for attention. Its present version, Butler said, was given after "further investigation."

"The hotel management has admitted Sergt. Roughton's statement was correct," Gen. Reckord said today, "and has apologized and assured us there would be no future discrimination against men in uniform. The incident is now closed."

100 'Dancers' to Be U. S. Employes' Guests Saturday

One hundred pretty "draftettes"—girls who have registered with the District of Columbia Defense Council to be dance hostesses for nearby selectees, will be the guests of the Federal Employes Council at a dance this Saturday night at Riverside Stadium.

The girls were selected on automatic sorting machines and all they need do to receive their tickets is to apply at the District Building with proper identification. To even things up, 100 selectees will also be the guests of the council at this mammoth dance, for which Vincent Lopez and his radio band have been engaged.

The Federal Diary

Col. McSherry Bosses FSA Youth Training

Col. Frank J. McSherry, recently appointed director of training at Federal Security Agency, is the boss, in fact if not in name, of Office of Education and National Youth Administration. Federal Security Administrator Paul McNutt has given McSherry full control over the defense training programs of the Office of Education, NYA and CCC, and the heads of those agencies will take orders from McSherry. The training program has been a constant headache to McNutt. Office of Education and NYA haven't cooperated as much as they might have.

It cost Polly McCabe $4 to walk across the grass the other day at the Mall. Park Police arrested her and her boy friend, and Polly, a War Department stenographer, had to put up the money for both of them. . . . WPA has had to reduce its staff by 100 employes, but defense jobs have been found for most of those separated. . . . Leon Henderson, it's reported, may resign from SEC to give his full time to defense. Or he may leave the Government to accept a private offer.

Federal Housing Administration has asked for a $1,148,263 deficiency to expand its defense housing activities and which would greatly increase its number of employes. FHA isn't under Civil Service. . . . With the President back, an order making the Ramspeck bill effective is expected momentarily. It's reported without confirmation at Justice that the proposed order has been rewritten to exclude attorneys. But whether the President will sign is problematical. Even the most stanch civil service friend would prefer to see attorneys out than have them brought under by the Frankfurter plan, whereby a department would be free to hire anyone on the list. Great pressure has been brought on the President to make the Frankfurter plan effective.

War Secretary Stimson has complained to other Federal agencies that their employes don't abide by local restrictions when visiting defense plants. . . . Civil Service Exams: commodity exchange specialist, several grades with salaries ranging from $2,600 to $4,600, Commodity Exchange Administration. Shipyard inspector, various fields, with salaries ranging from $2,300 to 3,800, Maritime Commission. . . . Boys far outnumbered girls for the first time at the recent Civil Service Commission dance.

Lend-Lease Offices

Lend-lease headquarters will be on the fourth floor of the Treasury Building. The department has ordered all employes moved from that floor but where to put them has everyone puzzled. . . . A resolution to investigate Pan-American Airways and the Government subsidies paid it will be introduced in the House. . . . Senator Wagner of New York expects to sponsor a bill to make effective the National Resources Planning Board's six-year public works program.

Civil Aeronautics Authority soon will recommend a site for a second major airport to serve Washington. The number of sites now being considered has been sifted down to three. . . . National Resources Planning Board is hiring employes. . . . Labor Secretary Perkins has appointed Elmer Walker and Joseph Foster to the apprentice training division. . . . Richard Spencer, Budget Bureau examiner, has been appointed director of the newly created Budget and Planning Division at United States Housing Authority. He is an old hand at working out budgets and he should make life easier for USHA officials. . . . Incidentally, USHA also is hiring new employes in its management division to operate its housing projects.

Charles F. Jackson, Bureau of Mines engineer, and Don White, geologist of the Geological Survey, have discovered a high-grade deposit of tungsten ore, vital defense material, in Idaho . . . Federal Bar Association has moved its headquarters to 416 Fifth Street . . . Basil Capella, OPM assistant personnel director, plans to organize a credit union for defense employes. . . . George Hartnell has been retired from Coast and Geodetic Survey. . . . Agriculture Graduate School will give a course in professional writing starting Monday.

You Can't Take It With You

A. E. Bell, a Virginia State engineer, came here yesterday to present his plans for a Fort Story bypass at a War Department conference.

Later, when the conferees left, they discovered Bell was missing. He was being detained by guards who demanded from Bell a permit to take the plans out of the building. Army officials had to sign a release.

Out of the Night

Montgomery County commissioners yesterday held a hearing on an application of the Sandy Spring Beautification Club to establish a cemetery on a tract near Sandy Spring.

A neighbor, who lives adjacent to the proposed cemetery, appeared to object. "I'd be afraid to go out to the spring in the dark," he protested. Decision was withheld.

New Bridge To Virginia Held Needed

Officials at Dinner Given by Rep. Smith Differ on Location For Proposed Span

District and Alexandria and Arlington, Va., public officials agreed last night on the need for an additional bridge connecting Virginia and the District.

They were guests at an informal dinner given by Representative Howard Smith, of Alexandria, at Alexandria's George Mason Hotel, where they discussed mutual problems caused by the defense emergency, such as housing and traffic.

Those present included District Commissioner John Russell Young, Federal Works Administrator John M. Carmody and members of his staff, Mayor William T. Wilkins and City Manager Carl Budwesky, of Alexandria; Arlington County Manager Frank Hanrahan and officials of the Alexandria Housing Authority.

While agreeing on the necessity of another bridge to relieve traffic congestion between Virginia and the District, the conferees disagreed on where the span should be built. Alexandrians wanted it near the Highway Bridge, while Arlington representatives preferred it farther north.

Other specific matters discussed included a housing development to be established in Alexandria for Fort Belvoir construction workers, a proposed Arlington County traffic bypass and traffic congestion between Alexandria and Fort Belvoir.

"The conference was designed to give officials of the communities a clearer picture of problems confronting their neighbors," said Representative Smith.

North Cleveland Park

Creation of a recreation board for the District was recommended last night at the regular meeting of the North Cleveland Park Citizens Association held at Windom Hall, Wisconsin Avenue and Windom Street Northwest.

The board would consist of one of the Commissioners, one to be designated by the Board of Education, a representative and the superintendent of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and a group of five citizens "to be chosen without discrimination of color, sex or religion."

It was further recommended that the board serve without compensation and appoint a superintendent of recreation for the District.

The association urged Congress to appropriate $50,000 to the Board of Education to provide 32 teachers for Washington's 1,400 shut-in children.

The Capper bill, regulating the number of delegates from the District to national political conventions, was indorsed by the group.

A resolution was adopted protesting the attendance of Virginia and Maryland children in the District public schools system.

Columbia Heights

The Columbia Heights Citizens Association last night urged the construction of municipal parking lots to ease the traffic problem downtown.

Meeting at the Mount Vernon Congregational Church, the association also adopted a resolution indorsing the Overton-Hunter bill to increase the Federal contribution to the District Government.

The association asked that an inebriate farm be constructed at Occoquan. Additional fire alarm boxes in the District were advocated, and another resolution called for a traffic regulation prohibiting cars passing to the left of street car loading platforms.

A request was sent to the Commissioners asking that an entrance for pedestrians be opened into the Piney Branch Parkway at either Quincy, Randolph or Shepherd Streets.

Commissioners To Act on Yacht Basin Contracts

Contracts for the leasing of Yacht Basins 1 and 2, on the Maine Avenue waterfront, will come up for approval this week by the Commissioners.

Yacht Basin No. 1, recently completed, is situated between Twelfth and Fourteenth Streets Southwest. During the remodeling of the entire waterfront, the basin was leased from the United States Government by the Nash Marine Supply Co. for $301 a month. Title for the basin is now in the hands of the District government, which will boost the rent to $350.

Yacht Basin No. 2, between G and H Streets Southwest, is leased by the Capital Yacht Club for $15 a month from the United States Government. This title also will return to the District government, which will raise the rent to $50 a month.

Law Asked to Call Retired Army Men

Secretary Stimson yesterday asked Congress to empower President Roosevelt to call retired Army personnel into active service without their consent.

In a letter to Speaker Rayburn he proposed legislation to make permanent existing temporary authority to order retired officers and men to active duty during any emergency. Present law granting such power expires June 30.

The bill would also permit retired general officers and Navy and Coast Guard admirals to receive full pay and allowances when on active duty.

House Daughters Honor Visiting New Yorker

STAGE BUFFET SUPPER—Daughters of the House last night staged a buffet supper at the residence of Mrs. Robert Waller, daughter of Representative Izac, of California, in honor of Mrs. Waller's house guest, Mrs. Raymond Walters, of New York. More than 25 club members gathered in her Capital Vista apartment. Stagger Plan Works Better On Second Day

After eliminating left turns at one principal congestion point and rearranging mass transportation schedules to meet new demands, Washington police and traffic authorities last night announced that second-day operations of the Federal workers' stagger-hour system "went amazingly well."

Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer said there still are a few "kinks" to be ironed out, but on the whole, he added, both morning and afternoon rush-hour periods were the "smoothest I've ever seen them."

At Fourteenth Street and Maine Avenue Southwest, where peak-time traffic jams Monday were admittedly the "worst on record," Van Duzer banned all left turns for autos. After watching both rush-hour periods, he observed:

"I never saw this "bottleneck" intersection so free. It was obviously the left turns that were confusing things."

Inspector Arthur E. Miller, police traffic chief, also watched the traffic flow at this point. He reported:

"Conditions Marvelous"

"I didn't know that prohibiting left turns could do so much good. Conditions at this corner—usually a 'headache' for us—were marvelous—I never saw them better."

It was also evident yesterday that fewer persons disregarded the new stagger-hour schedule. Observers agreed that most persons who drive to work abided by the change in hours and came downtown either earlier or later according to schedules set for their offices.

Monday, when the new system became effective, was payday, officials recalled, and this probably accounted for the rush-hour crush.

President E. D. Merrill, of the Capital Transit Co., said from 50 to 100 bus and streetcar trips were revised to comply with changed conditions.

It was found, he said, that there was an "overage" of service during late peak hours and a shortage during early stages of the "Government rush." Studies Monday, Merrill declared, resulted in an improved transportation schedule yesterday.

Buses, Cars Shifted

Additional facilities, Merrill said, were added to Sixteenth Street Northwest, Fourteenth Street Northwest and the Mount Pleasant line. These sections lacked adequate service Monday, he added.

The transit company maintained its record number of rush-hour vehicles—1,355—but shifted buses and streetcars to meet demands. More shifts will be made if necessary, Merrill said.

A special detail of policemen smoothed out the tangle which developed Monday at Eighteenth Street and Virginia Avenue Northwest. Van Duzer said rush-hour traffic at this point yesterday appeared "much lighter than usual."

"Probably," he added, "because motorists didn't want to get involved in the same jam they got into Monday and took different routes."

Confusion still reigned at Twelfth Street and Constitution Avenue Northwest, but officials blamed a street excavation on Twelfth Street north of the Avenue.

"This will be cleared up in a few days," said Van Duzer, "and things should straighten out."

Both morning and afternoon yesterday, tangles which earlier developed on Highway and Memorial Bridges had almost disappeared. Motorists reported making "excellent time" on trips coming into the city and leaving.

35,000 Ask, 10,000 Get Low Numbers

Are you one of the 10,000 hobby lobbyists who procured a "special" automobile tag this year?

If so, you were lucky—you beat out at least 25,000 others who tried unsuccessfully to break into the "low number" group.

If you lost, don't feel badly. The number you have probably is less conspicuous than a low one and is valid until April 1, 1942, just like the specials.

Thousands of car owners storm Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer's office each year for tags with their telephone number, their street address, the number corresponding to the date they were born, were graduated from college, or "just any four-figured number that I can remember."

Requests are turned down by the thousands for the reason that once a low number is assigned, it belongs to the assignee until it is relinquished—or a Government official decides he'd like to have it.

Car owners spend hours, even days, at the Ford Building seeking a low tag.

"I'm a friend of a friend of ——" is the usual salutation which nets the usual answer: "All the low numbers are gone . . . sorry."

Besides the first 10,000 numerals, which usually go to members of Congress, justices, District and Federal Government officials, Government clerks and friends of the right people, odd numbers and sequences of numbers with popular significance are in demand yearly.

Certain "untouchables" are 1, 2 and 3, which annually go to the District's first three—the Commissioners. The President receives from 100 to 110 yearly, not at his request, but because that block always has gone to the White House.

Van Duzer has No. 13, not because he considers it lucky, but "that's all that was left when I took over here."

George E. Martin, chief justice of the United States Court of Appeals, has a pair of lucky numbers—77; Charles N. Schoeneman, of 2018 Klingle Road Northwest, has three sevens, and Truman Ward, who is in charge of House Majority Committee's rooms, has the luckiest number—at least he thinks so—711.

"I got it from a Congressman several years ago. I'm not a craps shooter, but I haven't had an accident since I put them on," he declared.

Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), of Kansas, got tag No. 12, the Postoffice Department was issued 123 for an official limousine; 1,234 went to Ralph Norton, secretary to Commissioner Hazen, and 12,345 went to a dealer and probably will be used by any number of drivers this year.

Work to Start On New D. C. Span in Week

Work on a $500,000 viaduct over the Washington Terminal Yards, from Sixth and T Streets Northeast to Brentwood Park, will get under way this week, Highway Director H. C. Whitehurst said yesterday.

At the same time Capt. Whitehurst disclosed that opening of the $500,000 Massachusetts Avenue Bridge over Rock Creek has been postponed until next Tuesday.

Rain, he said, delayed paving of the south side of the four-lane span, which was to have been opened next Saturday.

The traffic director estimated the terminal viaduct would be completed in 9 to 12 months. Built under authority of the amended Union Station Act, the span will be paid for by the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio Railroads.

It will provide Eckington and Rhode Island Avenue sections with a more direct route to downtown and Southeast Washington via Brentwood Road and T Street, both of which will connect with its western terminus.

The eastern terminus of the 700-foot-long viaduct will be in what is now virgin territory of Brentwood Park. A cloverleaf to be constructed there will connect it with Sixth Street and Mount Olivet Road, both of which will be extended to meet the cloverleaf, and with New York Avenue just east of the New York Avenue Viaduct.

The McGraw Co., of Philadelphia, is contractor for the steel span.

D. C. Wins 1940 Traffic Safety Prize

Leads All Cities With Population Exceeding 500,000, Council Announces

Washington led all other cities with a population of 500,000 or more in traffic safety during 1940, the National Safety Council announced last night in Chicago, according to the Associated Press.

The ranking was based on the motor vehicle death rate, together with accident reporting systems, traffic engineering and enforcement, child-safety programs, and public education. Traffic fatalities here fell to 79 last year from 84 in 1939, and 86 in 1938. Last year also an accident prevention unit, comprising police trained for the task, as well as an analytical system of accident reporting, was established in the District.

Grand prize for the 1,281 cities in the contest went to Dallas, Tex., which had 22 traffic deaths in 1940, compared with 32 the year before, and Kansas City, Mo., which had 24 deaths against 32. Per 100,000 population, Dallas' death rate was 7.4; that of Kansas City, 6. The national average was 14.5.

Connecticut led all the States by reducing its death toll from 355 to 335, for a death rate of 7.2, as compared to a national State average of 12.

Other cities which won first place in their population groups were: Chattanooga, Tenn., in the 100,000-250,000 group; Lakewood, Ohio, in the 50,000-100,000 group; Watertown, N. Y., in the 25,000-50,000 group; La Grange, Ill., in the 10,000-25,000 groups. In addition to tying for the National Grange award, Dallas and Kansas City tied for first place in the 250,000-500,000 population group.

Bronze plaques symbolizing their victory will be presented to Governors and mayors of the winning States and cities at an award dinner in Washington April 21.

Costello Post Has Double Party

Members of Vincent B. Costello Post No. 15, American Legion, last night celebrated jointly Father and Son Night and Athletic Night with plaudits for the unit's junior baseball team and talks by Washington sports figures.

Hap Hardell, Georgetown University track coach, and Jeff Jeffries, local umpire, spoke on athletic topics.

In a business session plans were initiated for assignment of legionnaires to serve in clerical capacities in local selective service machinery and for serving in an honor guard in the Army Day parade Saturday.

Bulldogger's Ribs Broken by Steer

Spectators got the second unscheduled thrill of the Wild West Rodeo's current engagement at Uline's Ice Arena last night when a "bulldogger" landed on a steer's horns instead of its neck as he plunged from his saddle to throw the animal.

Odus Cowart, 28, of Center Hill, Fla., apparently misjudged his leap and was taken to Casualty Hospital with broken ribs.

At the same hospital, Red Hammerschmidt, 32, of McLaughlin, S. Dak., injured Sunday night in a spill from a bronco, was recovering. Surgeons had sewn on his ear, which a horse kicked off for the third time as he landed on the sawdust.

U. S. Becoming Music Center, Pianist Says

ANIA DORFMANN

America may become the center of the world's music because of the European war, Miss Ania Dorfmann, the pianist, said last night.

She will appear as guest artist with the National Symphony Orchestra tonight at Constitution Hall.

Miss Dorfmann, a native of Russia, described the movement to this country of many of Europe's leading musicians in the terms of her own experience.

"I used to have my home in Paris and come to this country for concert tours," she said. "Now I prefer to have my home in New York and I should like to make concert tours to Europe if I could.

"In Europe so many artists were living on their past glory. Here they are being born again."

The growth of popular interest in classical music in this country Miss Dorfmann has found "extraordinary" in the past five years. She toured the United States for the first time in 1936.

"Radio has done a great deal toward arousing interest in music here," she said. "The number of children interested in music is amazing. There are far more studying the piano in the United States than in Europe. Wherever you go, you hear them saying, 'I take the piano.' It sounds very strange to hear them use those words."

She complimented American audiences on their appreciation of good music.

Health Food Men Give Up on Charge Of Rifling U.S. Files

Walter August Caesar Camp, 35, president, and Werner Julius Orbach, 32, vice president of the Vita Health Food Co., Inc., surrendered to the District Court yesterday on charges of theft of Civil Service Commission files.

Both were freed on $1,000 bonds. The men were among five persons indicted Tuesday for alleged removal of 21,000 personnel files from the commission's records.

Katherine Kay, War Department stenographer, was indicted on similar charges. Her attorney, Sol M. Alpher, said she would surrender to the District Court today.

Orbach said yesterday that he wished to make clear that he became an American citizen in 1932.

3 Bandits Linked in 9 D. C. Holdups

Partners in Crime Pact at Lorton Said Identified By 6 of Victims

Police yesterday revealed the capture of three bandits, who made a crime-pact at Lorton Penitentiary and emerged to commit at least nine holdups here within the last month. The loot was more than $1,000.

At a line-up yesterday in the Fifth Precinct Station the gang members were positively linked to three robberies and identified by victims in six other holdups.

The 27-year-old gang leader, who had three pistols, was captured early Sunday morning by Sergt. Charles Langley and Pvt. Warrior Edwards, of Fifth Precinct. The other two, both 21, were trapped Monday morning.

Langley and Edwards nabbed one of the 21-year-olds, and Private Johan G. Middlethom, of Fifth Precinct, nabbed the other single-handedly, suffering an injured eye in the scuffle that ensued.

Evidently the gangster was caught completely by surprise, since Middelthom reported that the gunman said later he would have shot to kill if he had time to get his gun out. Two of the robbers had been convicted previously for a series of auto thefts. The third was sent to Lorton for store holdups.

The three robberies with which the trio were definitely connected, police said, were the Hayden Liquor Store, at 620 B Street Southeast, $60, March 28; Croce's Liquor Store, at 1500 Massachusetts Avenue Southeast, $132, March 24, and Dr. Jesse A. Simpson's drug store, at 6101 Dix Street Northeast, $277, March 16.

Among the other half dozen crimes to which they were linked was the $600 robbery and beating of William Jeweler, of 1712 Upshur Street Northwest, a liquor store dealer, who was attacked on his house porch.

Police last night also had in custody two colored men suspected of robbing 40 fashionable Northwest homes of loot totaling between $5,000 and $6,000.

Detectives said the men, 35 and 37, who were arrested early Saturday, had confessed to five housebreakings.

Among the homes broken into and burglarized was that of Ugo Carusi, Assistant Attorney General, 3720 Fordham Road, where the bandits took clothing and valuables worth $500.

Cardinals Pound Sundra and Beat Nats, 8 to 1

Ex-Yankee, However, Looks Good

Errors and a Bunch Of Cheap Safeties Lead to Downfall; Harris Is Pleased

By Shirley Povich
Post Staff Writer

Orlando, Fla., April 1.—The unveiling of Steve Sundra in a Washington uniform was not a happy occasion for the Nats this afternoon. With the St. Louis Cardinals making a dozen hits, varied and sundry, the Nats took an 8-to-1 beating at Tinker Field.

The big right-hander, newly acquired from the Yankees, surrendered 11 of the Cardinals' hits and seven of their eight runs in the six innings he pitched, but, paradoxically, it was not a depressing performance. Sundra earned nods of approval from the Nats' bosses despite his defeat.

Sundra was the victim of a succession of cheap hits by the Cardinals, and one grievous error by Buddy Lewis led to four of the St. Louis runs. He was tagged for a pair of homers by Enos Slaughter and Morton Copper, but with better support and a fair break in the luck he would have held the Cardinals scoreless.

Harris Not Downcast

He didn't walk a batter, and he showed Manager Bucky Harris both a fast ball and a clever curve. After the ball game, Harris was not downcast. "From what Sundra showed me today, he ought to be a big help to us," said the Nats' manager.

The Cardinals packed three home runs into the ball game before it was over. The third was a terrific clout into centerfield by Terry Moore in the seventh inning when young Joe Beck took up the Washington pitching. Moore was the first batter to face Beck. But the rookie steadied after that blow and pitched himself into the esteem of Harris by not permitting another Cardinal hit.

Two of the Cardinals' better pitchers, Mort Cooper and Clyde Shoun, held the Nats to seven hits. Washington's only run sprang from Sundra's bat, incidentally. The big pitcher blasted a long three-bagger to right centerfield to lead off the third inning and might have stretched it to a home run with more ambitious running. He scored on George Case's fly to right.

Cramer, Lewis Double

Buddy Lewis and Roger Cramer each accounted for a pair of the Nats' seven hits with identical blows. Cramer pounded out a long two-bagger and a single, as did Lewis. But all of their blows were wasted.

In each of the first three innings the first man to face Sundra singled but double plays cut the Cardinals down in the first two innings. In the third, Marion opened with a single, and with two out Brown dropped a pop-fly single into short left. Moore's single to left scored Marion.

Four unearned St. Louis runs poured across the plate in the fifth. After Marion beat out a slow roller to Lewis, Crespi's double-play grounder was fumbled by Lewis. Cooper sacrificed, and a run scored on Brown's infield out. Another scored when Moore dropped a dunker into rightfield for a single, and then Slaughter lifted the ball over the rightfield fence for his homer.

Two were out also in the sixth when the Cardinals collected two more runs off Sundra. Crespi was safe on a feeble grounder to Lewis, and Cooper surprised everybody, including himself, by hitting the next pitch into the centerfield bushes for a home run.

That attack lifted the Cardinals' lead to 7-1 and they made it 8-1 in a great hurry against young Beck in the seventh. Moore greeted the rookie with a homer. However, it was the last Cardinal hit. The Nats, meanwhile, were being held to four hits in the last six innings and only one man got as far as third base.

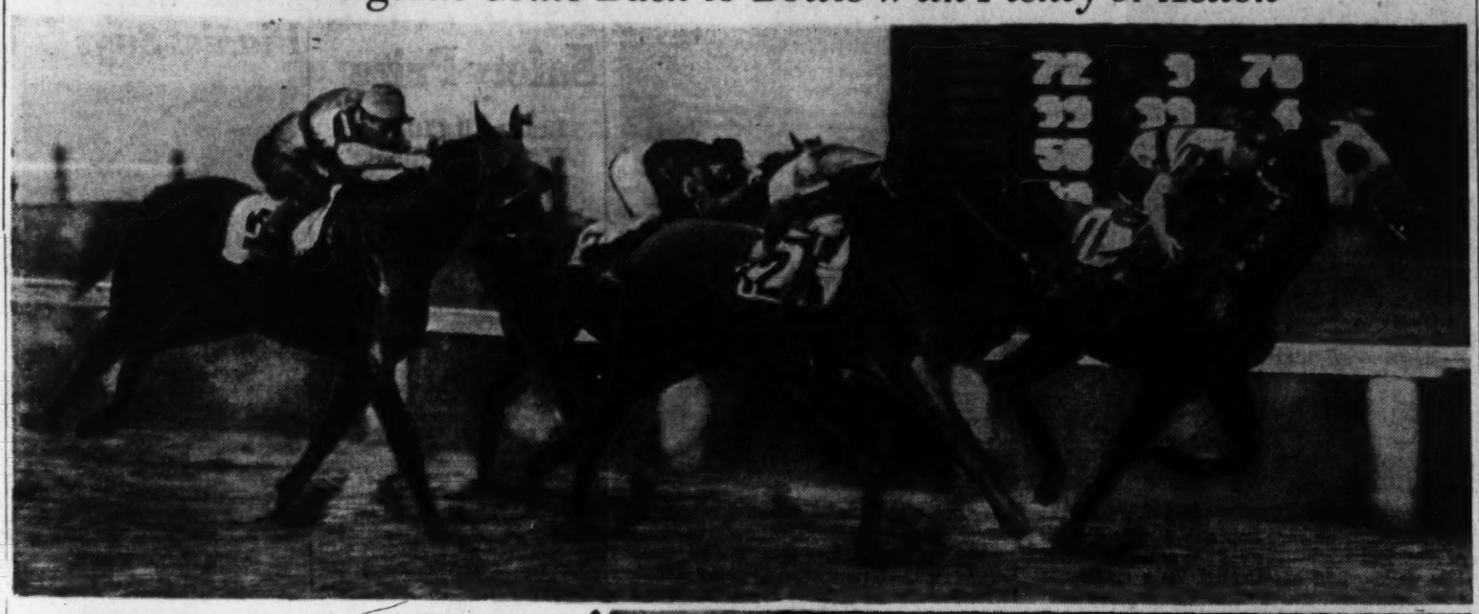
Pennsylvania Seeks Sunday Bowling O. K.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 1 (AP).—Representative Joseph P. O'Brien, Philadelphia Democrat, said today a new effort would be made in the Pennsylvania Legislature for approval of a bill to legalize Sunday bowling.

The measure fell seven votes short of the required 105 for passage in the House last night.

The Bangtails Come Back to Bowie With Plenty of Action



8,000 See Opening Of Bowie Race Track

Threatened Jockey Strike Averted; Betting Heavy Despite Downpour; Handy Man Wins

By Walter Haight
A Staff Correspondent

Bowie, Md., April 1.—The 1941 version of the sport of kings, a la Maryland, was ushered in here this rainy afternoon before a crowd of 8,000. Although confined to the stands for the most part, the fans witnessed thrilling horse racing and a show that produced short and long-shot winners and, as a rule, thrilling finishes.

The threat of a strike by jockeys and exercise boys, and a rain which began with a mist just before the first race and reached downpour proportions as the program progressed, failed to put the damper on the wagering, which kept ahead of that of last year.

Enlivening the opening of the Eastern racing season here, the reported strike was averted and the jockeys and exercise boys agreed to allow riders to accept their mounts.

Winners were divided among horses just in from winter racing and those which were conditioned hereabouts after wintering in this section.

The first feature race, the Bel Air Purse, went to an invader from Santa Anita. Handy Man, owned by the estate of A. B. Letellier and capably ridden by Jockey Don Meade, broke on top and stayed there all the way to win by a half-length over Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' Air Brigade. Two and a half lengths farther back came J. Green's Clarksville to be third in the field of nine going 5½ furlongs.

The winner, a son of Sazerac, was the favorite in the group of 3-year-olds and paid a $5.50 mutuel while running the short sprint route in 1:07 1-5 over a sloppy track.

$387 Daily Double

A chosen few cashed a $387.20 mutuel on the first daily double of the spring season. The price was built up by the victory of J. E. Simmons' Remolee in the second race. This son of Mowlee surprised the crowd by coming off the pace to win by a neck margin in a sprint of 5½ furlongs. Remolee hung defeat on the well-liked Blahblah, with Scullery Maid third in a blanket-photo finish. Manny B., another son of Mowlee, set the pace to within throwing distance of the finish and then tired suddenly. Remolee, which has campaigned for the most part on the smaller tracks, paid a $66.10 mutuel in his own right.

After the excitement over the reported strike of jockeys and exercise boys abated, track officials and the Jockeys Guild denied that there was a threatened strike.

A strike was reported when it was made known the guild had demanded that the association provide insurance for the riders during the 11-day meeting.

General Manager Joseph Farrell followed this up with announcement that the track will carry personal insurance on all the riders until the necessary papers arrive here from Lloyds of London. William Gillespie, guild secretary, said this was entirely satisfactory with the jockeys.

Jack Sanford Is Ticketed For Release

Special Dispatch to The Post

Orlando, Fla., April 1.—Jack Sanford has lost out, at least temporarily, in the battle for the first base job on the Washington club, it was indicated today.

SANFORD

President Clark Griffith announced that one of the three first basemen on the club would be released on 24-hour option before the season starts. Jimmy Vernon and George Archie will accompany the team to Washington, where they will renew their rivalry for the first base post.

Sanford, who came up to the Nats from Charlotte, will not be returned to that club apparently. He is balking at going back to class B baseball and is insisting that he be sent to a Double A league if released. The presence of both Vernon and Archie with the club is taken to mean that Manager Harris will alternate the two first basemen against right and left handed pitching.

Mrs. Robinson's County Cork Runs At Bowie Track

County Cork, owned by Mrs. William Robinson, has been taken to Bowie, Md., for the 11-day meet which opened yesterday.

The horse is handled by Harry Toki Takera, the only Japanese jockey-trainer-owner in the United States. Because of a mix-up in the captions on an Associated Press photograph of County Cork carried recently in The Washington Post, Takera mistakenly was called the owner of the horse instead of Mrs. Robinson.

State's Witness Testifies He Gave Jockeys Thousands

Irving Sangbusch Accuses 'Barney Mooney,' Four Others of 'Fixing' California Races

By the Associated Press

Los Angeles, April 1.—Irving Sangbusch, one of six men originally charged with bribing jockeys to lose horse races on California tracks, testified today he paid four riders thousands of dollars during the 1939 Hollywood Park season to pull their mounts.

Sangbusch, who turned State's evidence after charges against him were dismissed, asserted the jockeys were paid $200 for each race in which they caused their horses to lose, at the direction of other defendants, for whom he testified he acted as agent.

He said he received funds for the payments from Bernard Einstoss, known in sporting circles as Barney Mooney, on 25 different days during the 1939 Hollywood Park season, and from Einstoss' brother, William, and I. W. Kivel on five other days.

On one occasion, Sangbusch testified, "when the jockeys were clamoring for $2,000 or $3,000 that was owed to them," he was unable to reach Bernard Einstoss and finally obtained the sum from Benjamin Chapman, another defendant.

Sangbusch said he himself received $200 for each "fixed" race, although the defendants had attempted to hold his pay at $100 a race.

The witness testified that last January, after the six were indicted, Bernard Einstoss offered him $2,000 to write letters repudiating his grand jury testimony.

Bruins Even Hockey Series, Beat Leafs, 2-1

By International News Service

Toronto, Ont., April 1.—The Boston Bruins defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs, 2-1, here tonight to draw level at three games to three in the series "A" playoffs of the National Hockey League. The final game will be played in Boston Thursday night.

Needing but one victory to eliminate Boston, Toronto scored first in the third period after 50 minutes of furious hockey, but the Bruins, 10 minutes away from hockey oblivon, staged a furious comeback and scored the tying and winning goals less than a minute and a half apart.

The Bruins had slightly the better of the scoreless first period. The persistent forechecking of the Boston forwards prevented the Leaf lines from getting organized.

The second period was another close-checking session, with neither side able to capitalize on the rare scoring chances. Half way through the final period with both teams shorthanded by reason of major penalties handed out to Hamilton and Schmidt, Gordon Drillon took a pass from Nick Metz, skated down the left boards, circled the net and beat Brimsek from close in.

Boston promptly abandoned all caution and in less than two minutes had not only tied the score, but taken the lead on savage rushes. With minutes left to play, the Leafs opened the game wide, but when the final whistle blew the Leafs had been skated off their feet and Boston's great battlers were still on the offensive.

A crowd of 15,000 witnessed the game.

Buddy Knox Meets Jim Bivins Tonight

Cleveland, April 1 (AP).—Buddy Knox, Dayton heavyweight who battles Jimmy Bivins, of Cleveland, in a ten-round bout here tomorrow, said tonight he would hang up his gloves if decisively beaten.

Hundley Beats Phil Masefield At Banneker

Marked by a stunning upset in the men's singles, the Interdepartmental Recreation Council table tennis tournament for colored Government employes got under way last night at Benneker gym.

In the first round veteran Phil Masefield, one of the favorites from the RFC, ran into a smooth-stroking James Hundley, of Civil Service, and was nosed out 21-15, 22-20. Six other men's matches were on the first night's program.

The only woman's competition saw Mary Gant, feminine favorite, extended to three sets to turn back Marveline Hoffman, 21-18, 22-24, 21-10. Men's and women's singles will be resumed tonight at 7:30, along with the first doubles and mixed doubles of the meet.

COMPLETE RESULTS

MEN'S SINGLES — Hundley defeated Masefield, 21—15, 23—20; Weatherspoon defeated Hickerson, 21—8, 21—10; Huggs defeated Brady, 21—10, 21—8; Hayes defeated W. Weatherspoon, 21—8, 21—9; Howard defeated Cobb, 21—16, 22—20; Powell defeated Thomas, 21—11, 21—17; Grant defeated Bond, 21—9, 24—22.

WOMEN'S SINGLES—Mary Gant defeated M. Hoffman, 21—18, 22—24, 21—10.

All Hillcrest A. C. players are asked to report to practice Thursday and Sunday at 12 p. m. New candidates welcome.

Happy Eagles Head Home

Players representing the Eastern Hockey League champion Eagles were in a jubilant mood last night as a majority of them scattered for their Canadian homes after a fine 1940-41 season.

Every player on the squad was remembered with a bonus and two players who had suffered salary cuts around midseason, Mike Germann and Frank Mailley, had their full pay restored and received bonuses in the bargain.

Among the first to depart yesterday were alternate goalies Gordon Hemming and Les Colvin. Eight more players entrained for Canada from Union Station last night at 8:30 o'clock.

Hal Dewey, the veteran wingman from Smith Falls, Ontario, departed immediately after the game in Boston last Sunday, and Walt Scherer left here en route for home this past Monday night. Len Burrage, brainy defenseman, is expected to remain here in the employ of the S. G. Leoffler Enterprises throughout the summer, while Coach Redvers Mackenzie will hold over a few days prior to motoring to Montreal where he will resume his duties at the exclusive Elm Ridge Country Club.

Clemson College Head Guest at Banquet Here

Dr. R. F. Poole, president of Clemson College, S. C., will be the guest of honor tomorrow night at the Clemson College Alumni Association's banquet at Naylor's, it was announced last night. His address will be supplemented by motion pictures to be shown by Coach Howard, gridiron mentor of the South Carolina institution. Activities will get under way at 6:30 p. m.

Streptococcus Germ Strikes White Sox; Stratton Also Sick

By the Associated Press

Pasadena, Calif., April 1.—John Rigney, Chicago White Sox pitcher, was confined to his hotel today by a streptococcus infection. His physician, Dr. S. Lindheimer, described him as seriously ill.

Manager Jimmy Dykes, of the Sox, suggested Rigney be moved to a hospital, but the physician demurred, fearful that exposure to the rainy weather might complicate his illness.

Coach Monty Stratton likewise was kept in bed by bronchial trouble. Neither is expected to accompany the team East tomorrow night on the start of a Southern exhibition wing.

Ken Chase—the Pitcher

Orlando, Fla., April 1.—The ability to pick up a baseball and throw it hard enough through a certain imaginary slot 60 feet and 6 inches distant, will stamp a man as a big league pitcher, but it does not necessary qualify him as an athlete. In fact, it can be contended that some good pitchers are not athletes at all, merely pitchers.

POVICH

They are not athletes in the sense that they are athletic. Aside from that highly specialized talent of throwing a baseball hard with good control, they can be as unathletic as Aunt Kate. And some of them look it when they take a bat in their hands or try to run the bases. Their skill begins and ends with their peculiar faculty for throwing a ball with either speed or finesse, or both.

With a tennis racket, golf club or boxing gloves in their hands they would be utterly lost. Lacking as they do most of the reflexes of men who are supposed to be athletes, they would be awkward. Yet they are able to pitch. Exhibit A in any argument for the affirmative would by Washington's Ken Chase, who never handled a baseball until he was 17, yet has won some fame as a good big league pitcher.

Chase is still a bust at fielding a ball. With a bat in his hands he is neither decorative nor utilitarian. His stroke can best be described as awful. Yet Clark Griffith is pleased to pay him a big league salary for his one talent—pitching ability. It is a commentary, perhaps, on the rarity and high importance of good pitching. If Chase did not make a hit all season, he would draw no censure. He is merely supposed to pitch.

You Can't Tell a Book, Etc. . . .

Pitching ability is found in the strangest forms. Unless you knew him, you'd never suspect that that hollow-cheeked, spindly legged fellow who looked like a refugee from a health farm was Carl Hubbell, of the Giants, one of the greatest pitchers who ever lived. He is the antithesis of such as Bob Feller and Red Ruffing, broad backed, long-armed robust men who would be the sculptor's idea of pitching ability, yet he has been as brilliant as either.

Dutch Leonard may be an imposing fellow out there on the pitching mound, but we remember the first season he reported to the Nats' training camp in Florida. Even at the time he was semibald and portly and in civilian clothes looked like the perfect conception of an adjutant of an American Legion Post. We passed him a dozen times in the hotel lobby while keeping an eye peeled for a new arrival who might be Dutch Leonard, the pitcher.

If you had never seen Leonard pitch and were told that he was a pitcher, you'd imagine immediately that he was a fast-baller. He breathes power. But you never can tell about pitching. Leonard a few years ago was unable to stick in the big leagues because despite his size he didn't have a fast ball, he came back as a star only because he was able to develop his fluttering knuckler, an incongruously slow thing that is propelled to the plate by his great bulk.

The General Was Not an Athlete

Alvin Crowder was anything but an athlete, yet, he was a great pitcher. He walked to the mound with a slow, lazy shuffle that appeared to be a great effort. Poker was his chief exercise. Aside from baseball, he never played anything more strenuous than eight ball in the side pocket. But he could stand out there on the mound and powder that ball across the plate and he helped pitch two American League teams to pennants in 1933 and 1934.

As far as appearances go, anybody not knowing Ossie Bluege for the swell ball player he proved to be for 18 years, would never have suspected him to be the cat-like fielder of the old Nats. In civilian clothes of the conservative business man's taste, he fits the perfect description of a Government accountant with his deep set eyes lending to the illusion. But on the ball field, the transformation was almost magic. Bluege always looked as if he were poured into a base ball uniform, he wore it so well. Nobody in a baseball uniform ever looked more like a big leaguer than Ossie.

When the fans see Cecil Travis bang out a nice hit, or come up with a fancy stop and follow through with a rifle throw, they could be forgiven for thinking that Travis is a fine athlete. He isn't. Off the ball field, he's a punk. We mean at any other sport. He can't hit a golf ball, for instance, and simply doesn't like any other sport because he feels awkward at it, which he is.

Strange indeed is the demand of baseball for a peculiar skill. The men who play it may not be athletes in a versatile sense, but versatility is not any guarantee that an athlete can qualify as a big league ball player. Jim Thorpe won the Olympic dashes, hurdles and field events at Stockholm and was recognized as the greatest living athlete of his time, but in the big league he was a bum who couldn't stick with the New York Giants. He could do everything that, for example, Cecil Travis can't do except hit a curve ball.

Postscripts . . .

Orlando, Fla., April 1.—When young Joe Beck took up the pitching for the Nats in the seventh inning today, the Cardinals significantly started wearing the new protective helmets when they went to bat. . . . They had never seen Beck and were taking no chances on the possibility that he had control of his fast ball. . . . Every man on the St. Louis team does not own a helmet. . . . On the bench are four of the reinforced skull caps of varied sizes for the batters' use. . . . Gabby Street, Walter Johnson's old battery mate, is traveling with the Cardinals as a radio commentator. . . . The result of Buddy Lewis' examination by physicians of the local draft board was supposed to be kept confidential, according to the law, but the fact that he did pass the examination was broadcast from everything but the housetops. . . . Bucky Harris and Clark Griffith are much more disturbed about Lewis' draft status than the player, himself. . . . Lewis sort of likes the idea of a year in the Army. . . . The Cardinals did not know it, but Left Fielder Ben Chapman was playing today with orders to attempt no long throws under any circumstances . . . Buddy Myer and Roger Cramer contributed the defensive features of today's game. . . . Myer dived far to his right to snag a line drive off Padgett's bat and start a second-inning double-play, and in the third, Cramer raced far across the outfield to drag down Cooper's long liner. . . . Not any of the three Cardinal home runs, but Steve Sundra's three-bagger was the longest blow of the ball game. . . . Sundra is a switch hitter who batted left-handed against Cooper, and was prepared to bat right-handed against Shoun when he was taken from the game. . . . The battle for the first base job was not exactly exciting today. . . . In two turns at bat, Jimmy Vernon grounded out and struck out while George Archie, in two turns at bat, popped up and struck out. . . . Al Evans went hitless for the second consecutive game and is cooling off after a red-hot batting streak. . . . Tomorrow the Nats will meet Kansas City at Tinker Field. . . . With the K. C. team will be Harry Bassin, former Georgetown baseball and basketball star, who in due time is expected to be the first baseman of the Yankees.—POVICH.

Four Cincinnati Pitchers Shelled as Red Sox Win, 10 to 4

Schumacher, Lohrman Beat Tribe

Giants Score by 3-1; Arnovich Hits Homer; Mel Harder Checks Terrymen

By the Associated Press

Dothan, Ala., April 1.—The Boston Red Sox apparently neglected to read the papers about the pitching of the Cincinnati Reds for they walloped a quartet of Redleg hurlers for 14 hits and drew nine walks today to win 10-4.

Monte Pearson, clouted for four hits and two runs in the first inning, gave way to Junior Thompson, who yielded a run in the second, retired eight men in a row, then lost control in the fifth when Boston got two more runs.

Witt Guise took over in the seventh with the score at 5-4 and was swept out on a storm of four hits including Sammy Hale's mighty two-run homer. Bob Logan finished.

Giants Beat Indians

Decatur, Ala., April 1 (AP).—Hal Schumacher and Bill Lohrman held the Cleveland Indians to three hits today and allowed only four runners to reach first base as they pitched the New York Giants to a 3-to-1 victory. Schumacher, idle since March 12 because of his father's death, pitched the first six innings and was touched for all three hits and the lone Cleveland run in the fifth.

The Giants, held scoreless by Mel Harder for seven frames, went ahead when Morrie Arnovich hit a homer off Nate Andrews' delivery in the eighth. Four singles off Joe Heving produced a ninth-inning counter.

Tigers Trip Colonels

Lakeland, Fla., April 1 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers defeated the Louisville Colonels of the American Association today, 7 to 6, in ten innings, and the result left some of the boys wondering about the value of spring training.

Star of the Tiger attack was Rookie Catcher Dixie Parsons, who has been in camp less than a week. He hit a home run and a double, batted in two runs and scored two, crossing the plate in the tenth to give Rookie Hal White a decision over Wilfred Lefebvre, Colonels' southpaw. Parsons was pressed for honors by First Baseman Rudy York, whose three hits included a 400-foot homer.

Dodger Varsity Wins

Shreveport, La., April 1 (AP).—Still stung by the "powder puff" tag hung on them by President Larry MacPhail, the Brooklyn Dodgers Varsity trounced Shreveport's Texas League club, 9 to 3, today. Joe Medwick led the 11-hit attack with a home run and two doubles to run his hitting streak to 16 consecutive games and Dolph Camilli also hit for the circuit. The Dodgers scored five runs after two were out in the ninth inning.

Rookie Ed Head, a Louisiana boy, pitched six-hit ball for the first seven innings and allowed only one run until Tommy Jordan hit a homer with one on base in the seventh.

Bees Trample Foes

Austin, Tex., April 1 (AP).—The Boston Bees trampled the University of Texas Longhorns, 8 to 1, today, mainly with a five-run outburst in the ninth inning, but they had plenty of trouble earlier from a young right-hander, Mel Deutsch.

Winner of 22 consecutive Texas Conference games, Deutsch, who may come up with the Red Sox some day, held the Bees to five hits in six innings. He yielded three runs, all unearned. His brother, Wilson Deutsch, caught him.

The Bees clinched their game off Udell Moore, son of the Yankees' former star relief pitcher, Wilcy Moore. Nick Strincevich, Al Javery and Frank Lamanna limited the collegians to three hits, Lamanna giving up the lone run in the ninth.

Smokies Win, 5 to 3

Tallahassee, Fla., April 1 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers' second squad, fresh from winning a series from the Detroit Tigers, took a 5-3 drubbing from the Knoxville Smokies of the Southern Association. Gabby Stewart, Knoxville third baseman, hit a home run with one on base to sew up the game in the third inning.

Yanks Blast Rebels

Fort Worth, Texas, April 1 (AP).—The New York Yankees went on another slugging spree behind Lefty Marius Russo's impressive pitching today to defeat the Dallas Rebels of the Texas League, 5 to 2. Russo was the first Yankee hurler to go seven innings this spring and he gave only four hits and two walks.

A homer by Gerry Priddy with one aboard in the second inning started the Yanks' scoring. They collected 12 hits, 3 each by Frank Crosetti and Joe Gordon. Crosetti played short because Phil Rizzuto was nursing a charleyhorse.

With CONSIDINE

Mike Jacobs & Co. Hits the Road

New York, April 1.—Uncle Sam may be having trouble with his National Defense program, but Uncle Mike isn't. Uncle Mike, as the boys know Michael Strauss Jacobs around Jacobs Beach, is putting out more road companies than Tobacco Road. He has most of his champions and many of his near champions defending their good and seamy reputations at home and abroad, and every place he puts on a show the indignant yells against his knuckle monopoly tend to subside. Today Mike was showing us a fan letter from the District of Columbia Boxing Commission, which once yelled for his scalp long after it discovered that there was no fur on it.

CONSIDINE

The only cloud on Mike's horizon is the terrible oversight turned in by Max Baer the other day when Max was doing roadwork in preparation for the Nova fight Friday night. A police dog sprang out and snarled at him as if he had paid $16.50 to see Max fight Joe Louis. But Baer neglected to bite him—thus depriving the Twentieth Century Sporting Club of its most legitimate news release.

Jacobs will present Joe Louis against Tony Musto, or Misto, or Masto in St. Louis on April 8. The same night, Mike is promoting the Tony Galento-Buddy Baer match at the big new arena in Washington, where he also will show Ernie Vigh and Ray Robinson, the new Kid Chocolate.

On the eighteenth of the month Mike puts Welterweight Champ Fritzie Zivic to work on Mike Kaplan at the Boston Garden, and later in the month will stage the Billy Soose-Ceferino Garcia match at Los Angeles. At Detroit on April 4 he'll put on the Al Netlow-Kid McCoy fight, for what Mike has decided is the Michigan State welterweight championship, and he will use Gus Lesnevich in Cleveland late this month.

By his own admission, Mike made the grade (1) because if there were any smart fellows in the fight game, he wouldn't be in it, and (2) because he is the only fellow around today who will gamble on keeping a fighter and his manager in coffee and cakes, and sometimes champagne, until the boxer can make a buck. Apparently Mike's coffee and cake bill has been tremendous of late, for he is putting more men back to work than Knudsen.

Sees Washington as Fight Gold Mine

Jacobs is currently very high on two things, the city of Washington as a fight outlet, and the title chances of Billy Conn. Mike even got up from his desk to demonstrate to us how Abe Simon bothered Louis with a left jab, a bizarre exercise which caused his rheumatic joints to give off a rhythmic castanet tempo, and he says that if Simon can do that to Louis, what will Conn, who is 40 times as fast, be able to do.

Mike believes that at least 10,000 persons were turned away from the Conn-Hassett exhibition in Washington last month, for want of space. He plans to show Louis at the Capitol against the winner of the Buddy Baer-Galento fight, if, he seems careful to say, Louis manages to beat Conn. This first heavyweight title match in Washington will be a tune-up match for Louis before the scheduled Louis-Nova fight next September—a match, which, of course, depends on the outcome of the Max Baer-Nova match.

The old ticket man turned boxing titan is dreaming up a series of cut-rate Nation-wide fights at Army training camps, too, and has gone as far along in this dream as finding the man who can tack up arenas to seat as many as 80,000 soldiers and fans. These matches would utilize not only Mike's champs and trained seals, but also soldier talent. However, before he goes farther he plans to consult with Lieut. Comdr. James Joseph Tunney, a Marine who did pretty good with those leather mittens.

The advance sales for the Nova-Max Baer, Louis-Mesto (or Mistu) and Galento-Buddy Baer matches have exceeded all of Mike's hopes. He expects the sad but always acceptable fate of having to refuse to take the money of a lot of people who can't find seats or foot room. Mike made a lot of money during World War I in the concession business, around Army camps. He feels another big boom coming and thinks that sports of all kinds are in for a tremendous year.

At Least, Lou Has His Yogi Beliefs

The advance for the Nova-Max Baer fight Friday night at the Garden presages a sellout. It's a good betting fight, apparently, for Nova ruled a 6-5 favorite only today. He stopped Baer in 11 rounds the last time, but after that Lou took one of the most merciless beatings ever seen, from Galento, had a long siege of blood poisoning, and then beat unknown Johnny Erjazek and Pat Comiskey, who at least has been nominated for oblivion. Baer finished Galento and Comiskey in good fashion, and seems confident that Nova will be the sixth man he has beaten in return matches, after losing the first match to them. Max did his best return jobs on the late Ernie Schaff and Tommy Farr. Nova finds mental comfort of a slightly different kind. Hank Postaway, former University of Michigan athlete, gave Lou a black eye in training the other day. Lou feels better when he carries a black eye into the ring with him. Only time he didn't carry one in was the night Galento slaughtered him. Lou also has his Yogi beliefs, in whose wierd practices this scholarly pug finds much consolation on the eve of the fight which stands between him and a shot at the title.

Cub Rookies Sent To Minor Leagues

Los Angeles, April 1 (AP).—Manager Jimmy Wilson sliced four rookies off the Chicago Cubs roster today after the scheduled game with the White Sox was rained out at Hollywood.

Wilson sent Shortstop Harvey Storey back to Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League with instructions to convert himself into an outfielder and optioned Shortstop Lenny Merullo to the same club. Merullo played with Tulsa of the Texas League last season.

Pitchers Herb Chmiel of Chicago and Bob Henrickson of Hollywood were optioned to the Macon club of the South Atlantic League. Both have just finished high school and are without professional experience.

Bill Ackerman On Fishing

The first large offshore catches of the season have been made. Six draggers come in to Atlantic City last week with 143,000 pounds, and as is usual there were the same old stories about not understanding the early run and mystification as as to the reason for their early appearance in Northern waters.

ACKERMAN

What should mystify these fishermen more is the price they receive for their catch. In this case the average was slightly over 5 cents a pound in a clean market. That is just another reason for Federal control over migratory fishes, as we already have on birds, so that the fishermen may receive an adequate price and the stocks be not depleted.

Odd, but anglers are calling for news of salt water fishing, probably because trout season opened yesterday and they have caught the fever from stream fisherman.

There isn't any promise of saltwater angling for several weeks at the least. The run of white perch is about due in the Potomac, but even though their natural habitat is salt water here, they come under a fresh water heading.

Trout season in Frederick County has always opened to large numbers of anglers. Several years back the influx from Pennsylvanians, with a season opening 15 days later, was responsible for much of the crowd, but now the normal increase in stream anglers has considerably swelled opening-day crowds.

Yesterday was no exception, and the popularity of trout fishing is shown by the appearance of Paramount News on Otter Valley Run to film opening day. A few years ago such a small thing as trout fishing would have been passed by with a laugh. But it's important now—the greatest participation sport in the world today.

Which brings to mind a news note from Tocopilla, Chile, of a Massachusetts angler landing six marlin on March 19, three on the 20 and four on the 21.

This section, developed by W. E. S. Tukor, and publicized through Mike Lerner's expeditions, is fast becoming a mecca for American anglers, and American guides.

The Ventnor City fishing pier, burned last year, will be replaced in the next several months. The exceptional fishing from the old pier will hardly be attained this summer, for it takes marine growth to attract small fishes before the larger ones will come in.

If you don't believe spring is here, figure out that faraway look in the eyes of your fishermen friends. It doesn't take much urging, either, to get them to tell you of what they are thinking—of the big one that got away last year at Lake Soandso, or of that new hole down on the bay.

Phils Win, 9-8

Miami Beach, Fla., April 1 (AP).—After permitting seven of eight Columbus runs to score on six errors, the Phillies came from behind in the ninth inning today to tie the score at 8-8 and then beat the Red Birds in the eleventh inning, 9 to 8.

Two bases on balls, a wild pitch, and singles by Danny Litwhiler and Stan Benjamin accounted for the three runs in the ninth. In the eleventh Litwhiler walked, reached third on Benjamin's third hit of the game, and scored on Nick Etten's infield out.

Anglers Flock To Maryland's Trout Streams

Special Dispatch to The Post

Frederick, Md., April 1.—Anglers by the hundreds flicked lines in Frederick County's three mountain trout streams today as the fishing season opened throughout the State, but luck generally was bad. Game wardens, who patroled the streams, said they observed less than a dozen fishermen with the legal daily limit of ten. The three local creeks—Big Hunting, Fishing and Middle—were well stocked with browns and Rainbows, but the fish displayed little tendency to take bait.

Largest trout reported caught here was a 17-inch Rainbow hooked by Ray Reilly, near Frederick, on Fishing Creek, with a worm. A 14-inch brown trout was reeled by by Walter Hardy, of Baltimore, on Fishing Creek.

Streams were lined with anglers, many of them from Washington, when the season opened this morning at 5:30 o'clock. Rain shortly afternoon chased many of them, however, Albert M. Powell, superintendent of State hatcheries, said creeks will be stocked again prior to the expected Easter weekend rush.

Jockey Strike Averted as Bowie Opens

derson, guild treasurer, conferred with Farrell, later said he had discussed the question with Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, president of the Maryland Jockey Club. Gillespie said Vanderbilt had agreed to provide insurance during the Pimlico meeting April 28 through May 10.

Under the blanket insurance plan, jockeys will receive $25 weekly while injured, for a period not to exceed one year. Hospital and medical costs up to $1,000 will be paid, and in the event of death $5,000 goes to the next of kin. Exercise boys will receive half of those amounts.

Jockey insurance gives Bowie another of Maryland's "firsts," it being the first track in this State to protect the riders. However, the majority of ovals in the country are falling in line with the plan.

The meeting and program opened with a length victory of Mrs. W. H. Denham's Maupeace. The Washington-owned daughter of Peace Chance was making her first start on any race track and turned back 11 rivals. Mrs. K. Smart's Pacification was second, two lengths in advance of T. Jolley's Sis Baker. The winner paid $9.60.

The third race brought a photo finish with William Durkin's Count Maurice getting the camera decision by a neck over W. R. Roberts' Irish Moon. Third money went to Walter Wickes' Miss Fixit. Irish Moon was forced to come from far back in the field and would have been the winner in a few more strides. Count Maurice, capably handled by Jockey Johnny Gilbert, paid $13.90.

Kings Colors ran away with the fourth race, a sprint of 6 furlongs. The son of Royal Minstrel took command at once and drew out to win by six lengths in the silks of A. E. Sattler. Drift Along finished second, two lengths in front of Razacla, owned by W. F. Hitt. The winner was a $15.50 shot.

Trainer Joe Serio, jr., saddled the representatives of E. K. Bryson and H. M. Babylon in the fifth race and saw the entry take first and second money, with Fantastical finishing a neck in front of Becomly. A length farther back came E. D. Jacobs' Yawl to be third in a field of 12 going 6 furlongs. Nannykins set most of the pace and weakened suddenly. The entry horses then went into a battle that lasted to the wire. The pair paid a $4.40 mutuel.

Naiman Photo Five Wins League Title

Naiman Photo five captured the championship in the third division of D. C. Recreation League play at Roosevelt High last night when it took an early lead and swamped Sixth Presbyterian, 45-24.

Sam Di Blasi and Pat Hurley led the scoring for the winners with 14 and 12 points, respectively. The winners led, 21-13, at the half.

Other decisive games in the league found Marion A. C. a 29-21 victor over Corner Cafe, Bliss Electrical School a 39-32 winner over Sons of Pericles, Pepco turn back A. G. O. by a 30-13 count, Hot Shoppes smash PWA, 43-29 and Air Duct a 26-16 victor over National Baptist.

Browns Break Camp And Reduce Roster

San Antonio, Tex., April 1 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns today promoted two of their most promising rookies, First Baseman Chuck Stevens and Shortstop Vernon Stephens, sending them to Toledo of the Class AA American Association. The youngsters played last season with San Antonio of the Class A Texas League.

The Browns, who broke camp here tonight, further reduced their squad by sending Pitcher Johnny Whitehead back to Toledo and returning Outfielder Al White and Pitcher Loy Hanning to San Antonio.

Colonials, G. U. Rained Out

Rains yesterday washed out baseball games scheduled here between Georgetown and Dartmouth at the Hilltop, and George Washington and Harvard on the Ellipse. The G. U.-Dartmouth contest was definitely canceled, but there is a good chance that G. W. and Harvard yet may be brought together.

The Crimson will be in this vicinity until Friday before swinging back East, and it is hoped it will be able to meet the Colonials at 12:30 Friday afternoon. G. W. is scheduled to meet V. M. I. on that date, but V. M. I. has agreed to G. W. playing a double-header. Harvard Coach Floyd Stahl is in favor of the game and all that remains to be done is to obtain the permission of Harvard director of athletics, Bill Bingham. That permission was expected to be granted.

Georgetown, which was to have made its awaited debut against Dartmouth, is slated to open up against Cornell Friday.

Maryland, continuing its busy week of five games, plays host to Dartmouth at 2:30 this afternoon, and Vermont tomorrow at the same time.

Max Hunt, senior right-hander, who went the route as the Terps dropped their opener to Ohio State last week, is due to get today's assignment against Dartmouth.

Mid-Western Fighters Lead Boston A.A.U.

By the Associated Press

Boston, April 1.—As far as manpower was concerned, the Midwestern delegation to the National A. A. U. boxing championships prevailed during tonight's quarter-finals battling at the Boston Garden, but those from other sections, especially the East, threatened to play a much more important part before the 1941 titles are awarded.

Paced by such well balanced teams as those representing St. Louis and Cleveland, the Midwesterners gained 16 of the 32 semifinal brackets decided during the second night's battling. St. Louis qualified five representatives and four Buckeyes were victorious.

The Boston team gained five of the eight Eastern triumphs and each of those homebreds emerged from the quarter-finals fisticuffing as the outstanding survivor in as many divisions. Seven Far Westerners also entered the next to last bracket, along with one Southerner.

Bufford Knocked Out

Until the final heavyweight contests were put on, it was expected that the Eastern forces would emerge nine-strong. Buddy Bufford, huge Buffalo, N. Y., Negro, however, made the mistake of running into a stiff right thrown by Al Jordan, a much smaller Kansas City Negro, and was knocked out, much to the amazement of the small crowd of 3,845 which had considered the New Yorker the only entry capable of coping with Rodie O'Dooley, the curley haired slugger from Steamboat Springs, Colo.

The best of the four 126-pound victors appeared to be Carl Palombo, of Amsterdam, N. Y., who eliminated another capable Eastern entry, Frank Franconeri, of New York, in a slam-bang set-to.

The other three featherweights to survive were Frank Leonard, of Taunton, Mass.; Sam Derrico, of Cleveland, and George Tapiz, of Salinas, Calif., all by the decision route.

Tommy Moyer, of Portland, Oreg., runner-up in last year's 135-pound championship bout, gained another semifinal bracket in that division on a default posted by Foster Campbell, of Denver. The other berths were won by Bill Scalise, of St. Louis; Thomas Jessup, of Greensboro, N. C., and Gus Stanford, of Seminole, Okla.

Keen Competition Is Assured for Chevy Chase Horse Show

Greenhalgh, Llangollen Hunters Vie

Mrs. A. Whitney's Stars Also Entered In Two-Day Event Starting Saturday

The impending arrival of Betty Couzens' two hunters from Detroit, Mich., coupled with the news that Mrs. Altemus Whitney and Mr. and Mrs. George P. Greenhalgh will send their powerful strings to the Chevy Chase Horse Show, assures that the conformation division of the Saturday and Sunday event will be one of the strongest of the early spring season.

Miss Couzens' pair of mounts, the widely known veteran, Repulsion, and a 4-year-old colt, Jag, are due to arrive at Meadowbrook Saddle Club practically any moment in preparation for the full card of hunter and jumper events Sunday afternoon at the East-West Highway show grounds.

Norman Haymaker, manager of Mrs. Whitney's Llangollen Farm string from Upperville, Va., assured committee members last weekend that he would send a vanload of conformation and open horses. Which ones he will send have not yet been decided, but most likely they will include Bon Nuit, First Night, Cherry Bounce and Strong Tea.

In addition to full-sized horses for the senior classes, it is highly probable that Springsbury Farm will import its 11-hand jumping wonder, Victorian II, for the junior classes that make up the Saturday card. "Viccy," if he is shown, will be ridden by young Jack Lee Payne.

Joe Engel Moves To Give Draftees Baseball for 25c

By the Associated Press

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 1.—President Joe Engel of the Chattanooga Lookouts recommended today that soldiers be admitted to Southern Association baseball games for 25 cents.

Engel's proposal would permit troops to occupy grandstand seats where association rules call for a charge of 75 cents. Bleacher seats cost 50 cents under the price scale.

"It's a good thing for baseball to do this," said Engel. Those fellows quit good jobs for military training at $21 a month. They can't be expected to continue as baseball fans at 50 and 75 cent admission prices and they ought not to have to pay the price."

The Lookout' leader placed his proposal before President Trammell Scott of the association and was told nothing could be done until a meeting of the directors.

Explaining that the Texas and Southern Leagues were adopting a similar policy, Engel expressed confidence that the Southern Association directors would apporve his plan.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAUPEACE, $8.60, $6.00, $3.50; PACIFICATION, $8.20, $6.10; SIS BAKER, $12.40.

MAUPEACE, off in the first flight, took a slight lead on the inside and responded to urging to hold PACIFICATION safe in the closing test. PACIFICATION went to contention immediately on the outside, forced the pace and held on gamely while racing greenly. SIS BAKER had good speed while racing between the leaders and weakened in the closing stages. VERY GRACEFUL was held safe while within striking distance early and weakened. ASTROLOGIST flashed early speed and stopped.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 2:40. Off at 2:40½. Winner, J. E. Simmons' br. g. (5), by Mowlee—Rea. Trained by C. A. Cranford. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:08.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—REMOLEE, $66.10, $18.90, $11.10; BLAHBLAH, $3.90, $3.40; SCULLERY MAID, $11.40.

REMOLEE, within striking distance from the start, came to the inside while making a move in the stretch and won while under extreme pressure. BLAHBLAH was rated early while closest to MANNY B.'s pace and responded to pressure in the closing test, but was no match for the winner. SCULLERY MAID came with a bold rush in the stretch run and showed a fine effort. MANNY B. forged to the front in the opening furlong, was kept to a drive and weakened right at the close.

Daily Double, MAUPEACE and REMOLEE, Paid $387.20

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:09. Off at 3:10½. Winner, William Durkin's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—COUNT MAURICE, $13.90, $6.90, $4.80; IRISH MOON, $5.00, $3.30; MISS FIXIT, $5.70.

COUNT MAURICE, a forward factor from the start, rallied when shaken up while straightening into the stretch and wore down MISS FIXIT and held IRISH MOON safe. IRISH MOON was steadied in the first flight and came gamely at the close. MISS FIXIT disposed of WESTING to take command, set a good pace, but weakened right at the end. ISKIE was hard ridden close up and tired. WESTING, off poorly, was rushed to get to the front and quit.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won handily; place driving. Went to post at 3:42. Off at 3:42½. Winner, A. E. Sattler's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—KINGS COLORS, $15.30, $5.70, $4.20; DRIFT ALONG, $4.50, $3.60; RAZACLA (entry), $6.80.

KINGS COLORS held his field safe for speed, opened a lead gradually and won in hand. DRIFT ALONG gained steadily and closed courageously, but was no match for the winner. RAZACLA was closest to the pace to midstretch and weakened. DON PECOS rallied mildly. GALA QUEST was off slowly and closed full of run. NOSY had good early speed and weakened.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:12. Off at 4:12. Winner, E. K. Bryson's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FANTASTICAL (entry), $4.60, $3.80, $3.00; BECOMLY (entry), $3.80, $3.00; YAWL, $3.30.

FANTASTICAL was in the thick of contention from the start, came to the inside for the final drive and was kept to pressure to the end. BECOMLY was closest to the pace of NANNYKINS and closed willingly, but could not resist the winner. YAWL closed full of run. HOME AGAIN came with good energy in the final test. ONE TIP closed ground.

SIXTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:41. Off at 4:42. Winner, Estate of A. B. Letellier's ch. c. (3), by Sasarac—Falco. Trained by J. M. Hubbell. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:07⅕.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HANDY TOM, $5.50, $3.40, $2.70; AIR BRIGADE, $3.90, $2.80; CLARKSVILLE, $2.70.

HANDY TOM, off alertly, was hard ridden to hold a slight lead throughout and was all out at the end. AIR BRIGADE moved to the leader after a quarter, fought it out willingly, but could not match the speed of the winner. CLARKSVILLE was in a contending position from the start and held on gamely. FAIR HERO had good speed and tired gradually.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:10. Off at 5:10½. Winner, R. J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DARK MAY, $7.40, $3.70, $2.80; HILLBLOND, $4.40, $2.90; CRIUS, $2.70.

DARK MAY shook off FIRE MARSHAL and KISSIN KID to open a long lead and was kept to pressure to the end. Lindberg snatched up HILLBLOND leaving the gate, raced her far back and she closed with a rush to appear best. CRIUS worked his way to serious contention in the opening half and hung in the final drive. STRIDENT was a beaten-off fourth. FIRE MARSHAL and KISSIN KID quit.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won handily; place easily. Went to post at 5:37. Off at 5:37. Winner, M. J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK GROUSE, $3.60, $2.60, $2.20; ANTI AIR, $9.10, $4.80; TRAMP SHIP, $3.30.

BLACK GROUSE, much the best, opened a long lead in the closing stages and won with speed in reserve. ANTI AIR was close up from the start and came gamely at the end, but was no match for the winner. TRAMP SHIP, outrun early, closed ground. TEDDY'S GIRL rallied mildly. SURE TOUCH had early speed and quit.

Selections at Bowie

Dear Al:

Vets are working hard to save the life of Rhumba Gus, owned by Gustav Ring, Washington builder and sportsman. "Gus" is the pet of the Ring Stable in addition to being a colt with a lot of racing punch. The horse developed shipping fever en route to Bowie from Florida and apparently was well on the road to recovery when he suffered a relapse. Rhumba Gus' case is similar to that of Prince Valiant, a promising 3-year-old. This youngster suffered a fever, recuperated and then collapsed and died.

General Manager Joseph A. Farrell expects to play host to at least 10,000 fans tomorrow, when the eleventh running of the $5,000 Rowe Memorial is staged. This three-quarter-mile sprint has attracted a well-balanced field including Mrs. A. J. Abel's Honey Cloud, last year's winner, as well as the time record holder of 1.11 4-5 for the stake. The Rowe, run in memory of James Rowe and his son, James Rowe, jr., both top-notch trainers of thoroughbreds in their day; was inaugurated in 1930. It has been won by Battleship, Mynheer, Towee, Soon Over, Good Harvest, Bright Light, Mucho Gusto, Sun Egret, Rough Time and Honey Cloud in the order named. Harry Richards, Al Shelhamer and Hilton Dabson are the only boys on the grounds who have ridden previous winners of the Rowe. Richards, president of the Jockey's Guild, handled Bright Light in 1936. Shelhamer scored with Sun Egret in 1938; while Dabson landed the 1939 running with Rough Time.

R. Sterling Clark moved his string of imported horses from winter quarters at Annapolis to Pimlico. Vincent Mara is handling the stable. Starter James Milton reports that 941 horses have received barrier education the past few weeks. Of that number, 625 were 2-year-olds. Milton has his ground crew school horses on Sunday so that horsemen will be able to get their strings ready. Trainer I. K. Mourar, who brought five horses from Hot Springs, is on the ailing list. Mourar became ill Sunday. Darrell Madden, leading winning apprentice at the recent Hot Springs session arrived from Oaklawn Park. He is under contract to Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, and is being handled by Goldie Mitchell. The latter got in this morning from Florida. President Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, of Pimlico and Belmont Park, motored down from Baltimore for the season's opener. He says that horsemen were exceedingly generous to his stakes especially the $50,000 Preakness slated for May 3. Harry Florentine had the dubious honor of making the season's first scratch. He took Squabble out at 7 a. m. Jake came up with a pretty good one yesterday. He came into the track two hours before the first race and somebody asked him how he was doing. He replied, "Ain't doing no good. I haven't cashed a bet at the meeting." See you on the rail. BILL.

First race—SMART is a fair sort of juvenile and has had some education. Breaks off the rail and will win unless there's a good thing hidden among the first-time starters. The Metcalf-Hitt Entry of ABBOTS CHANT and INCENTOR may provide the second-money horse in this group of maidens. HIGHLANDER for the third position.

Second race—MINTSON, promised the off track he likes, gets the call in this field of sprinters. Must carry 120 pounds but promises to be much the best. ADOLF likes this track and will be in the thick of contention. ROCKY MEADOW to take care of the others.

Third race—ETHEL BLUME was a fair sort in Florida racing and meets only maidens in this field. With proper handling, this one will get home. KIMESHA packs speed and is likely to be in the thick of contention. HAND AND GLOVE is far down the list but will be close if sent postward.

Fourth race—DIZZY DAME loves the track. She will be making her spring debut but is fit enough to take a sprint of this kind. DOUBLE BACK has plenty of foot and probably will take the top. GREENY was improving when shipped North.

Fifth race—OUR FLORENCE was a good one at Hialeah. She likes the route and figures to carry 115 pounds. Looks like the right spot. ROUGH NEWS deserves attention in this company. JERISA for the show end.

Sixth race—OMISSION is tossed in this with a feather assignment. Has been working briskly and could be the right one in the day's feature event. HONEY CLOUD loves the oval but has been away and probably will need a race. CLYDE TOLSON must be considered despite the 122-pound assignment.

Seventh race—SHORT DISTANCE gets in action here with 103 pounds. This one is the class of the field and I'm going to string along. IDA ROGERS also gets a light assignment and will be close. BAIN MARIE for the show money.

Eighth race—CUCKOO may prove the best of this cheap gang. Likes the route and will be ready to do a lot of running. MOBCAP will be in the thick of contention if taken off the reserve list. HARRY'S DREAM to take care of the others

Best bet—SHORT DISTANCE.

IT NEVER FAILS

Freddie Pope And Manager Are Suspended

Columbus, Ohio, April 1 (AP).—The Columbus Boxing Commission today suspended indefinitely Freddie Pope and his manager, Dr. Charles E. Paul.

Dr. Paul called off Saturday a fight scheduled for tonight between Pope and Cleveland Brown, of Dayton.

Alfred Ballin, chairman of the commission, said Pope's illness was given as the reason for the cancellation.

Pope and his manager will remain under suspension until an investigation is completed, Ballin said.

Ballin said the suspension would be brought to the attention of the National Boxing Association, of which the local commission is a member, and that the fighter and manager possibly would be barred in the 34 States under jurisdiction of the N. B. A.

Dutch Bergman Accepts Loan Job With RFC

Former C. U. Athletic Head To Stay Here

Takes Up New Duties As Investigator Of Bids for Loans From Aviation Schools

A. J. ("Dutch") Bergman, who resigned last month as head football coach and director of athletics at Catholic University, yesterday took up new duties. He was hired by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as an investigator of bids for loans, particularly those asked by aviation schools.

The widely known former Notre Dame football star is fitted for his new position by 26 months of service with the United States Army Air Corps, 17 months of which he served in combat duty in France during World War I. A student at Notre Dame when war was declared, Bergman enlisted in the Army and was assigned at his request to the Air Corps. He was graduated from aviation schools at Post Field, Lawton, Okla., and Fort Selfridge, Clemens, Mich., before going abroad to see action as a pilot of fighter, bombing and reconnaissance planes.

Will Make Home Here

Bergman's job with RFC will take him all over the country, but he will continue to make his home here at 10 Rosemary Road, Chevy Chase.

A former All-America halfback at Notre Dame, where he blocked for the late George Gipp, Bergman came to Catholic University in 1931. Though his material was not of the best, he and his chief assistant, "Fod" Cotton, enjoyed considerable success with their football teams, which won 60 games, lost 31 and tied 4 between 1931 and 1940. Bergman's 1935 Cardinal eleven was the District's first representative in the Orange Bowl. In 1939 the C. U. team was invited to the Sun Bowl. His resignation at C. U. was to become effective June 1.

Rift in College Basketball Ranks Looms

By International News Service

New York, April 1.—Ruptured relations between the National Basketball Rules Committee and college coaches loomed today following the committee's recommendation that the new fangled fan-shaped backboard be universally adopted.

The coaches, whose opinion was expressed today by their local spokesmen, are irate.

They want the previously standard rectangular backboard, and, furthermore, they intend to have it at all costs.

Fan-Shaped Favored

The committee, in its annual meeting at Kansas City over the weekend, disregarded the coaches' official plea that the rectangular board and certain other equipment be made standard fixtures of the game. The rules makers' leaning toward the new board did not formally rule out the old type, although their idea seemed to be that the fan-shaped arrangement will be made official in the near future.

Committee Chairman Floyd Rowe, of Cleveland, explained the group merely invoked the wishes of coaches. He said replies to a questionnaire on the backboard were overwhelmingly in favor of the fan-shaped specimen.

Recommendations Ignored

In rebuttal, Nat Holman, retiring president of the college coaches and mentor at City College of New York, said that the replies favorable to the fan-shaped board were predominantly from high school coaches. Holman asserted:

"The secondary schools, through sheer force of number, are trying to impose their will on the rules committee.

"The recommendations of the college coaches have been ignored for two years now, and it's time we did something about it."

Three-Time Bowling Victors of Indian Spring

Youdie's Sets Team Record; Singer Stars

Paced by Julie Singer's 147 single and splendid 429 set, the Youdie's Men's Shop team in the Hebrew League broke the all-time team set record for the league by eight sticks, finishing with a fine 1,873 and topping their own mark of last year. Youdie's also won the odd game from Milton's Service despite the latter's 1,824 set and high game for the evening of 152 by Julie Frager and the near high set of 394 by Ralph Goldberg. Hayman's Cash Register took three straight from Sigma Alpha Kappa and now are but one game back of the leading Medisa quintet with Youdie's in third spot only three tilts behind the leader.

With the team of Blanz-Barkdull outdistancing a field of over 80 to finish on top with a nice 615 total that was good for first money of $12, the Women's Country Club Bowling League at Silver Spring closed its duckpin activities for the year with the usual post season high-low tournament. Other winners were Jarvis-Beiersdorf, 598, $10; Kane-McLaughlin, 593, $8; Luce-Winkler, 590, $6; J. Miller-VerLee, 578, $5, and Phillips-Wire 575, $4. Pauline Ford, league president, won $2 for high game, while Mrs. Don Walker took down the same amount for top set. Before the tournament, Mrs. Ford presented the Gertrude Paul Trophy to the champion team of the season, Indian Spring No. 1.

Bill King's 153-429 sparked his team to a 3-0 win over Dome Oil in the American League at Silver Spring and a jump from seventh to second place, just three tilts under the Silver Spring Market boys who lead the league. The Diamond lads also won top set with a count of 1,829 with the single going to Silver Spring Market with 641. Tom Walter's 404 set led his Shepherd Park Restaurant boys to a 3-0 win over Wright Jewelers and the latter are now four games under the top quintet. Mountz Deffinbaugh, Old Colony Laundry, also had a 400 set, finishing with 401.

Both Bob Samperton, Royal No. 1, and "Chief" Burrows, I. B. M. No. 2, had top game of 135 in the Office Appliance League at the Ice Palace but the latter's total counted the most as it helped his team take highs with 587 and 1,668 to lead a two out of three attack against U. E. F. Art Hawkes, Monroe, was the best set man with his 371. Royal No. 1 follows I. B. M. No. 2, the latter in first position, while A. B. Dick is in the third spot.

John Kinnehan, Friendship, was the best man in the Letter Carriers League at Brookland with a top single of 142 which he followed with a 377 set. The You Street boys, league leaders by two contests, won high single with 579 while a 1,643 count took the set for Ben Franklin. The Parcel Post boys won a sweep over the Ben Franklin Castoffs.

Cardozo Five 4th In Cage Tourney

Cardozo High School, of this city, was awarded a fourth-place consolation prize in the basketball tournament held recently at Fayetteville, N. C. Harvey Washington, of Cardozo, received a gold basketball for being selected on the all-tournament team.

Cardozo won three of four games. The locals bowed to Armstrong, of Richmond, Va., 45-34. They beat Laurinburg, N. C., 28-27 and 45-27, and Addison High, Roanoke, Va., 41-31.

Marty Gallagher Scoffs at Odds Favoring Galento Over Baer

Foggy Bottom Warrior 'Insulted' at Getting Offer as Sparring Partner for Tony Here

Marty Gallagher, who in true Tony Galento fashion tends a tavern, says Tony is something of a bum and furthermore that Buddy Baer will prove it April 8 at Uline Arena.

Marty let this be known yesterday between courses at his Georgia Avenue tavern, where he was serving them up and discussing the odds that favor Galento over Baer at 8 to 5.

"Can you imagine this," Marty demands with an offended air as he reached in his pocket to pull out a telegram. "Harry Mendel has the nerve to offer me $25 a round to spar with Galento—me who came off the floor to knock that guy stiff. Why I could beat him myself."

Tony Here Saturday

It develops that Two-Ton Tony, tiring of the refined atmosphere in the gymnasium of "Joe the Grouch" in Newark, N. J., is going to transfer his training quarters to Washington come Saturday and is in search of sparring partners.

But Marty will have no truck with such things. The big Irishman who was the pride of Foggy Bottom when he was in his heyday said he has never seen Buddy Baer box but is certain that Buddy is not such a bum that he cannot handle Galento.

"There was only one man who could get the most out of Tony Galento, and that was the late Joe Jacobs. "Tony's game enough and he hurts when he hits, but he will never work for Mendel like he worked for Jacobs and he will never be the fighter he once was," Marty explained, paying himself an indirect compliment.

Marty likes to remember the 13-round technical knockout victory he took over Tony here six years ago.

Misses Those Gloves

Marty, who's married and has three children, still has a hankering to get back into the fight business and has been pestering Promoter Ray Alvis to put him in the ring with somebody—but you can't get Marty to admit it.

"It would take a lot of money to get me back into boxing, but if Galento should knock out Buddy Baer, and a puncher always has that chance, I might try it again if there's any demand for the fight," he said. "I've always thought I could knock out Galento the best day he ever lived."

From Tony's manager, Mendel, meanwhile, comes information that Tony expects to train down to a mere 235 pounds for the 10-round battle at Uline.

Galento has forsaken Mme. Bey's training camp for the hangout of a character known around Newark as "Joe the Grouch," who Mendel shyly admits is a lad "almost as colorful as Tony himself."

"In front of the gym are three pool tables, and in the rear is a ring and all the necessary equipment," Mendel informs. "Joe the Grouch does all the announcing and before each session shouts, "No smoking or spitting on the floor.'"

Tony, who started out at 265 pounds, is now down to 245, Mendel said. He's boxing daily with Tom Schenck, a 210-pound colored boy; Eddie Cameron, also on the beefy side, and a 170-pounder, Al Palardy.

Bockwinkle, Dusek Meet Thursday

The familiar faces of Warren Bockwinkle and Rudy Dusek, favorites of wrestling addicts hereabouts, will adorn the semiwindup slot of tomorrow night's show at Turner's Arena, it was revealed yesterday. The snarling pair will perform on a card which will boast at least three other feature bouts.

In the main event, Ernie Dusek will uphold the family honor against Lou Plummer, Baltimore's wild man. A team scrap will involve Fred Grobmeier and Len Macaluso against Eddie Newman and Chief White Feather. And a new Hindu "sensation," Gamma Parker, will make his first appearance here against Red Brill, of New York.

A sidelight of the Plummer-Dusek main go developed yesterday when Ernie, a veteran objector, protested the plan to use Referee Casey Berger for his bout. Benny Bortnick, recently returned after a six-month layoff, would be much more acceptable in Ernie's eyes, though no complaint against Berger was filed by Plummer. The difference of opinion, however, was expected to die a natural death as soon as its publicity value expired.

Illinois U. Trustees Shun Alumni Plea

By the Associated Press

Chicago, April 1.—James M. Cleary, president of the University of Illinois board of trustees, which met today to discuss the university's budget, said the board "had not and would not" consider the petition of alumni in the St. Louis area who asked that Illinois' recent low ranking in football and track be investigated.

"Such a petition does not bring the matter before the trustees," Cleary said. "The problem is one for the athletic board, which is under capable direction."

Harry A. Hall, of Waukegan, former Illini football player and a member of the athletic board, said that its monthly meeting is scheduled for next Friday at Champaign.

"I've attended all the meetings and the matter has not come before us," he said. "When it does, we'll consider it."

The alumni, largely from southwestern Illinois and Missouri, circulated a petition several weeks ago and then adopted a resolution asking the 1941-42 contracts of university coaches be held up pending a study of the track and football situation.

Brown for Davis Deal Is Rejected

Los Angeles, April 1 (AP).—Manager Frankie Frisch disclosed today Larry MacPhail, Brooklyn boss, rejected his offer to trade Pitcher Mace Brown to the Dodgers for Curt Davis.

"He put up his hands as if he thought Davis was the best pitcher on his squad," remarked Frisch as he saw rain wash out today's scheduled game with the Athletics.

Frisch said MacPhail had shown interest in acquiring the veteran Infielder Stu Martin for use at Montreal but that the Pirates had other ideas about that deal, too.

Frisch said Rip Sewell now looked like his starting pitcher for the opening game April 15 against the Cubs with Bob Klinger and Johnny Lanning next choices.

German Edict Bans Norwegian Athletes for Life

By International News Service

Oslo, April 1.—German authorities today forbade eight of Norway's most famous athletes ever to perform again in public competition. The edict was issued as an aftermath of the athletes' alleged refusal to obey a Nazi decree by which they were ordered to break a Norwegian protest strike against a "new order" in Norwegian sports.

The athletes banned for life in public competition are Birger Ruud and Lars Bergendahl, champion ski runners; Skating King Harry Harsaldsen; Karl Kristiansen, Bjoern Kock, Eigil Solsvik and Ivar Stakk, all well-known wrestlers, and Skater Georg Grogh.

Mr. Stepper, who lived at 3019 Tennyson Street Northwest, leaves his wife, Mrs. Rose Stepper, and a daughter, Arlene.

Capital Home Loans Mount In Two Months

Home financing in the District of Columbia by all types of mortgage lenders in the first two months of 1941 amounted to $3,566,000, with 1,994 mortgages on homes being recorded, it was announced yesterday by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. These figures compare with 1,884 mortgages amounting to $3,084,000 in January and February of 1940.

The number and amount of home mortgages recorded by types of lenders in the District of Columbia in the first two months of this year were as follows:

	Number	Amount
Savings and loan associations	745	$3,812,000
Insurance companies	131	983,000
Bank and trust companies	212	1,414,000
Individuals	557	1,590,000
Others	349	1,767,000

Urban home financing in Virginia by all types of mortgage lenders in the first two months of 1941 amounted to $12,313,000, with 4,945 mortgages on homes being recorded. This compares with 3,729 mortgages amounting to $8,676,000 in January and February of 1940.

Home financing in Maryland in the first two months amounted to $9,444,000, with 3,376 mortgages on homes, against 2,919 mortgages amounting to $7,552,000 in January and February of 1940.

Central Loadings Heavy

A six-figure mark in cars handled, not reached in more than ten years, was established in the week ended March 29 by the New York Central System, which recorded a total of 100,836.

The last previous week in which the system handled 100,000 or more cars was the period ended November 1, 1930, when 107,000 cars were loaded.

Marsh To Share

John D. Marsh, president of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association, will be the guest speaker at the April meeting of the Cashier's Section on Thursday at the Jackson Place Coffee Shop.

Big Board Calls Parley Tomorrow On Control Plan

New York, April 1 (AP).—Wall Street's first families—the members of the New York Stock Exchange—were called today to decide whether they shall give out-of-towners direction of their "policy-making."

The members were asked to assemble Thursday afternoon, when the bell rings to close the day's trading, and discuss on the floor of the exchange itself a plan intended to remove control of the governing board from the hands of denizens of New York's financial district.

The proposal is known as the "Bradford plan" because of its sponsor, J. C. Bradford, of Nashville, Tenn. He suggested that if the majority of governors came from outside Manhattan Island, many "prejudices" around the country against stock-trading would be overcome.

Delay Is Foreseen On Seaboard Plan

New York, April 1 (AP).—Completion of the reorganization of Seaboard Air Line Railway may be delayed many months, according to statements made today at a hearing before Special Master Tazewell Taylor.

William Wyer, engineer and consultant for the Seaboard underlying bondholders' committee, said it would take from 7½ to 10½ months to finish a study of terminal costs and evolve a plan of reorganization and a basis for allocation of securities.

Nebraska Utility Maps $22,000,000 Offering

New York, April 1 (AP).—Financial quarters reported today plans were under way to offer $22,000,000 of revenue bonds of the Consumers Public Power District of Nebraska, proceeds to be used to acquire Nebraska properties of the Iowa-Nebraska Light & Power Co. John Nuveen & Co. was said to be the offering firm.

London Stocks

London, April 1 (AP).—Securities traders contended with the latest international complications by doing as little business as possible. Price movements, as a result, were narrowly irregular. While underlying sentiment was predominantly cheerful because of the successful naval engagement with Italy in the Mediterranean, traders held back because of the Balkan situation and the uncertainties surrounding Anglo-French relations. British government bonds lost as much as ⅛ of a point. Egyptian loans advanced on buying from the Middle East.

Trustees' Choice

WILLIAM E. WOOD,

New President, Board Elected By Va. Utility

By the Associated Press

Charlottesville, Va., April 1.—William Elliot Wood was named president of the Virginia Public Service Co. today at the annual meeting of stockholders here. A board of directors also was elected.

Wood, who comes to V. P. S. from the Stone & Webster Corporation, New York, succeeds M. J. O'Connell, who resigned in January.

Named to the board were J. C. Carpenter, jr, Clifton Forge; J. M. Costello, Alexandria; C. A. Ferguson, Newport News; J. W. Johns, Charlottesville; E. W. Morehouse, New York; W. H. Schwarschild, Richmond; Gilpin Willson, jr., Staunton; W. E. Wood, Alexandria, and Carl E. Yates, New York.

Wood is a native of Aiken, S. C., and a graduate of Georgia Tech. He came to Virginia from Texas in 1925 as vice president of the Virginia Electric & Power Co. at Richmond. In 1927 he became president of the company and served in that capacity until 1929, when he became connected with the Stone & Webster Service Corporation, New York.

In a statement issued through V. S. P. offices, Woood said:

"I am delighted to return to Virginia and to have again the opportunity of joining in the development of the utility industry in this area. The task facing us is hard because of the remarkable expansion of the need for electric power in many sections, but I am confident that a constructive solution will be found for our financial and other requirements. I shall certainly devote my best efforts to the upbuilding of the company so that it will not lag in making its contribution to the rapidly growing industrial and agricultural development of the territory we serve."

Power Output Holds Steady in February

By the Associated Press

Electric energy produced in the United States for public use during February was reported by the Federal Power Commission yesterday at 12,039,133,000 kilowatt-hours.

The average daily production was 429,969,000 kilowatt-hours, virtually the same as the average in January but an increase of 10.6 per cent over February, 1940.

Cotton Futures

New York, April 1 (AP).—Sellers dominated the cotton futures market today despite a few attempts at rallies.

Prices finished 7 to 8 points lower but up 6 to 8 points from the session's lows on local covering late in the afternoon.

Another flurry of hedge selling came as the aftermath of heavy sales of spot cotton in the South on Monday. Added pressure came from nervous liquidation and profit taking prompted by lower trends in other commodities.

The market got a moderate bounce from the Washington news the Senate Agriculture Committee had approved the Smith bill calling for "freezing" of all cotton stocks on which Government loans have been made. Bullish implications of the proposal, however, were soon lost in the belief the measure had little chance for Administration approval.

Worth Street textile agents reported only a few fill-in sales for nearby needs but prices held unchanged at recent high levels.

Exports Monday nil; season so far 799,509. Port receipts 5,734. Port stocks 3,456,714.

Aluminum Co. In Year Earns $25.12 a Share

By the Associated Press

Aluminum Co. of America reported yesterday consolidated net income for 1940 of $44,146,297, or $25.12 a common share, compared with $36,633,389, or $19.77 a share, in 1939.

Arthur V. Davis, chairman of the board, told stockholders: "production, the higest in the company's history, exceeded by 26 per cent the production of 1939; deliveries exceeded those of 1939 by 27 per cent; the number of employes exceeded those in 1939 by 38 per cent and pay rolls exceeded those of 1939 by 42 per cent. In December of 1940 there were 42,941 employes on the pay rolls of the company. . . .

"The company's Federal, State and local taxes applicable to 1940 amounted to $37,772,000 as compared with $14,723,000 for 1939. The 1940 taxes are equivalent to $25.62 per share of outstanding common stock.

"During the year 1940, the requirements of the national defense program were given precedence over all other considerations. . . . The company's expansion program to meet the national emergency involves capital expenditures considerably in excess of $150,000,000.

"The employment for National defense of a large percentage of the present aluminum production necessarily reduces the amount available for civilian uses, creating an important situation in civilian markets. Every effort is being made, however, to alleviate this situation."

Columbia Broadcasting

Columbia Broadcasting System reported for the fiscal year ended December 28 net profit of $5,006,633, equal to $2.91 a share on the combined "A" and "B" shares. This compared with $5,001,529, or $2.93 a combined share, in 1939.

Mead Corp.

The Mead Corp. (paper, paperboard and wood extracts) reported for the year ended December 28 net profit of $1,426,881, equal to $1.56 a share on its common stock, compared with $744,028, or 45 cents a share, in 1939.

Lily-Tulip Cup Corp.

Lily-Tulip Cup Corp. reported for 1940 net profit of $644,119, equal to $3.39 a share on the capital stock, compared with $682,217, or $3.60 a share, in 1939.

Universal-Cyclops Steel

Universal-Cyclops Steel Corp. reported 1940 net profit of $1,088,671, equal to $2.18 a share on the capital stock, compared with $864,219, or $1.73 a share, in 1939.

May Department Stores

May Department Stores Co. reported net profit for the year ended January 31, 1941, of $5,046,798 after provision of $2,024,000 for Federal income taxes. The earning was equal to $4.10 a share on 1,230,396 shares of capital stock, including 136,956 treasury shares. That compared with $4,402,894, or $3.58 a share, in the preceding fiscal year.

Net sales were $112,954,904, largest in the company's history, and compared with $103,905,198 in the previous year.

Ingersoll-Rand Co.

Ingersoll-Rand Co. makers of industrial machinery, and domestic subsidiaries reported net profit for 1940 of $6,999,390 after provision of $1,000,000 for contingencies, equal to $7.03 a common share after preferred dividend requirements. In 1939 the company and wholly owned subsidiaries reported a net profit of $6,010,594, or $6.01 a common share. The 1940 report included earnings of foreign subsidiaries only to the extent of earned dividends actually received.

Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co.

Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co., operator of a Great Lakes ore fleet, reported 1940 net profits of $4,382,079, equal to $8.99 a share on preferred stock. This compares with net profit of $3,378,394, or $6.93 per preferred share, for the previous year.

North American Aviation

North American's sale of planes year ended December 31, 1940, was reported by North American Aviation, Inc. This was equal to $2.06 a share on the outstanding capital stock and compared to $2.06 a share for 1939. Net income for 1939 was $7,088,092.

North Americans' sale of planes in 1940 was the highest in the company's history, amounting to $36,862,514. The year's orders were $190,714,375, including a U. S. Army Air Corps order of $72,857,049 for twin-engine bombers. Backlog of unfilled orders was $204,451,663.

Northern States Power Co.

Robert F. Pack, president, informed stockholders in his annual report that the Northern States Power Co.'s system's earnings during 1940 were the highest in history. The system's consolidated net income last year was $6,186,057, which was $257,300, or 4.34 per cent above that of 1939.

Continental Oil Co.

Continental Oil Co. reported consolidated net earnings for 1940 of $4,317,658, or 92 cents a share, compared with $6,304,504, or $1.35 a share, in 1939.

American Potash & Chemical

American Potash & Chemical Corporation and domestic subsidiaries for the year ended December 31, 1940, had net income of $2,378,008, equal to $4.50 a common share, as against $3,225,753, or $6.10 a share, in 1939.

Stocks Edge Forward in Light Buying; Canadian Issues Show Special Strength

New York, April 1—The stock market today took another short step on the rallying trail. While gains for leaders were confined to small fractions and minor declines were well distributed at the close, a number of specialities, including Canadian Securities, were pushed up 1 to more than 4 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues held a net advance of .1 of a point at 41.6. Transfers of 433,730 shares compared with 435,610 the day before.

Mounting earnings, dividends, freight traffic, steel operations, commercial bank loans, retail spending and defense disbursements tended to offset to some extent apprehension the United States was on the verge of a break with the Axis powers. A bit disturbing was word from Washington that Germany and Italy had demanded the release of seized ships and crews in American ports. European war dispatches, on the other hand, seemed more optimistic than otherwise. Labor news still was spotty but the belief was growing that more strike settlements were in the offing.

Canadian stocks and bonds were given a lift in the wake of reports the Dominion was considering an exchange agreement that would put the northern currency at parity with the dollar.

Sale of a Stock Exchange seat for $22,000, off $3,000 from a previous transaction at a new bottom since 1898, was far from pleasing to the financial district.

Announcement the British had liquidated further large blocks of American securities in March was viewed as encouraging. After today's close underwriters offered 186,183 shares of National Dairy "over-the-counter" at the final listed price of 13¾. It was off ⅜ on the day. The stock was said to have come from British sources.

American Car & Foundry preferred was up 4⅞ at 65½ as directors voted a dividend of $1.75 a share on this noncumulative issue, first payment since April, 1930. The common gained 1¾.

Canadian Pacific was one of the fastest movers, up ⅜ at 4¼ at a new 1941 peak. Other highs were posted for International Nickel, McIntyre Porcupine and Chicago Great Western preferred.

Better than average performers were Dome Mines, Hiram Walker, General Steel Castings preferred, Union Pacific, Cerro de Pasco, American Telephone and American Can.

Holding slight improvement were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Santa Fe and N. Y. Central.

Consolidated Edison and North American, climbers of yesterday among utility common stocks, took a rest behind minus signs. On the offside also were Glenn Martin, Youngstown Sheet, Great Western, Kennecott, Sears Roebuck, General Electric and Montgomery Ward.

Some cashing in appeared in recent strong secondary rail bonds but most ended well ahead. Commodities slipped. Wheat at Chicago was off 1 to 1¾ cents a bushel and corn down ¾ to 1. Cotton lost 35 to 50 cents a bale.

Improved in an irregular Curb were American Cyanamid "B," American Gas, Aluminum of America, Glen Alden Coal, Pennroad and Republic Aviation. In losing territory were Electric Bond & Share, Humble Oil, Bell Aircraft and Niagara Hudson Power. Volume here was around 83,000 shares versus 84,000 Monday.

Preview Is Held For New Packard; Many Changes

Detroit, April 1 (AP).—A new model automobile that Packard engineers and designers have been working on for several months was disclosed at a private preview today as departing sharply from the traditional lines of the company's conservative styling policy.

Named the "Clipper" model, the new car, expected to be extended further when the company's 1942 model lines are introduced, features a lower body design, rakish windshield and contoured rear deck. It is powered with a straight eight-cyclinder engine developing 125 horsepower.

Engineering changes include a shortened propeller shaft made possible by an extension to the transmission and the incorporation of a rear shock absorber that is said to prevent sidesway.

March Stock Trade Far Under '40 Total

New York, April 1 (AP).—Turnover in shares in the New York Stock Exchange in March totaled 10,111,344 shares compared with 8,969,195 in February and 16,270,368 in March, 1940.

Bonds made a relatively more active showing with total transactions for the month at $214,882,100 face value against $123,647,000 in the previous month and $135,239,000 in March last year.

Royal Dutch Oil Home Office Moved From The Hague

New York, April 1 (AP).—The Royal Dutch Petroleum Co., which operates throughout the world, today sent a message to shareholders saying, "The company is now conducting its business free from all control by the enemy and all its resources are on the side of the battle for freedom."

After the German occupation of Holland last spring Royal Dutch became a corporate refugee and shifted its home office from The Hague to Willenstad, Curacao, in the Netherlands West Indies.

Stockholders were informed today that "transfer of the domicile of the company and all its Dutch subsidiaries" from The Hague to Curacao has been completed.

$22,000,000 Issue Filed by Koppers

By the Associated Press

The Koppers Co. filed a registration statement with the Securities Commission yesterday covering a proposed new issue of $22,000,000 first mortgage and collateral trust bonds.

One series, due March 1, 1961, would bear interest of 3½ per cent, and another series due semiannually September 1, 1941, to September 1, 1947, would bear 2 per cent.

Canada Dollar Sweeps Higher On 'Free' Mart

By the Associated Press

New York, April 1.—The Canadian dollar took one of the biggest steps forward in months in the free foreign exchange market today and landed at 1941's peak price with a gain of 2¼ cents.

Money dealers reported extremely active business in sharp contrast with the few thousands of dollars which have changed hands in recent slow dealings.

Demand, according to Canadian banking quarters, was based on unconfirmed reports from Ottawa that a foreign exchange agreement between the United States and Canada was under consideration.

The agreement would provide for acceptance at par by the United States of the Dominion currency. The Canadian unit now sells at an official discount of 9.09 per cent and an unofficial discount of around 12.5 per cent.

The United States would benefit, according to the Ottawa reports, by having Canadian import restrictions lifted on manufactured goods and raw materials.

Wrigley Offers Big Aluminum Supply to OPM

Chicago, April 1 (AP).—A half-million pounds of aluminum used to make chewing gum wrappers was offered for national defense purposes today by the William Wrigley, Jr., Co.

In a communication to E. R. Stettinius, director of the United States Priorities Board of the Office of Production Management, President Philip K. Wrigley said "in the interest of national defense we will be more than glad to change our wrappings and make available to you our entire stock of aluminum ingots."

The company estimated the aluminum stock was large enough to produce 996 complete airplane wings for Army and Navy craft.

Stanolind Boosts Crude Oil Price

Chicago, April 1 (AP).—The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana today advanced its posted prices for crude oil in Oklahoma and Kansas 5 cents a barrel.

Stanolind Oil Purchasing Co. increased its price the same amount in North Texas. Where the company met competitive postings on the Gulf Coast, it boosted prices from 2 to 10 cents.

Dividends Resumed By American Car

New York, April 1 (AP).—American Car & Foundry Co. today resumed quarterly dividends on the noncumulative preferred stock when directors voted a payment of $1.75 a share, first since $2.50 was paid in April, 1938. The dividend is payable April 19 to holders of record April 12.

Charles J. Hardy, president, said the resumption of dividends on the common stock would be considered by directors at the close of the company's fiscal year on April 30.

May Delivery Leads Slump In Wheat List

By the Associated Press

Chicago, April 1.—Profit taking, speculative short selling and reports of increased volume of loan wheat redemptions combined today to rout wheat prices as much as 1¾ cents a bushel.

May wheat led the retreat and at the close all commodities on the Board of Trade, except soybeans, were at or near the lowest levels of the day. Prices fluctuated erratically, showing in inclination to reflect the action of surrounding markets. Soybeans was the only future able to break through yesterday's closing levels, but these too finished 1⅛-1⅝ cents off after rallying from extreme losses of more than 2 cents.

Wheat finished 1-1¾ cents under Monday's closing levels, May 89½-⅝, July 88¾-⅞; corn dropped ¼-1 cent, May 66⅛-¼, July 66⅞-67; oats were ⅝-¾ off; rye declined ⅝-⅞ and lard closed 15-20 cents a hundred pounds lower.

An Answer to Investors Who Ask "How Small is a Small Account?"
These messages to the investing public have repeatedly stated that we welcome small accounts. The response has been gratifying, but we feel that an even more explicit statement on the subject would be of benefit to all concerned. To those investors who would like to know exactly how small are the accounts on our books, we cite the following interesting statistics:
We have a total of 8,000 margin accounts (securities) with an aggregate debit balance of $31,000,000. But - of these 8,000 accounts more than half have debit balances under $1,000! 2,650 are in the $1,000 - $5,000 class; 890 in the $5,000 - $25,000 group; and only 175 are over $25,000. It must be apparent at a glance that the volume represented by the large number of small accounts is as important to us as that of the small number of large accounts.
Our interest rates on debit balances are extremely low; we have no service charges of any kind. As a customer you will have at your disposal all our facilities, including one of the largest and most highly trained research departments for investigating and analyzing the facts about securities.
Won't you write us, or better yet, visit our offices for an informal discussion of your investment problems? No obligation, of course. I personally will be glad to give you all the time you need.
Sincerely yours,
George A. Garrett

U. S. Probing Charges Against Italian Veterans

State Department officials said yesterday that they were investigating charges that the Federation of the Italian World War Veterans in the United States was not properly using funds collected for relief purposes.

The anti-Fascist Mazzini Society in San Francisco disclosed it had filed a protest against other Italian agencies described as pro-Fascist being allowed to collect funds in the United States.

The federation under investigation was shown by State Department records to have collected $82,236 and expended $69,045. It registered with the State Department December 19, 1940.

The Mazzini Society charged the Italian War Veterans Association and the Opere Assistenzial were Fascist organizations authorized to raise funds for Italian war relief, but said that "in effect they aim to stir up the Italo-American communities in the United States in favor of Mussolini's war of aggression."

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE United States for the District of Columbia. Mamie Humphreys, 710 E Street Northeast, Washington, D. C., plaintiff, vs. Oscar T. Humphreys, 3534 Canal Street, New Orleans, Louisiana, defendant. No. 61630. Equity. The object of this suit is to enlarge the decree of divorce from bed and board heretofore granted the plaintiff in the above entitled action from the defendant on the 16th day of December, 1936, on the ground of cruelty into a decree of absolute divorce from the bond of marriage on the ground that the separation of the parties has continued for two years and more since the date of said decree. On motion of the plaintiff, it is this 18th day of March, A. D. 1941, ordered that the defendant, Oscar T. Humphreys, 3534 Canal Street, New Orleans, Louisiana, cause his appearance to be entered herein on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after the day of the first publication of this order; otherwise the cause will be proceeded with as in case of default. Provided, that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for three successive weeks before said day in The Washington Post Newspaper and in the Washington Law Reporter. T. ALAN GOLDSBOROUGH, Justice. A true copy. Test: (Seal.) CHARLES E. STEWART, Clerk. By ANDREW A. HORNER, Assistant Clerk. 2.9.16.

with Glynn

Someone, somewhere, has propounded the theory that Washington and Hollywood, two American cities, resemble each other very closely.

The reason, as best it can be recalled, was becaues they are inhabited by exactly the same kinds of people—celebrities and those who are not celebrities.

At least one Hollywood reporter is having a chance to find out today, however, what it's worth. That's Hedda Hopper, who runs a daily Hollywood column in The Post, who broadcasts over WJSV and the Columbia network Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and who does multifarious other things, like making movie shorts every few weeks and appearing in the full-length jobs from time to time.

Miss Hopper was invited to attend the anunal Stunt Party of the Women's National Press Club Tuesday night by Mrs. Helen Essary, the president, and pretty pleasedly boarded a plane after her Monday broadcast and arrived in Washington Tuesday morning, which gave her time to get around and see some of the sights and look up a couple of old acquaintances, as well as get to the dinner.

While Miss Hopper is in Washington her Hollywood commentary over C. B. S. is being taken over by a visiting New York reporter in the film capital, a girl named Kate Smith, whom you'll hear in Hedda's spot at 6:15 tonight. People certainly are getting around these days.

Contract Bridge

Foremost of the country's women contract-bridge stars, blond, slender, unassuming Mrs. A. M. Sobel, has displayed a daring and a sparkle rarely associated with women players.

She met a hand with partner Charles Goren during the final session of the recent Goldman Pairs which she and the Philadelphia expert won. Holding ten tricks, eight of them in hearts, Mrs. Sobel realized after one round of bidding that she would not be able to buy the contract at game in her major suit, as the adversaries had quickly established a sacrifice declaration in spades.

Cleverly adjusting herself to the situation, the woman champion abandoned hearts in favor of a three no-trump and four no-trump call, though she was without protection in one suit. The opponents, outwitted, not surprisingly doubled, failed to open the vulnerable suit, and due to discarding difficulties, allowed declarer to win an extra trick on the hand.

The cards and bidding are shown in today's box. In the play, East opened the spade king which declarer won with the ace, and then made things embarrassing for her opponents by playing out eight hearts. East threw off the club ace to protect his spades and diamonds, and West not realizing that Mrs. Sobel held the singleton diamond ace discarded down to three diamonds and the king of clubs. This enabled Mrs. Sobel to play the ace of diamonds, throw West in with the club king and win an extra trick with dummy's diamond king when West was forced to exit with a diamond.

North made four no-trump and one over, losing a club and a diamond.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES — Yankee Clipper — BY MILTON CANIFF

DID YOU HEAR ME, WOMAN? — KNOCK A FEW OF THIS FOOL'S TEETH OUT WITH THOSE BRASS KNUCKLES! HE YEARNS SO FOR THE TOUCH OF YOUR HAND.
OH, KIEL THIS IS TERRIBLE! HOW CAN YOU ASK ME TO DO SUCH A THING?
IF YOU DON'T I SHALL! — AND AFTERWARD, YOU SHALL BE FULLY REWARDED FOR YOUR INTEREST IN THIS CLOD!
WHY DON'T YOU GO AHEAD? YOU USED TO BE DYNAMITE — BUT YOU SEEM TO HAVE SOLD OUT TO THIS MUGG'S EGO FOR A FUR COAT AND A MEAL TICKET! GO ON! ... OBEY YOUR MASTER!
MILTON CANIFF

MARY WORTH'S FAMILY — BY DALE ALLEN

GREAT LITTLE GIRL, PAT MERVYN! FRIEND OF YOURS, MRS. PERRY?
NOT EXACTLY, MR. HAWES -- SHE'S A BUSINESS ASSOCIATE OF MY HUSBAND'S!
SHE'S GOT A REAL HEAD FOR BUSINESS. THAT GAL! SHE'LL ALWAYS GET WHAT SHE WANTS!
SHE'LL ALWAYS TRY!
SURE YA WOULDN'T WANT TO TAKE A CHANGE ON MY RUMBA?
NO! -- I -- I DON'T FEEL WELL -- I WANT TO GO HOME!
YOU -- ? GOSH! SURE! I'LL TAKE YA TO THE CHECK ROOM!
DALE

DONALD DUCK — A Spelling Bee With a Sting — BY WALT DISNEY

MICKEY FINN — Food for Thought! — BY LANK LEONARD

AND HE SAID HE MIGHT PUT ME IN HIS REVUE AT "THE NEST"
"STONEY" HART, EH? WELL, IF YOU WANT TO WORK FOR HIM, IT'S OKAY WITH ME, TOMMY!
BUT I WANT TO STICK WITH YOU, MR. TENNY!
LISTEN, TOMMY — MY RADIO GANG ONLY PLAY BENEFITS — I'M NOT OUT AFTER DOUGH — IF KIDS HAVE TALENT I JUST GIVE 'EM A HELPING HAND BY TAKING 'EM AROUND WHERE THEY CAN BE SEEN! I'M A NEWSPAPERMAN — NOT AN ACTOR'S AGENT!
THE ONLY THING IS THIS — IF YOU STAYED WITH MY GANG FOR AWHILE, I MIGHT BE ABLE TO GET YOU A REAL GOOD SPOT! "STONEY" HART IS A SHARPSHOOTER AND I DON'T THINK HIS NIGHT CLUB IS MAKING MUCH MONEY! BUT YOU MAKE YOUR OWN DECISION!
THINK OVER WELL WHAT DICK TOLD YOU, TOMMY!
I WILL, MICKEY! AND GEE — THANKS A MILLION!
STAGE DOOR
NO ADMITTANCE

DIXIE DUGAN — Company Arrives — BY J. P. McEVOY AND H. J. STRIEBEL

I UNDERSTAND THESE DUGANS HAVE BEEN QUITE POOR UP TO NOW. THEIR $10,000 IS JUST WHAT WE'LL NEED
I HOPE WE'RE NOT TOO LATE
WAIT! I WOULDN'T ADVISE GOING TO THE FRONT DOOR — THEY MIGHT NOT LET US IN QUICK THINKING, MISTER — IF WE GO TO THE BACK DOOR THEY'LL THINK WE'RE A COUPLE OF BRUSH MEN OR MILK MEN
WHAT MAKES YOU THINK WE'LL NEED YOUR PROTECTION? ARE YOU EXPECTING COMPANY?
KNOCK KNOCK KNOCK

DON WINSLOW OF THE NAVY — Done in Darkness — BY FRANK MARTINEK

BUT THAT'S MAGIC!
NO, WE SIMPLY TREAT THIS WIRE WITH A NEW ACID-RESISTING COATING WHICH DISSOLVES IN THE DARK
DURING DAYLIGHT HOURS THIS ACID IS HELD BACK FROM THE POWDERED SUBSTANCE AND THESE BOMBS PLANTED INSIDE THE NAVY YARD ARE HARMLESS
THAT'S RIGHT! ALL THOSE FIRES HAVE HAPPENED AT NIGHT
EXACTLY... WHEN WORK ROOMS AND MACHINE SHOPS ARE EMPTY. NO WITNESSES... IT'S THE PERFECT CRIME!

BIG CHIEF WAHOO — BY SAUNDERS AND WOGGON

STEVE ROPER'S HOME IS THE SETTING FOR A TENSE DRAMA! STEVE HAS, ON A FOOLISH IMPULSE, MADE LOVE TO MINNIE-HA-HA, SWEETHEART OF HIS PAL CHIEF WAHOO —
THOUGH STEVE BELIEVES THE CHIEF UNAWARE OF WHAT HAS HAPPENED, WAHOO DOES KNOW! AND, UNDER AN OLD TRIBAL LAW, HE MUST TAKE HIS BEST FRIEND'S LIFE, TO WIPE OUT THE DISHONOR!
HI, CHIEF! WHY THE LONG PAN?
WAHOO LONESOME SINCE MINNIE BO TO HOLLYWOOD! NOTHIN' TO DO 'ROUND BIG TEPEE!
WE CAN'T HAVE A GUEST OF OURS BORED! GOT ANY SUGGESTIONS?
YEP! HEAP FINE GUNS, MEBBE WE TAKE UM OVER IN VALLEY — SHOOTUM AT TARGET — HUH?

KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED — See "King of the Royal Mounted" as a movie serial, Fridays, at Ashton Theater, Clarendon, Va.

DON'T WORRY, MOUNTIE! I CAN SHOOT MY WAY OUTA HERE!
SUDDENLY THE BLINDING BEAM OF A SEARCHLIGHT STABS THE DARKNESS!
DROP THAT GUN OR WE'LL DO THE SHOOTING!
